NEUTRALS' PLAN TO STOP CHACO WAR ACCEPTED

Bolivia Agrees to Terms Following Action by Paraguay.

LEAGUE IS INFORMED OF PEACE CONDITIONS

Agents of Two Nations Will Be Asked to Parley for Final Settlement.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Peaceful settlement of the war now raging in the Chaco between Bolivia and Paraguay is expected to follow the acceptance by Bolivia yesterday of conditions of peace proposed by a commission of neutral nations. Paraguay had already accepted on October 14. The United States, as chairman of the peace-making commission, has thus shown the League that problems affecting the peace of America can be effectively handled by American peace machinery. In accordance with the agreement between the United States and the League of Nations, the State Department last night forwarded them a copy of the conditions upon which peace has been brought to the two conflicting powers.

Bolivia had been holding out against all offers of mediation until the fall of the Bolivian cabinet on Monday. President Daniel Salamanca formed a new group of ministers and opened the way for acceptance of the terms of the neutrals.

Assistant Secretary of State Francis White, as chairman of the commission of neutral nations, consisting of Cuba, Mexico, Uruguay and Colombia, had proposed a three-point program of conciliation which will form the basis of agreement.

Conditions of Peace Plan.

The peace program was accepted by telegraphic instructions from the Bolivian foreign office yesterday, and today the neutrals will invite representatives of both countries to a discussion of its conditions. They are as follows:

First—The separation of the troops in the Chaco, which is tantamount to a cessation of hostilities and a withdrawal;

Second—The demobilization of reserves of both countries;

Third—Reduction and limitation at a certain definite figure of the regular armies of both countries.

The peace proposal has been supplemented by other points equally as important in the negotiations. These additional points are as follows:

A military commission will proceed to the Chaco to see that the conditions are complied with; the two gov-

Seventh Plane Captured In War on Smugglers

Palm Beach, Fla., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Customs agents today reported seizure of their seventh airplane in a year of warfare against aerial smuggling from the Bahamas.

Late yesterday near Stuart they discovered a dismantled plane being transported on a truck. They took possession of both plane and truck, but several men on the truck escaped. The agent believe the plane was forced down near Stuart several days ago.

Bruening Is Stoned By Communist Mob

Former German Chancellor Escapes Injury When Car Is Attacked.

Bamberg, Bavaria (Thursday), Oct. 27 (U.P.).—Former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening was stoned by a mob of Communists and followers of Adolf Hitler early this morning, but escaped without injury.

Bruening was leaving a meeting of the Bavarian People's party, where he had delivered an address.

A crowd of several thousand outside the auditorium shouted epithets at him, calling him the "Hunger Chancellor," as he walked toward his automobile. After Bruening entered his car the Communists and Hitlerites began bombarding it with stones. They shattered the rear window.

Three policemen were injured when they charged the mob with batons.

Cleveland Scouts Aid Hunt for Missing Boy

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Cleveland Boy Scouts were mobilized today to comb the district where 8-year-old Albert Holleron last was seen on Saturday.

Discounting reports that the missing boy had been seen alive in various parts of the city, authorities issued orders for the Scouts to search along streams and the heavily wooded sections near the lad's home.

SEWER OVERFLOW REMEDY MAPPED

Fifth and Ingraham Streets Trouble Will Be Ended by Plan Studied.

As the result of almost two months' intensive investigation engineers in the District sewer department are almost ready to suggest a solution to the Fifth and Ingraham streets storm water sewer problem that has for a number of years troubled District officials and residents of the area affected.

The detailed plan for correcting defects in the system that has several times caused serious flooding of cellars and the blocking of streets with 3 or 4 feet of water after an unusually heavy thundershower has not been worked out, but sewer department engineers are confident that the trouble can be eliminated without entirely rebuilding the system.

Following a preliminary investigation immediately after the most recent overflow, that of Labor Day, sewer department officials were afraid that the entire main might have to be rebuilt in the Fifth and Ingraham area at a cost of several million dollars. Remedies had been applied previously after disastrous overflows, but the defect had not been corrected.

The plan which will be submitted to Sanitary Engineer J. B. Gordon involves an enlarging of the main, but at a much lower cost than reconstruction. In fact, sewer department officials believe that the work can be done without specific appropriation, which would be required for rebuilding. This scheme is now being studied by the construction division.

The Fifth and Ingraham streets storm water system was started in 1905 and built over a period of several years. Sewer department officials state that it is fundamentally sound in design and construction; yet every cloudburst has brought flooded cellars and streets and subsequent protests from residents and citizens' associations of the vicinity.

One of the reasons why the system has been unable to carry away the Large Wheat Credit To Chinese Indorsed

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., today announced willingness to indorse Chinese Nationalist government obligations for the proposed 15,000,000-bushel credit sale of wheat to China.

This announcement, made by A. R. Shumway, president, followed a statement attributed Monday to Wilson McCarthy, a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, that the R. F. C. would finance the credit sale, if the notes involved were indorsed by the Farmers National Grain Coporation or by North Pacific.

U. S. REPLACING SOME WORKERS WHO LOST JOBS

POOL IN OPERATION FOR THREE WEEKS

Departments Have Already Done Most of Their Slashing, Babcock Says.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Replacement on a small but growing scale of some few of the hundreds of Federal workers swept out of jobs by inflexible economy legislation was reported yesterday at the Civil Service Commission.

Increasing ratio of appointments over discharges and indefinite furloughs was noted after three weeks' operation of the new reemployment pool, set up last month under White House authorization.

While the start is small, it is significant in light of virtual stoppage of appointments following last session's appropriation cuts. Then, there is reasonable assurance departments affected have done the worst of their slashing, E. Claude Babcock, secretary of the commission, pointed out.

Only 566 on List.

Yesterday there were only 566 discharged or furloughed persons, or workers about to be discharged or furloughed, on the reemployment list. The week ended October 8 there were 578 on the list. There has been a gradual diminution ever since.

On the other side of the picture, the number of appointees has been growing. Last week twenty furloughed or discharged employes whose names appear in the reemployment pool were put to work again. The first week after the list was established only six persons actually were reemployed.

Each of the vacancies filled has to be passed on by the President, under the economy act.

Make Other Connections.

Secretary Babcock points out that dozens of furloughed or discharged workers again have made Government connections without the assistance of the commission, and these replacements are not reflected in the commission's figures. Nor are those persons named to jobs for which pool

Two Soldiers Held In Removal of Data

Are Seized in Honolulu; Reported Detected by American Agent.

Honolulu, T. H., Oct. 26 (U.P.).—High Army officials revealed today that two American soldiers have been arrested here on charges of removing confidential reports from Army files without permission.

The officials denied that the soldiers had been negotiating sale of war maps to a foreign power.

A large crowd of civilians witnessed the arrests in the heart of the Waikiki district last night. The plans involved were understood to show Hawaiian fortifications and details for mobilization in the event of war. Reports were that the two soldiers first dealt with an agent whom they thought was a representative of a foreign power. The man actually was an agent of the United States, it was rumored.

Capital Marine Corps Officer Slain in Cuba

Investigation Is Begun in Death of Native of Norwood, Va.

An immediate inquiry was launched last night, when word was received at United States Marine Corps Headquarters here that Lieut. Edmund McClelland Callaway, formerly of this city, was mysteriously shot and killed while stationed at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

No details of Lieut. Callaway's death were available. Marine Corps authorities declared their only information was that "he died Tuesday from a gunshot wound."

Circumstances surrounding the shooting presented an air of mystery. The formal announcement of Lieut. Callaway's death carried no further details. No reason was given for the apparent delay in notifying Marine Corps Headquarters of his death.

Lieut. Callaway served in Washington for several years. In 1927 he headed a detachment of Marines sent from here during the uprising in China. He returned here in 1930 and remained until ordered in February, this year, to Guantanamo Bay.

Born in Norwood, Nelson County, Va., in 1894, Lieut. Callaway enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1917. He married a childhood sweetheart, Mary Cabell, of Alexandria, while in China in October, 1928. She later went with her husband to Guantanamo Bay.

Mrs. Ferguson Bryan, a sister of Mrs. Callaway and wife of a Navy lieutenant stationed at Annapolis, Md., when notified of Lieut. Callaway's death at her home in Alexandria last night, left immediately for

LIEUT. EDMUND McC. CALLAWAY.

Norfolk to sail for Guantanamo Bay. She will accompany her sister and Lieut. Callaway's body here.

Lieut. Callaway has a twin brother, Patrick Henry Callaway, a member of the faculty of the Episcopal High School in Alexandria.

Lieut. and Mrs. Callaway were reared in Norwood. Living in Alexandria when he was sent to China, she followed him a year later and they were married.

A sister, Miss Patricia Callaway, of Norwood, and several brothers also survive. Appointed a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve in 1918, Lieut. Callaway's rise was rapid. He received the same rank in the regular service a year later, and in 1922 was appointed a first lieutenant. His parents are dead.

LINDBERGH SUSPECT WILL GO TO MADRID

Jean Saul Admits Knowing Something of Distribution of $50,000.

Seville, Spain, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Acting on information from the American consulate, police today detained a man who gave his name as Jean Saul for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

They said he had admitted that he knew something about the kidnaping and the distribution of the $50,000 ransom paid for the child's return, but that he had refused to answer further questions until he could face the American police. The name Saul, police said, probably is an alias, nor were they certain of the man's nationality.

He was apprehended after the American vice consul had received an anonymous note from two American sailors, who said they had talked with Saul in a cafe here and that "he seemed to know entirely too much about the Lindbergh kidnaping."

The vice consul asked the police to investigate and it was discovered that Saul's identification papers were not in order. He is to be sent to Madrid for further examination.

After attending a preliminary examination the vice consul announced that he had withdrawn from the case, leaving it entirely in the hands of the police, although he will forward a complete report to the embassy at Madrid.

Consulate of Manchukuo To Be Opened in Russia

Moscow, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The Soviet government agreed today to the establishment in Moscow of a consulate for the new state of Manchukuo. Such consulates already have been set up in the Far Eastern cities of Vladivostok, Khabarovsk and Blagoverschensk.

Own Screen of Steam Covers Felon's Escape

Canon City, Colo., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Screened from prison guards by steam he released from the boiler house, Earnest Hertzke, a convict, scaled the walls of the Colorado Penitentiary today and escaped.

Guards opened fire into the steam cloud but were unable to locate Hertzke, who was convicted of robbery in 1929 in Boulder County and sentenced to 20 to 25 years.

ONE SUIT IS DROPPED IN MARY BAKER CASE

Richmond, Va., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Counsel for Herbert M. Campbell, of Virginia Highlands, Va., today took a nonsuit in the $500,000 damage action filed by Campbell against Col. Calvin H. Goddard, of Northwestern University, ballistics expert and important prosecution witness against Campbell in the Mary Baker murder trial.

At the same time Judge Luther B. Way held that the declaration filed by Campbell in a $250,000 suit charging Goddard with libel in an interview with a Washington newspaper, was improperly drawn. He gave counsel 30 days in which to file an amended declaration.

Herbert S. Ward, of Washington, who represented Campbell, told Judge Way he had been unable to obtain various witnesses and exhibits which were necessary to the establishment of the contentions in the $500,000 suit which charged Goddard with making a "false, untrue and malicious report to the authorities" in connection with the murder of Mary Baker in Arlington County.

Filing of the two suits followed the acquittal of Campbell, who was tried on a murder indictment.

Mr. Ward, who was late in arriving from Washington, entered the courtroom while his associate counsel, former State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Clarendon, was arguing the validity of the suit.

Judge Way sharply criticized Mr. Ward for having counsel and various witnesses come to Richmond from Chicago "at enormous expense, inconvenience, worry and trouble" and then taking a nonsuit in one case "and showing little evidence of doing much more in the other."

Dean John H. Wigmore, of Northwestern University, a well-known legal authority, was present to testify for the defense. Emory Smith, of Chicago, was chief counsel for Goddard, and Assistant District Attorney Callom B. Jones, of Richmond, associate counsel.

Brazil Mobilizes Police To Suppress New Riots

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A demonstration against the army and the federal government broke out here today, and police were mobilized to disperse the rioters.

HOOVER STARTS TRIP TO INDIANA TODAY FOR TALK

TROOPS MAY HANDLE INDIANAPOLIS CROWD

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday completed plans for two whirlwind political journeys—into the Midwest and along the Atlantic Seaboard—that will carry him before 22 audiences in eight States within the space of three days.

Denying himself to visitors, the President spent the day in the Lincoln study of the White House principally at work on a major address to be delivered in Indianapolis tomorrow night.

He gave consideration also, however, to his Eastern swing of next Monday that now calls for four scheduled speeches and five rear platform appearances. He will speak for about fifteen minutes in Baltimore and again in Philadelphia, deliver a nearly hour-long open-air address in Newark, N. J., and an even longer speech Monday night in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Indianapolis Plans.

During the day the Chief Executive received reports from Republican leaders in Indianapolis that they were attempting to outrival a Democratic rally in the Hoosier Capital on the same night, at which Gov. Ritchie of Maryland will speak.

They reported that a torchlight parade in the old-time political style had been planned for the Marylander, and that they were arranging a similar reception for the president, replete with bands and bugle corps.

The President will speak in the field house of Butler University, 5 miles from the center of town, with an estimated capacity of 22,000. At about the same time Ritchie will deliver an address in support of Franklin D. Roosevelt at Cadle Tabernacle, in downtown Indianapolis, estimated to hold about 15,000 people.

Troops May Be Used.

With the campaign reaching its height, Hoosier officials reported to the White House they were consider-

Student Picketing Halted by Police

Demonstrators Are Routed When Gathered to Back Ousted Professor.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—One hundred and fifty members of the Liberal Club of the College of the City of New York were forcibly ejected tonight from the college library by a squad of police, after the students had gathered to demonstrate against the dismissal of Prof. Oakley Johnson, sponsor of the club.

The students originally had planned to picket the home of the college president, Dr. Frederick B. Robinson.

Prof. Donald Henderson, of the economics department, was with the students and was detained by the police for questioning.

The police were called after the students had gathered in a library room reserved for overflow classes.

PRESIDENT WARNS ARMS CUT DELAY MEANS U. S. RACE

Col. Roosevelt's Talk Will Go Over Air Today

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Governor General of the Philippines, who speaks from Manila at 7 a. m. tomorrow, will be heard here at 6 o'clock tonight. The address will be carried 6,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean on a short wave and rebroadcast over the National Broadcasting System. It will be heard locally over WRC.

This will be the first time in the history of the United States that a political speech has been made across the seas and transmitted throughout the country. It also will be the first time a voice has been carried direct from Manila to the United States.

Delivered on the anniversary of the birth of his father, in whose honor Navy Day is observed, the address will be picked up by all Navy stations, all American warships, no matter where they may be on the seven seas.

SHOUSE FORECASTS DEFEAT OF HOOVER

Record of Administration Will Defeat It, He Says in Radio Address.

(Associated Press.)

Jouett Shouse, former chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, said last night, "The American people long ago made up their minds not to reelect Herbert Hoover President of the United States."

In an advance copy of a radio address under the auspices of the Democratic national committee, Shouse predicted "the present administration will meet overwhelming defeat" on its record.

Criticizing the administration, particularly on its fiscal record, he said, "The election of the Democratic ticket is vitally necessary to the restoration of confidence of the people in their Government and to the return to an era of prosperity, affecting alike capital and labor, agriculture and industry."

"Regardless of who might have been the first choice of any individual as our party's standard bearer," he said, "the question that now confronts the country is whether the interests of America will be best served by the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt or by the reelection of Herbert Hoover."

Shouse, now president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, emphasized that he spoke as "an individual citizen."

In speaking of the administration's fiscal policy, Shouse said John N. Garner, of Texas, Democratic vice presidential candidate, in November, 1931, gave out "a clear-cut, definite

Virginia Student Held In Thaw Check Case

Detective Sergt. A. D. Mansfield arrested James Hamilton Haggard, 25, who said he was a student in Charlottesville, Va., yesterday on a warrant from Stephens City, Va., in connection with forging the name of Harry K. Thaw to a $20 check.

According to Mansfield, Haggard was being released from the District Jail, when he placed him under arrest. The grand jury had failed to indict Haggard on a charge of larceny of a taxicab.

Thrust Aimed at Europe and Asia.

Gives Notice of Fleet Equal to Greatest in World.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Expressing publicly for the first time, his misgivings concerning the progress of Europe's disarmament negotiations, President Hoover has served notice on the great powers of Europe and Asia that the final failure of these endeavors would compel the United States to strike out on her own toward a Navy "equal to that of the most powerful in the world."

Coupled with this vigorous thrust at the protracted shilly-shallying of the European negotiations for sharp curtailments in land, sea and air armaments, the President reminded the American people that the collapse of the disarmament parleys would involve vast additional expenditures for naval construction in this country and would fail as a severe blow "to one of the most cherished aspirations of our people."

To date, the disarmament negotiations still "are making progress," the statement said. But there was no suggestion in the text that recent progress has been satisfactory, promising, or even encouraging from the American point of view.

Navy Day Is Vehicle.

The President's views were expressed in a formal statement commemorating Navy Day, released at the White House last night. As a mere piece of White House ceremonial routine Navy Day statements in the past have been confined for the most part to laudatory reviews of American naval history. Seldom, if ever before, have they been used as a vehicle for an expression of the President's views on current developments in the field of foreign relations.

"I take the occasion of Navy Day to remind the Nation that the national defense is the first and most solemn obligation placed upon the Federal Government by the Constitution," the White House statement began.

"Our people have ever been lovers of peace, and they have consistently pursued a policy designed to preserve national rights by peaceful negotiations wherever possible, rather than by resort to arms.

Efforts Are Reviewed.

"This administration has spared no reasonable effort to bring about an agreement of all nations upon a reduction of arms, upon the ratios agreed upon at the London Naval Conference. Our patience in these negotiations has never for a moment jeopardized the safety of the United States. These efforts are making progress.

"If these efforts finally fail, we shall be compelled, by reason of the disturbed conditions prevailing throughout the world and the necessity of protecting American commerce, Commons Told Ottawa Trade Pacts Rob U. S.

London, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—The Ottawa trade agreements have "robbed" the United States of 50,000,000 pounds sterling, (about $165,000,000), William Lunn, Laborite, declared in the House of Commons today.

"Will that help us negotiate a reduction in our war debt?" Lunn asked. He spoke during the debate on the second reading of the Ottawa bill.

14 Horses Valued at $50,000 Die in Charlottesville Fire

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 26.—Fourteen prize horses, valued at more than $50,000, some of them blue ribbon winners at several Eastern Shore shows, perished early today when fire destroyed two large barns at Birdwood, estate of Henry L. Fonda, former resident of Pennsylvania, who came to Virginia ten years ago to make his home. The barns and equipment were estimated to have cost $35,000.

Heading the stable was Richmont, a royaly bred stallion, by Bourbon King, world's champion five-gaited stallion, out of Margaret Weisinger.

The string included a number of thoroughbred Kentucky saddle horses. Chief among these was a chestnut mare, My Golden Glory, winner of championships at the Brocktown and Syracuse shows. At Madison Square Garden, in 1928, this daughter of Jean Val Jean won over such champions as Lucky Lindy and Dark Rex.

Another was Americana II, purchased as a mate to Fonda's Twilight Maiden, champion saddle horse at Madison Square Garden in 1928. This chestnut mare by Capt. Jack won the grand championship at the Devon Show and was never beaten in a show ring.

Other saddle horses in the lot, well known on the Eastern circuit, were lost, including Orange Blaze, by Blazes; Americana and Birdwood Treasure, chestnut mares by Richmont; a bay mare, Heatherbloom, by Bourbon King; Goletta, a chestnut mare, by Rex Peavine, and Orangeade, a mare, by Atheling II, the gray percheron stallion Carpo, by Car Victor.

Missionaries in China Flee Before Communist Troops

Americans and Britons Taking Refuge in Foochow; U. S. Destroyer May Be Sent to Rescue; Invaders Reported Occuping Five Towns in Area.

Foochow, China, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—American and British missionaries were fleeing toward this city from a Communist army driven into northwest Fukien Province by Chinese Nationalist troops.

Missionaries of the Congregational Church, with headquarters in Boston, and the Northern Methodist missionaries, with headquarters in New York, were reported among the American groups retreating before the outlaw advance.

While it was believed there was no danger in this vicinity, it was reported American destroyers now on their way from Shanghai to Manila may be called in here if necessary. Thousands of Chinese were arriving here from the upper Min River.

Reports were received here that American Methodist property at Kenping was occupied by Fukien provincial troops. They were said to have entrenched themselves in the mission compound in preparation for a battle with the Communists.

The Communists were reported to have occupied five towns in the area. Two British missions have been abandoned.

Chicago Wheat Prices Are Lowest in 70 Years

Chicago, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Grain traders stood passively by today and let wheat prices slip away to the lowest price ever recorded since futures were sold on an organized domestic market 70 years ago.

Bottom was reached within an hour of the opening today, when December futures contracts sold in the big pit at 44½ cents a bushels.

ROOSEVELT IS BACK AT WORK IN ALBANY

To Confer With Leaders in State Today on Proposed Special Session.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, arrived at the executive mansion at 10:05 o'clock tonight, ending his eight-day campaign trip into the Middle West and South.

Mr. Roosevelt motored from Hyde Park, where he stopped at Krum Elbow, his Dutchess County home, for dinner. Earlier in the day he detrained at New York, and after a visit to the Democratic national headquarters, his first of the campaign, drove to Hyde Park.

Shortly before leaving his Sixty-fifth street residence in New York City, the Democratic candidate was visited by Col. E. M. House, adviser of the late President Wilson, and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, the Democratic leader of New Jersey.

Assured of Jersey Vote.

Hague, it was understood, urged Mr. Roosevelt to make a campaign speech in New Jersey. The Jersey City mayor, who was former Gov. Smith's floor manager at the Chicago convention which nominated Roosevelt, assured the nominee that New Jersey's vote would be in the Democratic column.

Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt will meet with the leaders of the State Legislature and the unemployment relief commission to discuss the advisability of a special session of the Legislature shortly after election. If such a session is determined upon Mr. Roosevelt has indicated it will be called to assemble on November 11.

Members of Mr. Roosevelt's party and his closest advisers ridiculed the report that he will resign the governorship in event Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman is elected governor. Lehman is the Democratic candidate for the office.

Mr. Roosevelt laughed at the resignation reports, but refrained from commenting.

He joked with reporters about the stories indicating he would step out before his term expires on January 1.

Mr. Roosevelt having carried his campaign into 35 States will remain in Albany until Saturday when he will drive to Groton, Mass., to visit his sons, John and Franklin, in school there. On next Monday night he will speak at Boston. He likely will go to Portland, Me., for a short address, either before or after the Boston speech.

He said today in New York that he had only three definite speaking engagements, Boston, Brooklyn on November 4 and Madison Square Garden, New York City, on November 5. He added that four other plans, including other New England stops, were being considered.

Arrival Is Quiet.

The presidential candidate's arrival home tonight from the 3,000-mile swing through seventeen States was quiet and only a few passersby whose attention was attracted by the license No. 1 saw him drive into the darkened grounds of the executive mansion.

He was accompanied from New York by Miss Marguerite Le Hand, his secretary, and Corpl. James Greene, his State trooper escort.

None of the governor's family is here now. Mrs. Roosevelt is making a campaign trip in behalf of Col. Lehman. Mrs. Curtis Dall, his daughter, who accompanied him on the Southern trip, tomorrow will return to her duties as associate editor of a magazine. James Roosevelt, the governor's son, who has been with him on all campaign trips, remained in New York to confer with party leaders. He likely will go to his Boston home tomorrow.

Colored Democrats In Maryland Scored

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 26.—Negro adherents to the Democratic party in Maryland were scored in an address made last night at the Cosmopolitan Church by Roscoe Conklin Simmons, of Chicago. The Negro orator cited various lynchings in Maryland to back his contention that the Negro Democrat does not desire emanicpation.

Other speakers at the meeting were Senator Goldsborough, State Senator Wallace Williams, Claude B. Sweasey, Galen L. Tait, Willard Allen, Mrs. Howard Young and Roy S. Bond.

Democratic Tariff Policy Is Disputed

Glassware Industry Head Says Manufacturers Are Not Deceived.

Manufacturers "who in the past have seen their industries languish under a Democratic tariff policy are not deceived by such rhythmic terms as 'competitive tariffs,' and 'reciprocal trade agreements,'" declared George Dougherty, of Morgantown, W. Va., president of the American Glassware Manufacturers Association, in a statement made public yesterday by the Republican national committee.

"Successful manufacturing is dependent on sound business sense," he said, "and if that, in turn, is the result of straight thinking it is natural for us to support a national political policy in harmony therewith. * * *

"If this crisis needs business sense and straight thinking there is no candidate who can compare to President Hoover."

statement that the financial integrity of the country depended upon a balanced budget and that the foremost duty of the Seventy-second Congress, which was about to convene, was to deal intelligently and constructively and earnestly with the fiscal affairs of the Government."

"And it was not until after this declaration," Shouse continued, "from the prospective Speaker of the House—a Democrat—that any member of the administration voiced the slightest concern as to the balancing of the budget."

Shouse said that it was not "until the depression had been running for more than a year and a half that the apologists for the Republican party united in pleas that the ills that had befallen our people were a result solely of the World War." He added:

"Yet in every speech in this campaign, defenders of the administration have sought to prove that there was no way to avoid what happened in America, that it was an inevitable result of the World War."

Stimson Praises Nations' Raps at Manchurian Gains

Sees International Cooperation to Preserve Peace, in His Address at Pittsburgh; Envisions New Orientation of World Attitude Toward War.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—International cooperation to preserve peace, as demonstrated in the Manchurian dispute, tonight was termed by Secretary Stimson evidence that "after centuries of effort based upon other and more backward theories, the world is now moving forward upon these lines."

Addressing the Council of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the Pittsburgh area, Mr. Stimson said the refusal of other nations to recognize the fruits of aggression obtained by treaty violation in Manchuria was "a new milestone" along the road to peace.

He saw a "new orientation of the world attitude toward war," and acceptance of the basic idea that "war anywhere is of concern everywhere" in the interpretation of the Kellogg-Briand pact and of the covenant of the League of Nations by the world powers that moved to prevent war in the Far East.

Recent years had been a "particular difficult time" for cultivating international good will, Stimson continued, because unrest and violence had resulted in many nations from world economic conditions. Unstable governments, he said, had been confronted with "the temptation to resort to some demonstration of false patriotism to rally behind it popular support."

Hits Political Demagogues.

"Even in our own country, you have doubtless been able to notice that we have not been free from some of these excesses of nationalistic feeling," Stimson said. "There has never been a time when our political demagogues thought it more worth while to declaim, for example, against the expected machinations of foreign debtors. Never has some of our press been more extreme in criticizing even the most necessary steps toward international cooperation. * * *

"We can not achieve good will on this earth between the nations unless we are ready to do our share in avoiding provocation, to banish unfounded suspicions from our minds, and to endeavor in all our dealings with our neighbors, whether commercial, political, or social, to walk with a desire to do justice in our hearts. * * *"

Stimson reminded his audience of President Hoover's preinauguration trip around South America and his efforts for personal diplomatic contacts, then turned to American steps toward promoting peace by treaties.

Cites Object of Efforts.

Remarking "the first step toward law and order is always to get hold of the pistols," he said that was the object of disarmament efforts, which sought to stop rivalry and remove the suspicion and ill will that led to outbreaks.

Success of Great Britain, the United States and Japan in reaching an agreement in the London naval treaty, he said, leads "to hope and encouragement for the success" of the general disarmament conference at Geneva. He added:

"This is a much more gigantic problem because it includes all of the nations of the world with all of their different problems and relations and rivalries and suspicions, as well as all of the classes of weapons with which they may fight."

The Kellogg-Briand pact, which renounces war as a national policy and agrees to the peaceful settlement of all disputes, was described by Mr. Stimson as "a great treaty, a great simple concept carrying with it the chief hopes of the world for a new and better era."

Reviews Action of U. S.

In reviewing the action taken by the United States Government since that time in bringing into action the covenants of the Kellogg-Briand pact, the Secretary of State continued:

"We have made it clear that in our opinion the declaration in the treaty carries with it the duty of performance. We have made it clear that it necessarily alters the whole attitude of the world toward war; that, whereas during the centuries hitherto war has been one of the functions of government, giving rise to legal rights and obligations, hereafter among the signers of this treaty, war will be an illegal thing a disease instead of a normal function."

A breach of the peace between nations has been nobody's business but their own, in the past, Stimson said, but "now under the treaty it has become the rightful concern of the whole world."

"This being so," he continued, "whenever a breach of the treaty is threatened by approaching hostilities, it implies a duty of consultation among the other parties in order that public opinion may be mobilized against the impending disaster."

The sanctity of treaties has been strengthened by the attitude of the American Government toward the Kellogg-Briand pact, Stimson said.

Sanctity of Treaty.

He added:

"If, when the trouble broke out in Manchuria, we had turned our heads, irreparable damage would have been done, not only to the Kellogg pact, but also to every other one of the great peace treaties of the world, but when the United States showed that the sanctity of the Kellogg treaty was of keen interest and importance to us, and when our view was followed by the rest of the world, a new breath of vigor and of life was infused into the vitality of all such treaties and their obligations."

Stimson expressed a belief that the reign of peace will come eventually, and that nations will cease fighting as have individual men. He concluded:

"We know that all such developments in human organization are extremely slow. We realize that it took centuries to eliminate ordeal by battle in the settlement of the individual quarrels of men, but we are unshakably confident that the same process is on its way among the nations and will eventually arrive."

ROOSEVELT VOTES URGED BY CUTTING

Says Democratic Nominee Is Own Master; Criticizes Hoover's Record.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Senator Bronson M. Cutting, progressive Republican of New Mexico and supporter of President Hoover four years ago, tonight called upon "all who believe in the benefits of our civilization to vote, as I am going to vote, for Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Praising Roosevelt as an "idealist who has been able to put many of his ideals into practice," the speaker declared the Democratic presidential nominee "is his own master" and "makes his own decisions."

Senator Cutting, who recently resigned as Republican national committeeman of his State, addressed a mass meeting at the Denver Auditorium under the auspices of the National Progressive League for Franklin D. Roosevelt. The speech—the first outlining views of the presidential campaign—was broadcast by national radio chains.

Disappointed in Record.

He said "it is not pleasant to admit political errors" and no one supported Mr. Hoover more enthusiastically than he did in 1928, but that he was disappointed in the President's record of the last four years.

In the advance copy of his speech he listed as the reasons for his disappointment the Cabinet selected by President Hoover, the President's judicial and diplomatic appointments, his attitude on the power issue, his treatment of the bonus army, his policies relative to existing economic conditions. Senator Cutting also said "No President in history has been more amenable to dictations of political bosses."

"If Roosevelt were the spineless politician whom his enemies represent him to be, things would be different," he continued. "I have known Franklin Roosevelt most of my life. I have known him as a hard-working, honest and open-minded citizen. I know him as an idealist who has been able to put many of his ideals into practice."

Calls Roosevelt Own Master.

"I know that he is his own master and that he makes his own decisions. I know that he is sympathetic with the great mass of people of the country. The attack upon Gov. Roosevelt for his devotion to the 'forgotten man' is ridiculous."

Senator Cutting declared that "we have reached a sorry stage in public life if a political leader who speaks for the rank and file is branded a demagogue."

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, will leave the National Capital at 11 p. m. tonight on his fourth successive campaign swing into the Midwest, arriving in Indianapolis about 4 p. m., Central standard time, tomorrow. En route the President will speak briefly at seven cities and towns in West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana, including two stops in Cincinnati.

Between the time of his arrival in Indianapolis and his departure that night at 10:30 p. m. the President will be the guest of Gov. Leslie of Indiana.

Newark Speech in Park.

After traveling throughout tomorrow night the Hoover special train will make an operating stop at Parkersburg, W. Va., early Saturday morning and five more stops as the train swings across West Virginia, placing the Chief Executive back in the Capital at 4 p. m.

After 34 hours here, Mr. Hoover, accompanied by the First Lady, will start out again on his first campaign swing along the Eastern seaboard. Almost every hour on Monday he will be engaged in addresses of one type or another, or greeting voters before turning back to the Capital at midnight.

The President will leave his train at Baltimore, and again in Philadelphia, where he will speak in the City Hall Plaza adjoining the station. At Newark, N. J., late in the afternoon, he is to deliver a lengthy address in one of the city's parks, providing the weather is clear. Although original plans for his journey called for him to proceed into New York by automobile, he will reboard his special train for the brief trip. Going immediately to the Waldorf-Astoria, he will receive various delegations, including a group of disabled veterans, before motoring to Madison Square Garden to deliver his principal address of the day.

Itineraries of Two Trips.

For the remainder of the campaign, visits to such cities as Minneapolis, Chicago, Springfield (Ill.), St. Louis and Kansas City have been promulgated, as well as a trip to California, but no final decision made.

The itinerary of Mr. Hoover's trip to Indianapolis follows: Leave Washington 11 o'clock tonight, arrive Parkersburg, W. Va., 8:25 a. m. tomorrow; Athens, Ohio, 9:19 a. m.; Chillicothe, 10:37 a. m.; Cincinnati, Winton Place, 12:52 p. m; Storrs Street, 1:12 p. m.; Hamilton, Ohio, 2:12 p. m., Eastern standard time; Connersville, Ind., 2:19 p. m., Central standard time; Rushville, Ind., 2:51 p. m.; Indianapolis, 4 p. m; leave Indianapolis 10:30 p. m.; arrive Parkersburg, 7:05 a. m., Saturday; Clarksburg, W. Payne Asserts Foe Offers No Program

Says Success of Democrats Would Postpone Economic Recovery.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Frederick H. Payne, Assistant Secretary of War, said in a political speech here tonight that the "one paramount issue" in the election is who the people will select "to pull us out of the mire of economic prostration." He said in part:

"What have our opponents to offer in the way of proposals for our recovery? Frankly, I do not know. Many leading Democrats have shown their intelligence and patriotism by assisting our President in his work of rehabilitation and reconstruction; but from the Democratic party come only moans of pain and howls of rage. Like us they know they are hurt; unlike us, they have no suggestions for a remedy.

"I believe that our country should survive even if the calamity of a Democratic victory in November were added to our other troubles. But all Americans should realize that such a disaster would mean necessarily the postponement of our recovery while the Democratic party slowly and painfully shifted to the proved Republican program."

SMITH'S BROADCAST DETAILS ANNOUNCED

Nation to Hear Boston Talk Instead of State Issue Speech at Buffalo.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Details of broadcasting further Democratic campaign speeches by Alfred E. Smith were announced today while the circumstances surrounding arrangements for one of the forthcoming addresses were explained in statements from three sources.

Tomorrow afternoon, in Providence, R. I., Mr. Smith will make an address which will be broadcast by a group of New England stations (the Yankee network). His Boston speech will be broadcast over a Nation-wide (Columbia) hook-up.

A member of the staff of Columbia Broadcasting System said early this afternoon that a Nation-wide network period had first been requested for Mr. Smith's Buffalo speech Saturday night by Democratic national headquarters, but a change had been made yesterday and the headquarters would use the period for John W. Davis, speaking at Ithaca, N. Y.

Later, the system said that while there had been an original request for such a hook-up for Mr. Smith, the Democratic headquarters had allocated the period to Davis about a week ago upon information that Mr. Smith would speak in Buffalo on State issues.

The system explained that this change had been made through its business department, and not its program department.

Josef Israels, as radio director of a campaign committee for Herbert H. Lehman for governor, said arrangements for Smith to broadcast at Buffalo over a group of independent New York State stations had been made by him more than two weeks ago.

The radio division of Democratic national headquarters said it had contracted for the Davis speech a week ago, and never had contemplated broadcasting Smith's Buffalo address.

Columbia Broadcasting System announced the Smith address from Boston at 10 p. m., Eastern standard time, tonight will be broadcast by stations, including WJSV.

Indianans Plan Meeting Tonight

To Be Final Gathering of Voters Who Are to Go Home Nov. 8.

A final get-together meeting of District Hoosiers, who are going to trek back to Indiana to cast their vote on November 8, will be held tonight in room 235 at the Senate Office Building. More than 500 Indianans here have signified their intention of making the trip by motor and many are expected to be present tonight.

Mrs. Harriet Bentley Ballard, and Mrs. Allene Evanson, both of the secretarial staff of Senator Arthur Robinson, of Indiana, are arranging the voters' journey. They pointed out yesterday that they were desirous of seeing even more Hoosiers make the trip, because of the large absentee vote being cast by residents of other States here. Indiana has no absentee voters law, and suffrage claimant must appear in person.

Douglas Whitlock, former president of the Young Republicans here, and Miles Furness, member of the Indiana State Legislature, will speak tonight.

BORAH DENIES PLANS TO VOTE FOR HOOVER

His Stand to Be Determined as Issues Develop, He Declares.

Boise, Idaho, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Senator Borah, Independent Idaho Republican, said today he had "never at any time made any references as to how I should vote" in the coming presidential election.

"That will be determined as the issues develop," he told the Associated Press.

His statement was made in commenting on a dispatch (not carried by the Associated Press) quoting him as saying last night that he would vote for President Hoover, but would not stump for him.

In an address last night at Nampa, Senator Borah, a supporter of prohibition, interpreted Alfred E. Smith's Newark, N. J., speech as serving notice on prohibitionists that "there is no place for you in the Democratic party."

Before the adjournment of Congress Senator Borah said in the Senate he would not support President Hoover on the prohibition plank adopted by the Republican national convention.

Last week while campaigning at Idaho Falls for the reelection of his Republican colleague, Senator Thomas, Mr. Borah was asked by a member of the audience: "How about Hoover?"

"I advocate what I believe right," was the senator's reply. "If it fits Mr. Hoover I'm glad of it. If it does not I'm still for it. I may be mistaken, but I think I'm advocating Republicanism."

Senator Borah will speak Friday night in Wilder, Saturday night in Emmett, both within 40 miles of Boise, and next week plans to go to north Idaho.

Continuance Given In Dewey Will Case

Attorneys Hope Trial on November 23 Will Not Be Necessary.

Attorneys representing litigants in the contest over the will of Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey yesterday obtained from Justice Oscar R. Luhring in District Supreme Court a continuance of trial of the case until November 23.

In the meantime, attorneys said, they expected to iron out the few difficulties that now stand in the way of a compromise between the litigants so that an actual trial of the case will not be necessary. The estate is now valued at approximately $500,000, having shrunk from its original estimated worth of $850,000, because of the depreciation of the values of its securities.

The will is contested by George Goodwin Dewey, of Chicago, a stepson of Mrs. Dewey, who was not mentioned in the last will. The principal heirs under the last will are Edward B. McLean, a nephew, and Frederick Bugher, a grand nephew.

Radio Audition Trials Go Over WRC Tonight

Preliminary trials for 55 young singers, who have enrolled in the sixth National Radio Audition of the Atwater Kent Foundation, sponsored by the Washington Board of Trade, will begin tonight, Ben T. Webster, president of the trade body, announced yesterday.

The 25 girls enrolled will be heard over station WRC in the National Press Building, begining at 8 o'clock tonight, while the 30 boys will be heard tomorrow night at the same time and place.

GARNER LABOR IDEA DENOUNCED BY DOAK

Charges Speaker Wants to Admit Low-Paid Mexican Competition.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Secretary of Labor Doak, speaking tonight before a meeting of the Young Republicans of New Jersey, said that unemployment, while grave, would have been worse still if Speaker Garner "could have put his oft-expressed wish into effect with regard to Mexican labor being continued at work for the pitiful wages they were getting here."

In his speech, as distributed in advance by the Department of Labor, he said it would also have been worse under "the general policy of the Democrats with regard to restrictive immigration." In 1914, he continued, "they permitted 1,300,000 aliens to be legally admitted, to say nothing of those brought in illegally through Mexico and other places of which we have no record."

"Even despite the policy of Speaker Garner and others," he said, "the Republican party has had enough national influence to maintain higher wage rates than any other country in the world through the protection to labor afforded by a beneficent tariff and through our immigration legislation. * * *

"I go further by saying that all that is standing between the influx of millions of aliens into our country, who now are waiting on our borders and in foreign lands, is our restrictive immigration law strengthened by the executive order of the President of the United States. By means of this law we have been able to reduce the number of immigrants entering our country from nearly 1,500,000 in 1914 to only 35,000 in 1932. * * *

"My appeal is to the American laboring men to sustain the President in the fight he is making toward the preservation of American standards of living by making it possible to assimilate those who come to our shores in such manner as not to lower these high standards."

Attorneys' Club Holds Rally for Roosevelt

Sharp criticism of the administration of President Hoover and pleas for the election of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt were voiced by speakers at a rally held last night in the Democratic central committee headquarters, 1320 G street northwest, under the auspices of the Lawyers Roosevelt-Garner Club.

Former Senator Henry C. Hansbrough, of North Dakota, who described himself as a Progressive Republican who supported Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson, and Charles D. Drayton, T. T. Ansberry, Philip Austin and Charles A. Douglas, president of the club, spoke.

ROOSEVELT'S SLUR ON COURT RESENTED

Strawn Amazed at Nominee's Assertion G. O. P. Controls Highest Bench.

Chicago, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—In a letter addressed to Chicago newspaper publishers, Silas H. Strawn, former president of the American Bar Association, today said he was "amazed" at Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's Baltimore statement last night that "after March 4, 1929, the Republican party was in complete control of all branches of the Government, and, I might add for good measure, the Supreme Court as well."

"I am amazed that any reputable member of the bar, who, in order to obtain his license to practice, swears that he will uphold the Constitution and laws of the land, should make that statement, which strikes at the very foundation of our Government," Strawn's letter said.

"All lawyers and every layman who has even a superficial knowledge of the facts knows that there never has been and never can be any politics in our Supreme Court, and that no political party could control the actions of the court.

"I submit that such a charge will be resented by every one who believes that the stability of our Government depends upon maintaining the respect and regard of our people for the dignity of the Supreme Court."

Strawn is listed at Republican national committee headquarters as chairman of the Republican finance committee of Illinois.

Al Smith Strikes At Direct Primary

New York Speech Offers Quick Way to Amend Volstead Act.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith struck out tonight at the direct primary and the method of ratifying constitutional amendments, and suggested a "quick way" of amending the Volstead Act.

The former New York Governor spoke at a testimonial dinner for Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

U. S. Representative James M. Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, speaking on the same program, suggested three methods of bringing back light wines and beer, and advocated marked changes in the method of ratifying constitutional amendments.

Mrs. Sabin paid tribute to Smith and Beck as men who "have jeopardized their standing in their parties, to which they have given their most devoted and statesman-like service," because of what she called "their convictions."

Ruth Nichols Is Poised For Hoover Talk Fight

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Ruth Nichols was awaiting favorable weather reports tonight for the start of her proposed flight to California where she plans to make several campaign speeches for President Hoover.

THOMAS SEES SMITH HURTING ROOSEVELT

States Governor's Chances Depend on How Few Hear His Addresses.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, today started out on two days of campaigning in the Philadelphia area, and before making his first talk told visitors to his quarters that Alfred E. Smith's speeches would hurt Gov. Roosevelt's chances of election.

Roosevelt "must sigh that old prayer," 'Deliver me from my friends and I'll take care of my enemies,'" said the Socialist leader.

The New York Governor's chance of election, he also said, depends on how few people hear Roosevelt's speeches.

Thomas, who has just completed a tour of a majority of the States, spoke this afternoon to Negro students at Lincoln University, in southern Pennsylvania; in Camden, N. J., early tonight, and later to textile workers in the Kensington district of Philadelphia.

In his address in Camden, Thomas said tonight that "neither of the two conservative parties has a cure for unemployment." "A cure," he said, "is impossible under capitalism. Capitalism has always used the ranks of unemployed to terrorize workers. The Socialist party has a cure for unemployment. It is, briefly, the wiping out of the capitalist system."

"What the Republican orators like to call the ship of state," said Thomas, "wallows rudderless in stormy seas.; its crew is faint for lack of food, while its officers wrangle over the questions: When and how shall we drink, who is most to blame for the storm and who made the most mistakes in 1928. This is a fair picture of America. It is a country where only the Socialists talk real issues. How shall we get food, clothes and shelter?

"The repeal of unemployment is only possible under socialism, and international socialism at that," he said.

Hildreth Will Address Democratic Veterans

Melvin Hildreth, executive secretary of the National Progress League, will speak at the regular meeting of the War Veterans Democratic Club of the District tonight at the Democratic headquarters, 1320 G street northwest.

Extortion Threats Ignored, California Child Kidnaped

Los Angeles, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—Nancy Irene Buchanan, 3-year-old foster daughter of Mrs. Violet Buchanan, wealthy divorcee, who received recent extortion notes, has been kidnaped from her home here, the district attorney's office disclosed tonight.

The report was made by Harry C. Cogan, attorney for Mrs. Buchanan. He said a maid, Mrs. Dailey, put the little girl to bed early this evening and returned half an hour later to discover she had disappeared.

Mrs. Buchanan was not at home when the baby disappeared, but returned shortly afterward. She was reported in a state of collapse, and servants said they had been ordered "not to talk."

The divorcee inherited a large sum of money recently and this was published in newspapers. Within a few days the first of the threatening letters arrived.

District attorney's investigators disclosed that Mrs. Buchanan appealed to authorities last September 7 after receiving two notes demanding $12,500 and warning her that "she knew what was best for little Nancy Irene."

The last of the notes, dated September 3, ordered her to place an advertisement in newspapers reading: "Deary Mary, come home to mother. Fred has been away for ? ? days. Everything has been forgiven."

In the space represented by question marks, Mrs. Buchanan was told to indicate the number of days she would need to raise the money—$12,000 in $1 bills and $500 in twenties.

The divorcee then was told to go to a hotel, register and await instructions.

The district attorney's office planned a trap. At the last minute, Mrs. Buchanan decided there was nothing serious in the threats, it was said.

A servant at the Buchanan home confirmed the fact that "little Nancy Irene is missing."

Officers said they learned the little girl never was legally adopted by Mrs. Buchanan, but did not make known the names of her true parents.

Mrs. Buchanan is divorced from Arthur Buchanan.

G. O. P. MAPS PLANS FOR WIND-UP DRIVE

Hoover, Curtis and Cabinet Orators Map Intensive Speaking Schedule.

Chicago, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A final offensive over the Nation—with President Hoover delivering the chief broadside in an election eve address, from either Washington or Palo Alto, Calif.,—was being planned tonight by Republican campaign directors.

Vice President Curtis, his campaigning sister, Mrs Dolly Gann, several members of the President's Cabinet, and a score of more prominent congressmen were being assigned to strategic points for the November 7 drive.

Both Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Gann will wind up their extensive campaigns in their home State of Kansas. The Vice President has been routed definitely as far ahead as a rally at Topeka November 4. Mrs. Gann arrives in Hutchinson next Monday and a schedule of two speeches a day has been mapped out for her from then until election.

Of the Cabinet officers, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde has nine speeches in three days through California, starting tomorrow at Los Angeles. One week before election day will find him back in the Midwest, however, with a speech November 1 at Kansas City.

Secretary of War Hurley spends the last day of this month and the first day of the next in Cincinnati. Ogden Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, and one of the fieriest speakers of the campaign.

Union of Dry Units For Hoover Denied

Mrs. Peabody Says Poling Can Not Speak for Her Organization.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Henry Peabody, chairman of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement, yesterday issued a statement disclaiming any union of dry forces behind President Hoover.

"The morning press states that Dr. Poling, of the allied forces, stated that while dry forces differ on prohibition, they are agreed on the Republican candidate," said Mrs. Peabody. Dr. Poling could not speak for the dry forces beyond his own limited group, which is by no means united on this issue."

Her own group, Mrs. Peabody said, voted to "leave the vote for presidential candidate to the individual enlightened conscience," and to "stress election of congressmen and legislators who will keep their oath of office, placing the Constitution above the action of great mob conventions."

YOUNG REPUBLICANS ENTER NEW FIELDS

Capital Club Is Active in Providing Information on Absentee Voting.

Carrying the campaign into new fields, the Young Republican group of the National Capital Republican Club has just completed the task of providing information regarding absentee voting privileges to members of more than a score of State societies of the District of Columbia, Samuel J. Prescott, chairman of the local Republican State committee, announced yesterday.

Digests of the laws in principal States from which Washingtonians come were prepared by the club and made available to the Young Republican organization to facilitate this work.

Young Republicans from States with active local societies were recruited to take charge of the task of writnig letters explaining the extent of the absentee voting provisions, outlining registration requirements and pointing out the time limits on both registration and filing of ballot applications. More than 10,000 letters of this type have been sent out in the past three weeks from local Republican headquarters. Members of 27 State societies are on the list to receive this information, regardless of party affiliations.

"The young Republican organization has shown enthusiasm in connection with this year's campaign," Mr. Prescott said, "and has become a valuable adjunct of the local organization. Its members have made valuable suggestions for getting out the absentee vote here and have performed a vast amount of work which will continue up to election day."

The young Republican group is headed by Kenneth M. Uglow and includes subdivisions of members from more than a dozen States.

HOOVER WARNS NATIONS ARMS CUT DELAY MEANS U. S. IN RACE

to build our Navy to the full strength provided in the London agreement, equal to that of the most powerful in the world.

"I need scarcely suggest the vast expenditures that would be involved by that necessity, or the blow that it would deal to one of the most cherished aspirations of our people."

The White House statement created a profound impression in diplomatic circles last night, for it was inevitably linked with recent developments in both Europe and Asia forecasting a concerted attempt on the part of some of the world powers to avoid definitive action in the near future on the Hoover proposals for a drastic horizontal reduction in military expenditures.

Although these proposals have been vigorously sustained abroad "in principle," positive steps on the direction of effective reduction through international agreements have been repeatedly postponed by time-serving exploratory conferences.

During the last two weeks President Hoover has been afforded the opportunity of personal conferences here with the United States' Ambassadors to France, Germany and Italy, and from each, it is understood, he has received rather negative reports on European developments.

In addition, he has received from Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, a detailed report on his observations in the principal European capitals during the summer. Taken together, all of these reports are believed to have presented an up-to-the-minute picture of world affairs wholly adequate to account for the President's languishing faith in the intentions of certain powers concerning armaments.

In some quarters the recent maneuvers in Europe to side-track the arms question have been attributed to uncertainty there concerning the American presidential election next month, but some officials here take the view that many developments abroad during the last two months have been markedly in the direction of evasion rather than mere hesitation.

This latter view has been sustained in influential quarters here by the fact that the more important diplomatic developments abroad have come with increasing rapidity as the American election day approached nearer and nearer.

While nothing in the President's text formally links this background of events directly with the new note of uncertainty in the Navy Day statement, many observers interpret the allusion to "the disturbed conditions prevailing throughout the world" as a hint of recent significant developments in the armament discussions.

Premier Mussolini's saber-rattling speech at Turin, Italy, last Sunday fits into the new picture as a direct appeal for debt negotiations independently of arms reduction.

Two days later, semiofficial word from Tokyo told of Japan's rejection of both the British and American formulas for naval reduction, in favor of a third plan to be submitted by Japan. No details of the new Japanese proposal have been revealed, nor has any date been determined upon for publication of the plan before the schedule resumption of the disarmament conference at Geneva next February.

Simultaneously with Japan's rejection of the Hoover proposals as a basis for discussions, word from France is to the effect that military leaders there are now in a fair way to check the Herriot government in its disposition to discuss the reduction of French land forces in international conference.

Meanwhile, German diplomacy clings tenaciously to the demand for arms equality as the starting point of any future negotiations.

DEMOCRATIC MONEY POLICY HIT BY MILLS

Says Threat of Inflation Is Still Alive; Sees G. O. P. Road to Recovery.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Secretary Mills in a campaign speech for President Hoover tonight said the "road to ruin" lay with the Democratic party, while Republicans offered "the road to recovery."

In his prepared address, released through the Republican national committee, Mills described administration efforts as "a program of arresting and reversing the disastrous process of deflation and thus opening the way toward recovery." He added:

"There was another program. It was the program initiated in and actually adopted by the Democratic House of Representatives and their responsible leaders. Up to the present time I have not emphasized that program or explained its dangers at length, because it only seemed fair to give the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, and even the vice presidential candidate (though he was committed to this program), a chance to repudiate it and to state their positions.

"Threat" Is Emphasized.

"They have not done so. With election day less than two weeks away, the American people should understand the major threat which exists, and which, because of its character and the tacit approval which the silence of the Democratic leaders conveys, must now be considered as a major issue in this campaign.

"Witnessing the fearful effects of deflation, and recognizing the destruction wrought by panic, the House Democrats turned to that age-old method of quick relief—direct, uncontroled and undiluted inflation. They resorted to the same economic philosophy that gave such tremendous impetus to the greenback and the free silver movement under the urge of giving quick relief to debtors, irrespective of the ultimate consequences. They chose the most powerful and fatal method of inflation known—that is, the printing and issuance of paper dollars, with no metallic reserve back of them.

Not Yet Repudiated.

"Now, I want you to realize that these were not idle legislative gestures; they represented a definite economic philosophy; their proponents were desperately serious in their purpose; they were supported by an overwhelming majority of Democrats in the House of Representatives.

"They have never, in so far as I know, been repudiated by the men who were responsible for them, by the leader of the House, the present Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency, and, most significant of all, they have never been repudiated, directly and specifically, by the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. It is not unfair to assume, therefore, that, far from being dead, such a program is still very much alive; and certainly in the event of success the Democratic leaders and the Democratic party could resort to these measures without any breach of faith toward the people, for I know of no pledges that they have given other than the vague references to sound currencies contained in the party platform.

"Certain it is that whoever wins this election, there will be a real demand from some quarters for just this sort of legislation. We ought to consider, therefore, what it really involves, and then proceed to consider which candidate and which party is in the best position to resist these demands. * * *"

McBride Declares Drys Are Gaining

(Associated Press.)

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, in a statement last night, said "the chance for modification or repeal by the present or the next Congress has definitely lessened."

"Promises of beer are made to gain votes without the tangible assurance that the beer can be delivered," his statement continued. "Candidates who climb on the beer wagon convinced by false predictions that it is the band wagon will most likely find themselves in the wrong parade after election day.

"Enough drys have been nominated to make possible the election of a Congress that will defeat repeal or modification.

"This country is not ready to discard prohibition and place the determination of the liquor problem in the hands of political leaders like Smith, Cermak, Bingham and other old-time defenders and supporters of the saloon system."

HINES URGES CHANGE IN VETERANS' POLICY

Cites Drop in U. S. Income Since High Benefits Were Inaugurated.

(Associated Press.)

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, in a speech prepared for delivery over the radio last night, said a new national policy of veterans relief should be adopted "having due regard to the cost such a policy will impose on our citizens."

"Any activity of the Government which requires some nine hundred million dollars a year deserves close scrutiny," he said. "Beneficial measures for World War veterans were placed upon our statute books in an era of high wages, high prices and general prosperity, * * * but thin times have come upon us. * * * Our Government has had to take a measure of its capacity and must map its course accordingly."

Because Gen. Hines was indisposed, the speech was delivered by Maj. O. W. Clark, assistant administrator.

Summing up expenditures now being made for veterans, the speech, as distributed by the Veterans Administration, pointed out that America's five wars preceding the World War "over a period of 120 years, have cost the Nation about eight billion five hundred million dollars, with approximately 411,000 beneficiaries of these wars still on the rolls."

The World War, with 5,000,000 men and women involved, the speech continued, has resulted in the past fifteen years in expenditure of some $6,000,000,000, exclusive of bonus loans. Already there are nearly 900,000 beneficiaries, it said, or nearly one of every five veterans. With the beneficiaries of other wars added, it said nearly 1 per cent of the population of the country looks each month to the Government for a check "and it must be gotten to them, promptly and collectively at the rate of $45,000,000 each month."

For the next ten years, excluding possible "prepayment of the bonus," the address added, "it is estimated that for all forms of veterans' relief and its administration there will be disbursed more than $9,130,000,000 * * * at that time the accumulative cost to the country of relief for veterans of all wars, for all time, will have reached * * * $26,000,000,000."

CHACO PEACE PLAN ACCEPTED BY BOLIVIA

ernments agree to settle the difficulty solely by arbitration; they both agree to the opening of direct negotiations for arbitration within a period of a fortnight or so after the signing of the agreement.

Decisive Fight Was Pending.

The peace proposal has been finally accepted on the eve of what was expected to be the most decisive battle of the war. For the last eleven months the troops of Bolivia and Paraguay have been engaged in open hostilities for the possession of the Chaco, a deserted barren tract lying between the two countries.

These military operations without formal declaration of war culminated last Monday in the fall of Fort Arce, one of the strongholds of the Bolivian army, an ammunition center and an important strategic link in the line of battle. The Bolivians were reported to have lost heavily in both men and material.

The Paraguayans were prosecuting their advance and were yesterday reported to be in the vicinity of Fort Samakley, also known as Agua Rica, some 25 miles southeast of the fort captured by them last Monday. Reinforcements were brought up to the Paraguayans and the Bolivians and determined efforts were being made by the general staffs of both armies to achieve as important an advance as possible before the opening of the rainy season which renders all military operations impossible for about three or four months.

Meeting Is Planned.

Mr. White has been carrying on the peace negotiations through the commission of neutrals who made their latest peace proposal on October 12. This proposal was communicated to Juan Jose Soler, the Paraguayan representative, and at the same time to Dr. Enrique Finot, of the Bolivian delegation.

Both delegates were requested to ask their respective governments for permission to attend a meeting of the neutral commission to discuss, draw up and sign the peace agreement.

The former Bolivian foreign minister, Jose Luis Tejada, was generally believed to have represented the most irreconcilable element in the Bolivian government. He resigned on Monday and took with him from office the finance minister and the minister of public instruction. These portfolios were rapidly filled by President Salamanca with an all-Republican cabinet and the peace treaty was accepted soon after.

Modified Terms.

The peace terms were drawn up by Assistant Secretary White on a more modified form than had been previously suggested. On the previous peace proposals, the commission of neutral observers was to report on the aggressor, as determined by them after an exhaustive inquiry on the spot. The League of Nations under the direction of President Eamon de Valera had suggested to the State Department on October 1 that a "military commission should be chosen to report on measures taken to reduce the danger of local fighting."

In his dispatch to the league, Mr. White very politely reminded them that this very move had been made by the neutral commission a fortnight previously. He also said:

"Negotiations for termination of hostilities on satisfactory conditions of security to both are now proceeding satisfactorily, as are negotiations for securing acceptance of bases for final arbitration of conflict."

This telegram was sent on October 13.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES DEMAND FOR BONUS

Admiral Coontz, Leader of V. F. W., Presents Data at White House.

(Associated Press.)

The Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday carried to President Hoover their recommendation for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, U. S. N. retired, new commander-in-chief of the organization, handed to the Chief Executive a statement outlining the action of the national encampment in California last September.

A resolution urging that the adjusted World War service certificates be turned into cash at once likewise was adopted by the American Legion at its recent national convention.

As well as bonus payment, the Veterans of Foreign Wars recommendations embraced enactment of laws for pensions to widows and orphans of World War veterans, who have died since the armistice, and preservation of disability allowance.

As in the case of the bonus, the legion, in national convention, has recorded itself in favor of these recommendations also.

Admiral Coontz presented the veterans' statement to the President in the Lincoln study of the White House, where the latter spent the morning.

The commander said the President had accepted the statement, but had not read it, as he was "a very busy man." He added Mr. Hoover promised to read it later.

Immediate cash payment of the bonus was urged by the V. F. W. as a step "that will contribute to the economic welfare of the Nation as a whole, as well as immediate relief for individual veterans in need." The statement continued:

"Funds thus distributed will go directly into the hands of 3,500,000 veterans. Taking into consideration the members of their families, the total number * * * who will be benefited by this act will approximate 10,000,000 persons.

"It is hardly necessary to point out that a tremendous relief burden will be lifted from individual cities and communities throughout the country—communities that have already virtually exhausted all available funds for charitable purposes."

Requesting that the Chief Executive consider the possibilities of national relief through payment of the certificates, the veterans said:

"The approaching crisis, made more acute by the suffering and privations of winter, demands drastic action on the part of the Government—action that will actually place directly in the hands of the people sums of money that will afford at least a measure of relief."

Democratic Tariff Assailed by Hyde

Change in Administration Would Add to Distress, Secretary Says.

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, said in a campaign address here tonight economic distress would be increased by turning the reins of government over to Democrats at this time.

"History proves that while we can have depressions under protection, we never had prosperity without a protective tariff," the Secretary asserted.

"I am willing to grant that if all tariff walls were stricken down and all of us purchased what we desired in the cheapest market on earth we might save some money.

"But let us not forget that in striking down prices we also strike down wages, we strike down jobs, we strike down markets and we strike down people."

Life-Long Republican To Support Roosevelt

San Francisco, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Having announced he had decided to support the presidential candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt, John Francis Neylan, prominent San Francisco attorney and lifelong Republican, asserted today there was no party issue in the campaign and that the choice between Roosevelt and President Hoover "lies between demonstrated incapacity and justified hope."

SIXTH SUSPECT HELD IN FLORIDA LASHINGS

Six Women Among 16 Called Before Grand Jury in Nineteen Floggings.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A sixth suspect was arrested today as he finished testifying before the Duval County grand jury investigating the recent flogging of nineteen persons here.

J. C. Godwin was seized by a police lieutenant when he stepped from the grand jury room and was docketed on a charge of "assault to murder."

Lieut. W. O. Silcox said one of the victims has identified Godwin as a member of the band which took him out and gave him a severe whipping.

Sixteen persons, six of them women, lined the corridor outside the grand jury room. They were called one at a time for questioning.

Whether they were victims or merely had evidence they believed the grand jury should hear was not known. Of the nineteen victims of the lash, five who have reported to the police are women.

One other man told the police today he had been a victim of mob flogging two years ago, but Silcox said a subsequent investigation disclosed he had not been beaten, but merely warned to leave town.

Five men previously arrested and identified as members of a mob which beat Mrs. Sallie Geringer and her daughter, Ola Bell Gilstrap, are at liberty under $1,000 bond each, pending a preliminary hearing November 2.

Names of the other seventeen victims and details of their cases were withheld by the police. The authorities said the victims were classified as twelve white men, five white women and two Negroes.

Mississippi Landlord Victor in Duel Which Cost Life of Tenant.

Greenwood, Miss., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A street duel with pistols between two prominent business men here today, following a dispute over rent, resulted in the killing of George W. Littlefield, 64, jeweler, and the wounding of H. G. Kitchell, 63, former alderman and large property owner.

The two men fired at close quarters, after a heated exchange of words, several bullets flying wild as bystanders hunted cover.

Kitchell, suffering from a wound in the left hand and powder burns on the wrists, surrendered to the sheriff immediately after the shooting, but declined to make a statement. He was released on $1,000 bond for preliminary hearing tomorrow.

Police reported that Littlefield was a tenant in one of Kitchell's buildings and that he had been pressed for the rent. From bystanders authorities learned the two met this morning in front of Littlefield's store and, after a brief quarrel, drew pistols.

Long Assails Tax Refunds by U. S.

Continues Campaign Tour for Roosevelt in Kansas.

Coffeyville, Kans., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Continuing his attack on the Hoover administration, Senator Huey P. Long tonight attributed the depleted condition of the Federal Treasury to huge tax refunds to individuals and big corporations. In some cases many of them "didn't discover for five years that they had paid too much tax," the Louisianan declared.

"Let's turn our faces toward the rising sun instead of the setting sun," Long said in urging the election of Gov. Roosevelt. The senator referred to President Hoover and Vice President Curtis as "nice gentlemen," but said national conditions had been bad ever since "Hoover and Coolidge went to work for Mellon," under whom, he asserted, they had "served with distinction."

"The present regime," the speaker declared, "isn't a Republican administration, but the worst parts of both the Republican and Democratic parties." He urged the election of "progressive and able" men to Congress, particularly commending as Senate members Norris of Nebraska, McGill of Kansas, Thomas of Oklahoma, Borah of Idaho—and Long of Louisiana.

Duce to Celebrate March Upon Rome

Mussolini Returns to Capital to Observe Anniversary of Fascisti Coup.

Milan, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—His four-day tour of northern Italy ended, Premier Benito Mussolini left tonight for Rome, where the current Fascist decennial celebrations reach their peak tomorrow and Friday, the anniversary of the march on Rome.

The premier canceled an intended trip today to the City of Brescia, on the Lombardy plain east of here, and announced he would go there Saturday to attend dedications on Sunday at his old home, the walled town of Forli, east of the Appennines.

Signor Mussolini talked with many poor people and disabled war veterans on a whirlwind tour of new public works here. His final visit was to the newspaper Popolo D'Italia, where he spent a few minutes alone in the former office of his dead brother, Arnaldo. At the station he was called to a balcony, where the crowd bid him farewell, singing the Fascist anthem, "Giovinezza." In Rome tomorrow the premier will inaugurate the Votive Chapel in the Littorio Palace.

Detroit Demonstrator Is Disowned by B. E. F.

Detroit, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Police identification of Walter Eicker, one of four men held after a demonstration incident to President Hoover's visit last Saturday, as a member of the bonus expeditionary force, was disputed today by P. D. Burke, assistant field commander, in a communication from Marion, Ohio.

"Walter Eicker was not a member of the bonus expeditionary force in Washington," Burke's statement read. "He was there as a member of John Pace's left wing. These men were not B. E. F. men as they were never accepted into our ranks due to the fact that they were members of the 'Workers Ex-Service League.'"

HUSBAND IS HUNTED IN DESERT MURDER

Police Find Clews to Slaying in Home of $20,000 Heiress' Mate.

Los Angeles, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Search for Gus Cerney, power company lineman, was redoubled today when police found what they said was evidence indicating his dwelling here was the scene of the slaying of his wife, Ideama, whose nude body was found in the Mojave Desert last Saturday.

The 21-year-old, attractive, red-haired murder victim was heiress to an estate valued at more than $20,000. Neighbors said she had attempted to conceal from her husband sums of money and jewelry kept in the dwelling here.

Bloodstains, a mass of women's clothing thrown about in disorder, automobile tracks from the garage to the front room entrance and the discarded rumble seat of an automobile were among the clews investigators said prompted them to hunt for Cerney.

He was last seen driving away from the dwelling October 18 in a sporty blue roadster. Five days later the nude body of his wife, with skull crushed, was found near El Mirage Lake on the desert.

Mrs. Cerney lived in Chicago several years ago, her maiden name being Ideama Mitchell. Upon her father's death her mother wed William Golter, and the family moved to Red Bluff, Calif., where the mother died. The mother's estate, in excess of $20,000, was willed to the girl to become hers at the age of 21. That was last June, but investigation indicated the estate had not been probated.

Valuable diamond rings Mrs. Cerney was known to wear are missing.

Man Freed on Promise To Clear Road of Trash

A plea that he was not dumping trash on the road deliberately, but that his truck upset and spilled it, was offered yesterday by George Robinson, of 625 Rhode Island avenue northwest, when he was tried in Hyattsville Police Court for violating the antidumping law.

Judge J. Chew Sheriff accepted the excuse and continued the case indefinitely on condition that Robinson clean up the debris.

Family Transport Limited by McCarl

Rules Kin of Commerce Unit Employes Barred Unless Trip Official.

Comptroller General McCarl yesterday ruled that families of employes of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce may not be transported to and from the post of the employe unless the latter is himself making the trip "with authorized transportation at Government expense."

The Secretary of Commerce had assumed, it was declared, that when an officer is returning to this country, even at his own expense, after having served three or more years abroad, his family would be permitted to precede, accompany or follow him at Government expense.

Ruling of Comptroller McCarl covers cases in the above category as well as others pertaining to transportation of the families of employes of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, it is understood.

HUNGER MARCHERS REACH GOAL TODAY

2,000 Will Enter London and Parliament May Hear Delegation.

London, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A movement to have three women and three men plead the cause of the "hunger" marchers before Parliament was launched tonight as most of the 2,000 members of the unemployed army camped in London suburbs.

Jack McGovern, Labor member of Parliament from Glasgow, announced he would raise the question of a hearing in Parliament tomorrow as a matter of urgency. The final trek into the city will begin in the morning.

The vanguard of the army, headed by W. A. L. Hannington, described by police as a Communist, already has moved into London. He led a similar "hunger" march to London in 1930, and claims to have instigated last year's Invergordon naval mutiny.

One of his groups which reached Stratford, northeast of London, was led by Frederick Copeman, one of the men dismissed from the Navy after the Invergordon incident.

Waving red flags, a division of 200 marchers moved into Acton, a London suburb, to the music of a piper. A number of the marchers chased a uniformed soldier who shouted uncomplimentary remarks at them, but he escaped.

Thousands of London unemployed were expected to join in the visitors' demonstrations in the suburbs tonight. Police were anticipating no difficulties.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has promised reconsideration of phases of the government's dole system to which the marchers have objected.

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the noted artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the infamous Captain Kidd's fierce raids on the gold-laden Spanish galleons (1696), which made him the scourge of the Spanish Main. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

INQUIRY ON PEONAGE ORDERED BY HOOVER

President Names Committee of Four After Charges Are Received.

(Associated Press.)

Taking cognizance of charges that private contractors were mistreating Negro laborers on Federal flood control projects along the lower Mississippi River, President Hoover yesterday appointed a committee of three Negroes and one white man to make an immediate investigation.

He named Dr. Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute; Judge James A. Cobb, of Washington, and Eugene Knickle Jones, executive secretary of the Urban League of New York City, representing the Negro race, and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, representing the United States Army.

A White House announcement of the appointment said the Chief Executive had asked this committee "to make a thorough and impartial inquiry as promptly as possible" and report the results of the investigation to him immediately.

"Slavery" on U. S. Projects.

For months past charges have been made at varying intervals that conditions in some places amounting almost to "slavery" existed on the privately contracted Government projects along the Mississippi River.

Army engineers in that section now are conducting an investigation. They have reported on several occasions that the lack of specific charges hampered their studies.

Early in the last session of Congress, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, requested the House labor committee to make an investigation of conditions on these projects, asserting that reports coming to him indicated Negro labor was being mistreated.

Closed Hearing Held.

Later, a closed hearing was held by War Department officials upon similar charges by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of Army engineers, in a subsequent statement said he had been unable to obtain "any specific evidence of mistreatment of Negroes by contractors other than the general statement that camps and food were unsanitary."

"So the information submitted is of practically no value to the department in pursuit of the investigation it is carrying on," Pillsbury added.

The statement issued from the White House late yesterday made no mention of the source of the "charges" it said had been placed before the President. The abuses named, however, included payment of unreasonably low wages to Negroes by private contractors, overcharging at contractors' commissaries, labor camps maintained in unsanitary conditions and in some cases physical violence in the treatment of the men.

White House Statement.

The White House statement follows in full:

"Charges have been laid before the President that some of the private contractors doing work for the Government on flood control projects on the lower Mississippi River are paying unreasonably low wages to Negro employes, overcharging the men at the contractors' commissaries, keeping their camps in a very unsanitary condition and, in some cases, resorting to physical violence in the treatment of the men.

"The President has requetsed Dr. Robert Moton, head of the Tuskegee Institute; Judge James A. Cobb, of Washington, D. C., and Mr. Eugene Knickle Jones, executive secretary of the Urban League of New York City, representing the Negro race, and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, representing the United States Army, to make a thorough and impartial inquiry as promptly as possible.

"He has directed the members of the commission to proceed at their earliest convenience to the places where the construction work is being carried on by these contractors and to report to him on the facts as determined by their investigation immediately upon its conclusion."

Aksel Wichfield Silent on Divorce

Former Danish Envoy Here, Husband of Swift Heiress, in Reno.

Reno, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Aksel Wichfield, former atttache of the Danish Legation in Washington and husband of the former Mabelle F. Swift, member of the wealthy packing company family, has established residence at a hotel here, it was learned today. Efforts to learn from Wichfield whether he plans a divorce action were unavailing.

His presence, coupled with that of Josephine ("Fifi") Widener, Philadelphia heiress, who is stopping at the same hotel, has revived rumors that linked them in romance last April when Wichfield visited her while she was here obtaining a divorce from her second husband, Milton W. Holden.

"Fifi" Widener denied at that time that she planned to marry a third time.

In a normal year 40,000 persons are separated from the Government pay roll, through retirements, resignations, deaths, discharges. In a normal year 40,000 replacements would have to be made. Last year there were only 25,000. This year the falling off will be out of all proportion.

The point is made, however, that this depletion will have to be made up eventually if the machinery of government is to continue to function.

Names Are Classified.

The reemployment pool, on which the Civil Service Commission is now concentrating, is confined to two carefully kept files, with names classified according to jobs. Clerks form by far the largest single classification, with typists next, and civil engineers a close third.

"In some cases, appointments from this list actually mean the saving of lives," Secretary Babcock said. "There are people listed who have passed the best of their lives in the Government service and can't get any other kind of work."

Chromosome Yields Secret

Studies of Slender Threads of Life Housing Facts of Evolution and Heredity Disclosed by Scientist; Findings Important in Genetic Research.

Pasadena, Calif., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Studies of the internal structure of chromosomes, those slender threads of life that house the secrets of evolution and heredity, were disclosed here today by Berwind P. Kaufman, national research fellow in biology, on leave from the University of Alabama.

Kaufman said experimental work at the Kerckhoff Biological Laboratories here on the basic cell life of the drosophila emlanogaster, or vinegar fly, combined with his study of plant cell life, convince him that the internal structure of chromosomes is coil-like, these minute organisms, just visible in powerful microscopes, being spiral forms rather than of a banded structure.

This study is of profound interest to biologists, for these chromosomes are the moving apartment houses in which dwell the genes, these units of heredity and evolution wherein nature has locked the secret of life itself.

Genes have never been seen, they being such tiny particles, several hundred or more being contained in the chromosomes that measure about a hundred-thousandth of an inch. Chromosomes vary in size, but not in proportion to the living structure which they make up.

For instance, Kaufman pointed out, the X and Y chromosomes that determine sex in humans are only half as large as the similar chromosomes in flies, while the chromosomes in grasshoppers are much larger than in flies.

Every species of plant and animal life has a definite number of chromosomes, humans having 48, flies 8, and some microscopic water animals have much large numbers.

As far as research work has gone, each gene appears to be beyond the highest power of microscopes, but rough calculations in genetics suggest they are not smaller than the largest known organic molecules. A fixed number of genes is believed to exist in linear order in each chromosome.

Kaufman explained that for this reason experimental analysis of the internal structure of chromosomes is of real importance to genetic research workers.

FRANCE MAY REDUCE ARMY BY 8 DIVISIONS

Asks Similar Action From Other Nations; Work on Cruiser Is Spurred.

Paris, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—Reduction of the French army from twenty divisions to twelve by cutting conscript service is planned if similar reductions and security guarantees are made by other nations, the United Press learned from a reliable source today.

At the same time there was a new note of optimism in semiofficial disarmament discussions, indicating renewed life for the Geneva conference on arms limitations, and hope for removal of the most serious obstacle to real limitation of naval forces.

Conversations between Norman Davis, acting head of the American disarmament delegation, and British leaders in London, and a forthcoming week-end conference between Davis and Premier Edouard Herriot in Paris, are believed to portend a new American policy regarding freedom of the seas. This policy is said to resemble a similar position in France's new disarmament plan.

Petain Objects.

It is asserted in important quarters that Washington, London and Paris are projecting an agreement under which neutrality of the high seas would be rigorously enforced and which provides the right to search vessels found dealing with an enemy.

The French decision to reduce conscript service from twelve to nine months was reached, it is understood, by the superior war council over strenuous objections of military chiefs. Gen. Max Weygand opposed the plan with such determination that it almost led to his resignation. Marshal Henri Petain likewise voiced opposition, holding with Weygand that nine months is not sufficient time to train citizens in the technical art of warfare.

Cruiser Work Spurred.

The reduction of conscript service would reduce the number of divisions in the army. This would be counterbalanced, under the plan, by establishment of a militia, something France has not had since the days of Lafayette and the revolution.

The ministry of the navy announced today that orders have been given the Brest arsenal to begin work at the soonest possible moment on the new 26,500-ton armored supercruiser Dunkerque, which is intended to overshadow Germany's "pocket cruisers."

The government decided on speeding construction of the warship after learning of Germany's decision to start the third of the Deutschland series of cruisers.

SEWER OVERFLOW REMEDY IS MAPPED

water from cloudbursts such as that of last Labor Day is that part of the residential area is barren of houses or vegetation. For a while sand washed into the main and clogged it whenever a very heavy rain came, but this fault was removed. The report on the last overflow declares that the main was found to be clear.

Catch-basins at the intersection have been more than doubled so that the water would not accumulate in the street, but the overflow was repeated.

Just when a final decision will be reached on the exact method of correcting the system is conjectural, but sewer department officials hope to get started on the work before another summer.

FORMER PRISONER CONFESSES MURDER

"Red" Downing, in Columbus, Admits He Slew His Benefactress.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—For the second time in seven years, John "Red" Downing, pardoned former convict, today pleaded guilty to the murder of a woman, this time his benefactress.

Downing was arraigned speedily in police court after authorities said he confessed the killing yesterday of Mrs. Mauree M. Bonzo, 44, wife of the record and parole clerk at the Ohio Penitentiary here. The grand jury was called into special session tomorrow to consider his case.

Meanwhile, various officials began a study of the circumstances that led to the pardoning of Downing a year ago by Gov. George White. At that time the former convict had served seven years of a life term imposed after he pleaded guilty to killing Mrs. Allean Williams, 38, during an attempted robbery in Cincinnati.

The Bonzo killing brought a statement from Criminal Judge Dennis J. Ryan, who sentenced Downing at Cincinnati for the Williams slaying, that "there is a question whether the governor had authority to recommend a pardon unless the defendant in a case of this kind is proven innocent."

The Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice, headed by Newton D. Baker, has been conducting a vigorous campaign against what it terms indiscriminate freeing of prisoners from the State penitentiary, following the recent case of Francis (Mack) Bush, bank robber, paroled last spring.

Bush is awaiting trial in Cleveland for the killing of Herbert Quinlan, jeweler, in an attempted holdup October 8. Bush's accomplice, Norman Townsend, also a paroled convict, was shot to death in a gun fight with police.

Gov. White said he would have no statement to make until he consults his files.

Daniel Bonzo, husband of the slain woman, himself helped Downing obtain a pardon, according to State Welfare Director John McSweeney. Downing often was given odd jobs at the Bonzo home.

RABBI CALLS RELIEF REMEDY FOR CHAOS

Chest Speakers Say That Need of Wholesale Charity Greatest Ever.

The corrosive forces working on our civilization through the economic depression can be successfully arrested only by the Community Chest, Rabbi Edward Israel, of Baltimore, told members of the speakers' bureau of the Community Chest yesterday at the annual luncheon held at Washington Hotel.

"Every Chest campaign in the country this year must center around the depression and all giving will be in the light of that condition," he declared. "More than ever before people are thinking in terms of concrete economic conditions.

"The Community Chest today faces a new function, which is intimately linked up with the destiny of the United States. Only responses to Chest campaigns this year will determine whether we can work out its social reconstruction in democracy.

Stabilization Factor.

"The present function of the Chest is to stabilize the social background of the community."

Rabbi Israel said the obligations of the Chest now are relief, guarding of the Nation's health, prevention of crime and the building of character.

"Relief must take on a new aspect and the Chest, through the proper distribution of such relief, becomes the instrumentality of social salvation, which is the bulwark of American life. Unless the Chest is provided with the necessary funds so that it can help," the speaker said, "there will be chaos, bread riots, uprisings and even revolution and bloodshed. There will be economic fascism and martial law, and the Chest alone stands in the pathway of this condition."

The Chest speakers were urged to present concrete cases of distress in their campaign this year by Newbold Noyes, campaign chairman.

Need Greatest Ever.

"The need of the funds for the operation of the Chest facilities is greater than ever before. Every one knows in the abstract that there is suffering to be alleviated, but an approach from that point of view does have the same effect as citing actual cases of suffering."

Elwood Street, Chest director, spoke briefly, outlining instructions to the speakers.

John Hays Hammond, internationally known engineer, has accepted the chairmanship of the Community Chest national corporations unit, Mr. Noyes announced before the meeting. C. C. Glover, jr., will be cochairman.

'Forgotten Woman' Conclave Planned

(Associated Press.)

Elizabeth Tilton, chairman of the women's committee for education against alcohol, yesterday announced "a convention of the forgotten woman of the 1932 election," to be held simultaneously with the convening of Congress.

She defined "the forgotten woman of 1932" as "the dry woman," and proclaimed the purpose of the coming convention was to make her "the long-remembered woman of 1934 and 1936."

The plan of action, she said, was the formation in each State of "law-preservation parties," to vote, if given opportunity by the political parties, for dry candidates. If not, "to set up candidates of their own, and keep on setting them up, till the forgotten woman holds the balance of power."

Gain in Postal Business Indicates Trade Upturn

A decided increase in the volume of mail now being handled by postal employes has been noted since the first of the month, it was announced yesterday by the Postoffice Department. This, it was pointed out, is an important index to general business conditions.

Although the increase is seasonal, postal officials declared, a greater volume is being handled than during this time last year. Complete returns for the month are being awaited to determine the increase in dollars and cents.

Virginia Pushes Roads To Aid Unemployment

Richmond, Va., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—State Highway Commissioner Henry G. Shirley said today that contrary to the usual "let-up" during the winter months, the department of highways now is ready to go ahead with an extensive highway construction program during the next few months.

The program is designed to relieve unemployment.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Seminars to discuss ways of combating religious intolerance will be held in a number of cities throughout the Nation this winter, it was reported at the annual meeting of the executive committee of the National Conference of Jews and Christians tonight.

Such sessions are scheduled for Hartford, Syracuse, Rochester, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The discussions will be resumed in Providence, Boston, Kansas City, Denver, Portland, Oreg., and Oakland.

In most cases they will be participated in by Jewish, Catholic and Protestant religious and civic leaders. Work to break down group prejudice will also be undertaken through colleges and local organizations.

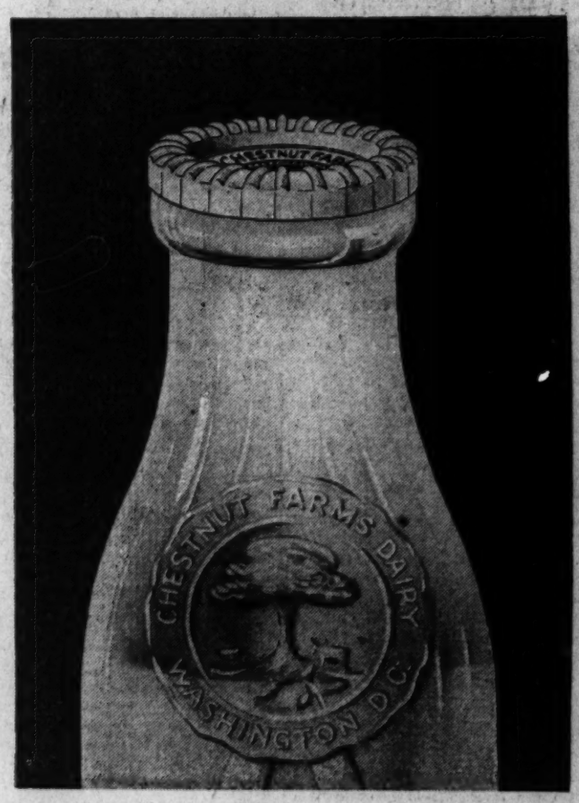
the NEW and IMPROVED

"SEALKAPS"

(Completely Protecting the Pouring Lip)

NOW MEET WITH OUR APPROVAL

CHESTNUT FARMS—Washington's LEADING Dairy for more than a third of a century—takes pleasure in announcing that the NEW and greatly IMPROVED "SEALKAPS" now meet with the rigid requirements of this dairy. Some six or seven years ago—or to be exact, in July, 1925—"Sealkaps" were submitted to us for trial. After a thorough test, however, we found them inadequate—below our standard of perfection. Other dairies throughout the country—NOT so insistent upon the same high standard—adopted "Sealkaps" and have continued to use them with more OR LESS satisfaction.



FROM its very inception in 1897, Chestnut Farms Dairy has ALWAYS LED in the adoption of every proven scientific device that offered greater protection to the purity and safety of its products. The early imperfections of the "Sealkap" having been corrected, we now believe it to be superior to any milk bottle cap of its kind on the market today. We hereby give it our hearty approval—and adopt it for use on such of our products as are not now protected by the "Hood Seal" caps—the seal OVER the inner cap.

CHESTNUT FARMS DAIRY

DURING its more than 35 years of service Chestnut Farms patrons have learned by experience to look to us for everything that is BEST. The management of this dairy is always receptive to the presentation of new ideas, but regardless of the apparent merit of any new device which may be submitted, we insist upon a thorough test in actual service. If the device shows certain imperfections (as was the case with Sealkaps in 1925) we report our findings to the manufacturer—with certain recommendations for improvement. It is by this practice of insisting upon absolute perfection that the CHESTNUT FARMS has achieved the distinction of being selected as the "WORLD'S MODEL DAIRY," not only for PRODUCTS of a superior quality, but likewise for the very latest and most improved methods of handling.

HAS ADOPTED "Sealkaps" FOR ALL MILK PRODUCTS

(Except those products that are now protected by the "Hood Seal"—the seal cap OVER the inner pull cap.)

Chestnut Farms—Under the same management for for more than 32 years.

TARIFF INCONSISTENCIES.

Gov. Roosevelt plunged into such a medley of contradictory statements in his Baltimore address as to bring into question his grasp upon the realities of present economic conditions and the existing tariff law. As usual the governor abused the Smoot-Hawley act, which stands 93 per cent for the benefit of agriculture and 7 per cent for the benefit of industry. Yet he agreed that "it is absurd to talk of lowering tariff duties on farm products." In trying to make his position clear Gov. Roosevelt said:

> I know of no effective excessively high tariff duties on farm products. I do not intend that such duties shall be lowered. To do so would be inconsistent with my entire farm program, and every farmer knows it and will not be deceived.

This statement must be construed as a 93 per cent indorsement of the Smoot-Hawley act, which placed the existing tariff rates on farm products. It is extremely unusual for a candidate for any office to denounce a measure fostered by his opponents when he approves more than nine-tenths of its contents.

What is still more confusing is Gov. Roosevelt's reiteration of his Sioux City statement that "the excessive, the outrageously excessive rates in that bill must come down." What are the excessive duties? In 1931 the highest duties collected were on sugar, an agricultural product. The actual receipts from this tariff were 133 per cent of the value of the sugar imported. Second on the list of high tariff schedules are the wool duties, amounting to 76 per cent on an ad valorem basis. Tobacco and its manufactures come third, the amount of tariffs collected under this schedule being 75 per cent of the actual value of the imports. Agricultural duties, exclusive of these special schedules for products of the farm, amounted to 42 per cent. Apparently Gov. Roosevelt does not realize that when he speaks of the "unscalable" tariff wall he is speaking of the agricultural tariffs, which he refuses to lower.

What are the lowest duties in the Smoot-Hawley act? First on the list is the schedule containing woods and articles manufactured of wood. These duties amounted to only 19 per cent in 1931 on an ad valorem basis. Duties in the paper and books schedule were 26 per cent; in the flax, hemp and jute schedule, 28 per cent, and in the spirits and beverages group, 30 per cent.

The largest group of industrial imports, classified as sundries, were dutiable at 38 per cent, more than five points below the average. Chemicals, oils and paints were dutiable at an average of 38 per cent; metals and manufactures thereof, 39 per cent. On the whole, agricultural products and those industries which convert farm crops into finished goods are highly protected. All of these rates benefit agriculture either directly or indirectly. No schedule of industrial rates can be shown to be excessive by this factual comparison. Most of them are medium or low.

It is apparent that Gov. Roosevelt is not aware of these facts. It is inconceivable that he would knowingly demand reduction of moderate rates on the ground that they are excessive, while upholding the extremely high rates as essential to the protection of American producers. Yet that is the position into which the governor has put himself. He would be quite justified in reprimanding his "brains department"—consisting of professors who do the research work for Gov. Roosevelt's speeches—for allowing him to slip into such a labyrinth of inconsistency.

ITALIAN ARCHITECTS.

Plans are under way for a great exhibit of modern architecture to be held next year in Milan. New materials, designs and methods will be considered by Italy's architects, many of whom feel that it is time for their country to seek fresh architectural inspiration. After producing some of the masterpieces of the world, Italian architects fell into a period of such artistic sterility that it is impossible today to find a modern building worthy to stand by the classic examples of past centuries, while to the development of a style suited to both modern life and new materials, Italy has contributed virtually nothing. She has not shared in the new movements in building of France, Holland, Germany and America, or developed a strong native school.

Italian architects, however, are not entirely to blame for this. The architectural treasures which exist in many cities and towns have made their task difficult. In order not to be out of harmony with the old they have compromised with the new, and the results have not always been successful. One instance of this was the railway station in Florence. When the ministry of communications published the designs there were many protests, as it was claimed the proposed buildings were out of keeping with the beautiful Tuscan Gothic church close by, Santa Maria Novella. New plans were drawn up, but it was found difficult to decide whether to build a station primarily for utility and convenience without regard to the church, or to try to fit in the services of a station with a building that looked like a church.

In discussing the subject the Italian academician, Marinetti, warned Italian architects that they could make no progress until they stopped bowing down to ancient masterpieces and believing that their beauty could never be rivaled. Only by trying to create something better, he observed, would they ever evolve anything as good.

FORGOTTEN AT NEWARK.

Al Smith's address on beer delivered a few nights ago in Newark will doubtless reverberate throughout the country until election day. Strangely enough, it is the Republicans who are quoting it and endeavoring to keep the spirit of that Newark rally alive. Even Senator Borah almost tottered into the Republican camp when he heard Al's ardent plea for beer.

For many weeks the Democrats have been pleading with the 1928 standard bearer to do a little "stumping" for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket. Finally he yielded, and the Newark speech was the first fruits of his "contribution" to Democratic success. Mr. Smith will make several more addresses, and if the tactics he used at Newark continue in evidence James A. Farley may be pleading with him to resume his silent role before election day.

The first effect of Mr. Smith's address was to revive the issues on which he was defeated four years ago. Al ought to have known that the Democrats are even more anxious than the Republicans to let the rankling schisms of 1928 die. What the Democrats need more than anything else is unity this year. But the former candidate reminded his colleagues of their bitter party struggles four years ago.

Mr. Smith spoke almost exclusively about himself and beer. He wrote the repeal plank in the Democratic platform. He carried on the fight against prohibition. It was as if the inimitable Al was once more campaigning for himself. His biting satire and his reference to his own struggles against Republican policies were wildly applauded. Gov. Roosevelt has not aroused so much enthusiasm anywhere. After this demonstration, Mr. Smith threw in a last-minute indorsement of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, along with his plea for more Democratic legislators at Trenton. The effect was to subordinate the presidential and vice presidential candidates of 1932 and to revive the losing fight of 1928.

The Newark address was obviously intended for wet New Jersey. But it was broadcast throughout the country. Millions of Democratic drys who are trying conscientiously to uphold their party's platform, on the theory that it merely means a transfer of authority to abolish the liquor traffic from the Federal Government to the States, were sorely embarrassed by what is regarded as an outright plea for beer. Millions of wets are so classified only because they oppose the eighteenth amendment as an atrocity in the Constitution. Apparently Al Smith forgot that.

On the whole, the Newark speech was just the kind that the Democrats did not want Al Smith to make. What they want him to say is that he trusts Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner, and that he thinks the country would be safe in their hands. So long as he refuses to make that commitment, so long as he magnifies the wetness of the Democratic party and slights the candidates who must deal with the grave economic questions of the day, Mr. Smith will probably do his party more harm than good.

When Al Smith shook hands with Gov. Roosevelt at a forced meeting before the New York State Democratic convention, The Post was skeptical of reports that the hatchet had been buried. It remains skeptical.

THE MARCH ON LONDON.

Washingtonians will find special interest in the "hunger march" on London because it parallels in many respects the marches on this city last winter. Approximately 2,000 members of the so-called "hunger army" are at the gates of London and more are expected to converge upon the British capital. They are demanding changes in the regulations under which the dole is paid to idle men, as well as demanding bread and shoes for their families. Apparently no provision has been made for care of the "hunger army" and its members will be dependent upon charity, as was the bonus army during its long stay in Washington.

Radicals in Parliament at once seized upon the "hunger march" as an excuse for an attack upon the government. George Lansbury, leader of the Labor party, accused the government of being directly responsible for the increase in unemployment, just as President Hoover is being blamed in this country for the world-wide depression. The radicals of Britain may not have initiated the "hunger march," but they are certainly trying to make political capital out of it. Their motion of censure was, of course, defeated in the House of Commons, because the administration has an overwhelming majority.

It is significant that the dole has not saved Great Britain from riots and hunger sieges in the capital. The marchers are demanding abolition of the "means test" in the hope that the dole will go to idle men and women regardless of whether they have means on which to support themselves. Since the government provides them with a dole, unemployed English workmen have come to regard the government as responsible for their plight. Demands for relief are, therefore, increased.

Every government in the world has had to combat discontent and misguided relief movements during the depression. Many governments have been overthrown as a direct result of such activities. Old and stable governments, like those of Great Britain and the United States, do not fear revolution as a result of these marches. Nevertheless, they must rigorously preserve order as a warning to all disgruntled factions that the public authority can not be trifled with. In view of the fact that Washington is expecting further invasions by jobless men and bonus seekers during the coming winter, it will be interesting to note how the situation is handled in London.

THE POUND'S DECLINE.

There is much speculation about the British pound sterling these days. The rapid drop which started last week has been the sharpest decline since last December, carrying its exchange value in American currency below $3.30. Whether the withdrawal of support by the Bank of England was due to depletion of the equalization fund or a deliberate move to allow the pound to seek a lower level than that above $3.45, at which it has been held for some time, is not explained.

The unusual and pessimistic statement from Montagu Norman relative to the chaotic state of world economy, and his admission that he knows no remedy for it, has caused much discussion. Is the low state of the governor of the Bank of England due to the parlous condition of the pound, or is the fall of sterling the result of the governor's sour outlook upon things in general? There is no question that British exporters have been greatly disappointed because the cheap pound has not been a greater stimulus to their foreign trade, and there has been a growing demand in England for trial of a still lower exchange rate.

Whether a pound twenty cents below the level of recent months will be sufficient to move British goods in competition with the products of other countries "enjoying" still greater monetary depreciation and still lower wages, is a question. If there have been no serious inroads upon the stabilization fund of £150,000,000 the cause of the lowered value of the pound must be otherwise explained, and there are not lacking suggestions as to the cause, though no official version has been forthcoming. It is suggested that it is due to the pressure of wheat and cotton imports, to the rising cost of living in England, to the number of unemployment demonstrations, to rumors of currency inflations, and to renewed lack of confidence in the pound on the Continent. All are mere conjectures. Some recovery has already been made from the low of this week. Until it is known what the government plans with regard to a stabilization point, the future course of the pound is a matter of guesswork.

Good-natured Jim Watson always generously distributes political plums, giving the opposition its victory in September and October and taking his own in November.

A regular March 4 day, and Gov. Roosevelt went right through Washington without making an inaugural address.

Gov. Roosevelt has no enemies, but some of his friends would help him if they were.

When Hoover meets Hoosier, then comes the tug of war.

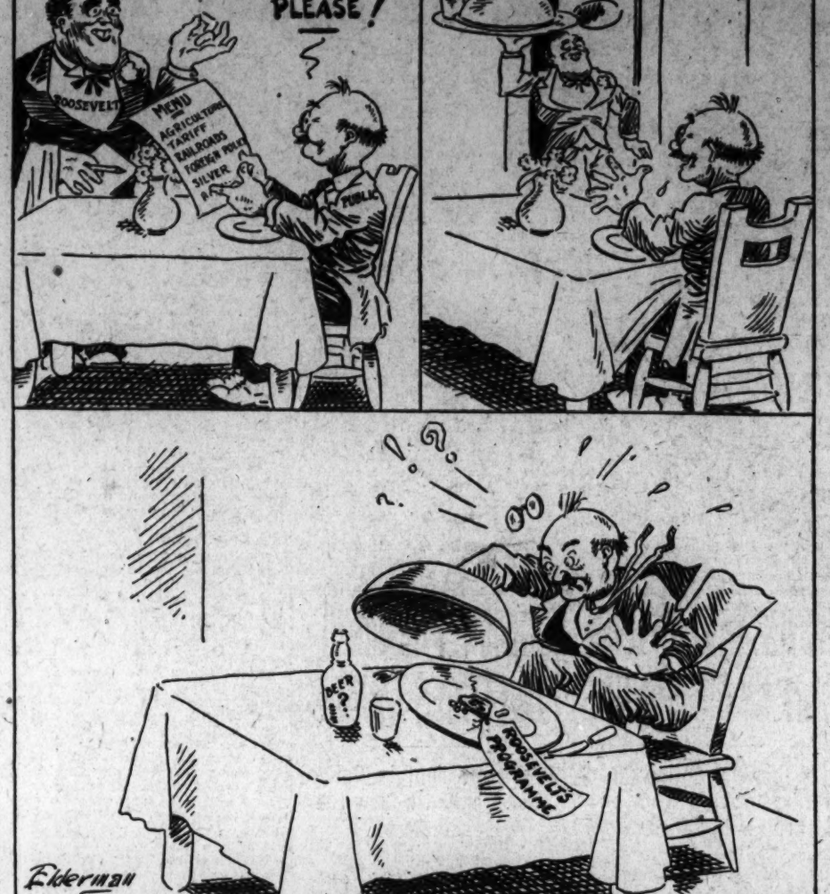
DO WE NEED MORE MONEY?

From the Magazine of Wall Street.

Until this depression is cured or cures itself there will apparently be no end to the recurrent agitation for inflation. In recent speeches as prominent an officeholder as Senator Borah has argued strongly for what the inflationists call an "honest dollar"—a dollar with the purchasing power and debt-paying power of the predepression dollar. What is actually desired, of course, is a general rise in commodity prices. In theory there are two ways advanced for bringing such a rise about. A considerable element of our representatives in Congress is imbued with the idea that our troubles are due to a shortage of money. Hence, what could be more simple than for the Government to issue some more currency?

Yet the dangers of such a program of currency inflation are readily apparent. We have seen the terrific consequences of monetary inflation in Germany and Russia in recent years. Even today the effects of England's defection from the gold standard and the inflation which that step produced are before us. Prices in Great Britain have outrun salary and wage adjustments, and in the rising cost of living we have the real cause of present unemployment riots. This is inevitably so. The objective of inflation, i. e., a rising commodity level, is bound to be defeated by the inequalities in the resulting price rise and by unavoidable maladjustments in the compensation for labor. In degree, this is as true of moderate or so-called controlled inflation as in the unlimited printing press operations which sank Germany in an economic abyss. Moreover, while present proponents of inflation have limited their plans to definite amounts of from $2,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000—who can say that the movement once started could be stopped there?

Already the supply of our currency is actually much larger than it was in 1929. We have in addition liberalized our money base by changes in the Federal Reserve act and increased bank note currency. We have made strenuous efforts to increase the supply of that portion of our money that is far more widely used than actual currency, that is, bank money, or bank credit. Have we not gone far enough, if not too far, for common safety? Any further money tinkering would dangerously threaten public confidence. Indeed, the most immediate effect probably would be a renewal of banking liquidation, a further shrinkage in bank money and, hence, an aggregate money contraction greater than ever.



A "Promising" Menu.

POST HASTE

Having been unable to decide upon a candidate, Senator Borah will vote against Al Smith.

Chancellor von Papen is now also a legal dictator in Prussia, if that makes any difference to you or him.

Not having any possessions as yet on this side of the Pacific, Tokyo will find it easy to propose naval changes that will suit Japan.

Why quibble over trifles? Gov. Roosevelt's promise to provide employment for all surplus labor would only boost the budget 500 per cent.

A Communist bonus march on Washington is being planned. The jobless army invading London is found to be financed by Moscow. Just keep them properly labeled, that's all.

If Al Smith had said half as much for Roosevelt in his Newark speech as Mayor Hague in his introduction said he would, it would have been some recommend.

Gov. Roosevelt certainly "rode" those alliterative four horsemen, Destruction, Delay, Deceit and Despair, at Baltimore and took the third one into camp.

The Governor's speech grabbed the Hoover doctrine that jobs should be restored, concealing his own panacea demanding that the government "provide employment for all surplus labor at all times."

Democrats are praying that today Al Smith may remove the impression that he considers prohibition the only issue in the campaign.

Why wouldn't it be a cute stunt for radio humorists to announce ludicrous titles that have no relation to the songs?

How do you figure the regular steel dividend? Is it because things are actually getting better under Hoover policies, or because the directors think Roosevelt will scrap everything for a new deal next year?

European financiers pound sterling down to $3.30 and Great Britain finds cheap money a most expensive luxury.

Speaking of a straw within a straw, the management of one large mock ballot is reported to have received 35,000 requests to have votes cast changed to Hoover. How many will hold their billet doux until November 8?

Opinions differ as to whether Al Smith is demonstrating skill or awkwardness with the boomerang.

RICH BOY, POOR BOY.

Rich boy, poor boy, years ago,
Side by side I used to know.
And to lads who often dreamed
Luckier the rich boy seemed.
We were chained to tasks, but he
Romped the neighborhood wholly free;
First to rest when he grew too tired,
First to own what boys desired,
And (important to the young)
First the pretty girls among.

Rich boy, poor boy, gray of brow,
Sees life much more clearly now.
Poor boy's father went away,
Leaving him with debts to pay.
Rich boy's father smiled and said,
Feebly on his dying bed:
"In my will you'll find, my son,
Everything for you is done.
I have labored to provide
All your needs," and then he died.

Poor boy now a man recalls
Doubts and fears and countless falls,
Disappointments, blows unfair,
That have all been his to bear;
But his inward growth he sees
Came from trials such as these.
From the bottom to the top
He has climbed with scarce a stop.
Rich boy—now to manhood grown—
Still spends dollars not his own.

If Both Servants Did Their Master's Will, Why Should One Be Denied Reward?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN theory, America is a land of equality. There is no caste system. No class or group is entitled to special privileges or special rewards.

Yet in practice there is favoritism and injustice and the members of one small group are given benefits and awards that are denied to others equally deserving.

The favored ones are those called veterans, who now receive disability allowances, and the victims of discriminating injustice are those more numerous citizens, equally patriotic, who have never worn uniforms.

Compare the two, sensibly and fairly, and then decide whether justice is done.

The disability allowance is paid to citizens who served as much as three months in the Army and were not injured during that period. The disability, acquired after their discharge, may be one that handicaps them very little, for many men who receive this allowance are holding good jobs.

Now let us assume that every man who receives this token of his country's gratitude is entitled to it. Concede as much for the sake of argument.

What, then, of other disabled citizens who can not call themselves veterans?

Those who spent three months in camp on this side of the Atlantic were exposed to no more dangers than other citizens.

On that score the two groups are even. Those in camp were willing to serve abroad when their time came; so, also, were the other.

Those in camp were doing all that was asked of them to win the war; but so were other citizens, not in uniform, who used their savings to buy bonds, contributed generously to the Red Cross and the Y and denied themselves meat and sugar.

Why, then, is one group entitled to compensation and the other denied it?

Because, you say, those in uniform, though safely distant from the battle front, worked three months for the Government.

But all other citizens now work three months of every year for the Government—and receive nothing in return except tax receipts.

Compare the two groups as you will, you will find no difference in spirit or service or in any other particular except that one served in uniform.

Are a man's garments the measure of his deserts in a land of equality?

And if clothes do not make the man, why reward those who served three months of every year?

PRO AND CON

World Upset.

Boston Transcript.

Democratic campaign orators who are striving to make it appear that the administration of President Hoover, particularly in the passage of the tariff bill, was responsible for the depression are not likely to make quotations from the address of the governor of the Bank of England at a banquet given by the lord mayor of London. Speaking of the economic disaster throughout the world, Mr. Montagu Norman said "The difficulties are so vast and so unlimited that I approach the subject not only in ignorance but in humility. It is too much for me." On this side of the water the political enemies of the President may be said to approach the subject in ignorance but not in humility. It is not too much for them as offering a hope of winning votes.

Democratic Tariff Troubles.

Kansas City Times.

Gov. Roosevelt has repeatedly expressed his disapproval of protective tariff, following the traditional Democratic policy of denouncing the Republican position on that subject, but he is somewhat evasive in a telegram he sent to a Democratic candidate for Congress in the beet sugar district of Colorado, in which he says he has "consistently declined to make any statement with respect to individual tariff schedules, and I am glad to assure you that I have made no commitment whatever respecting the sugar tariff."

Ballots Vs. Declamations.

Atchison Globe.

Of every political speech delivered this year it is said, "It was a masterpiece." But votes instead of masterpieces decide elections.

Overlooked.

Buffalo Courier-Express.

Wonder if that Connecticut sociologist who ranks absence of the saloon as the most important of three shock absorbers in the economic situation counts the presence of the speakeasy as the other two?

Choosing a President.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

As it was conceived by the founding fathers, self-government did not involve any great participation in government by the mass of individuals. Those men did not envisage the election of Presidents by the people. They did not contemplate the choice of senators by popular ballot. Neither did they expect congressmen to campaign for office on specific issues.

Democracy as it was conceived at that time meant representative government. It meant the ultimate responsibility of officeholders to the voters, who were a selected group of citizens more stable in their thinking than the total mass. It meant the choice of a President by a small body of electors, aware of the delicacy and awful responsibility of the highest office. Logical persuasion was conceived as the means by which these men were to debate among themselves and choose the best to rule.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Plenty of Mackerel to Be Had in Maine—No One Need Go Hungry If Relief Committees Will Get Busy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently in one day 200 tons of freshly caught mackerel were dumped in Portland Harbor because there was no market for them, even at 75 cents a barrel of 200 pounds.

It seems a crime that this good food should be wasted while so many people are suffering for the necessities of human life. If those supplying food to the needy would arrange to take over such cargoes of fish, for which there is no sale, and salt them, they could be preserved at very slight expense and given to those in need of food, thus saving a large part of the money now required to purchase in the open market.

A. K. CROSS.
Boothbay Harbor, Me.

Democratic Senators Opposed to Roosevelt's Scheme to Reduce Industrial Tariff.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gov. Roosevelt says we must have a competitive tariff.

He says he would raise tariff rates on farm products.

He says he would lower tariff rates on manufactured products.

Can he coerce a Democratic Congress composed of leaders of that party who voted for higher rates in the Hawley-Smoot bill, many of whom last year fought for (and got) higher rates on products produced in their particular States? A partial list of senators is here given who voted for higher rates: Ashurst, Barkley, Bratton, Broussard, Copeland, Connally, Dill, Fletcher, Gore, Harrison, Hayden, Kendrick, King, Long, McGill, Neely, Pittman, Sheppard, Smith, Stephens, Thomas Oklahoma), Wagner, Walsh (Massachusetts), Walsh (Montana).

And here is an excerpt from a speech in the House by Congressman Rainey, Democratic leader of the House, who denounced the Hawley-Smoot tariff act: "Lower this tariff drastically? You Republicans will not do it and we Democrats do not dare to do it with conditions at they are. We do not want this market flooded with the products of cheap labor in other countries."

The governor is either kidding himself or the American people.

A HOOSIER.

Reader Would Like to Know What Tariff Rates Would Be Reduced by Gov. Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gov. Roosevelt again attacks the protective tariff. He would lower rates on industrial imports, but make rates higher on farm products from other countries.

What rates would Gov. Roosevelt reduce?

Would he reduce rates on shoes manufactured in Europe?

Would he reduce rates on rubber goods manufactured in Japan?

Would he reduce rates on china ware manufactured in Europe?

Would he reduce rates on cement and tools manufactured in England?

Would he reduce rates on cutlery, chemicals and paints manufactured in Germany?

Would he reduce rates on perfume, cosmetics, candy and jewelry manufactured in France?

Would he reduce rates on rugs, fancy work, toys, pottery, postcards, glassware and housefurnishings manufactured in eastern Europe?

The governor should be as specific in stating what rates he would reduce as he is in stating "I am now making a frontal attack." G. A. WATTS.

Behind Gov. Roosevelt Stands John Garner, Who Favors Greenbacks for Bonus.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Roosevelt has again straddled the bonus question and simply says, "Read what I said in April." Nothing new. Is not this an attempt to carry water on both shoulders?

The important question each voter should ask himself is, "Would I vote for Jack Garner for President of the United States, the greatest office in the world?" I believe a very small minority would answer "yes." Each voter should be made to see that a vote for Roosevelt and Garner provides the possibility of Garner becoming President.

It is generally understood that Garner favors paying the bonus by issuing greenbacks. Those who are familiar with conditions which existed in the seventies will remember that at one time an American greenback dollar was only worth forty cents of Canadian money. Do the voters want to risk the repetition of such a situation? X. C. H.

New York City.

Al Smith's Speech Reminds Reader of Uncle Joe Cannon's Remark.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been listening to campaign speeches since 1884. The first presidential candidate I heard was James G. Blaine. In the same campaign I heard Roger Q. Mills. But the other night I had the experience of a "new deal." It was in Jersey City. The gentleman who introduced the speaker of the evening, Alfred E. Smith, introduced him as the "greatest leader in America." Perhaps Mr. Smith is just that. Still, Mr. Smith was there to further the candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt.

The late Uncle Joe Cannon is credited with having said once upon a time in the House of Representatives, while chiding a fellow member of the opposite political faith: "I do not mind turning the second cheek to be slapped, but I am utterly opposed to turning a third time to be kicked."

What the gentleman said who introduced Mr. Smith is ample evidence that history repeats itself in substance if not in detail. W. P. O.

CUSTOMS PROBERS TO CHECK DUMPING

Stearic Acid, Rubber Shoes, Matches and Cement Under Suspicion.

(Associated Press.)

The Customs Bureau acted yesterday to prevent the dumping of stearic acid and waterproof rubber footwear in this country from abroad.

F. X. A. Eble, commissioner, said at the conclusion of a hearing that a suspicion of dumping order against importation of the acid from the Netherlands would be issued by customs appraisers shortly.

Domestic manufacturers alleged The Netherlands and Russia were selling the product in the United States at less than its fair value, as contemplated by the provisions of the 1921 antidumping act. The bureau also ordered customs appraisers to suspend appraisement of all rubber footwear from Czechoslovakia, pending completion of an investigation as to whether the antidumping act should be invoked. Importers will be permitted to give bond, subject to forfeiture, if it is held finally that the imports violate the statute.

The commissioner has already notified customs collectors to refuse entry to Japanese matches, unless plainly and properly marked.

Representatives of the American match industry, in asking an antidumping order against Japanese matches, charged the Japanese had blotted out names on boxes to hide the country of origin. It was complained that Japanese, Russian, Polish and other European matches were sold in the American market at less than abroad.

At the same time, the Customs Bureau has under investigation charges by American cement industry representatives, that foreign companies were dumping cement into Puerto Rico. Danish, Belgian, British and Cuban companies were said by the American firms' representatives to be offering cement for sale in Puerto Rico at $1.61 a barrel in competition with the American product, the lowest price for which is $1.87.

The bureau is now requiring dumping bonds on cement sent into the island from abroad, while it investigates the dumping charges, but American firms claim the bonds had not halted importations.

Iowa Society Arranges Dance After G. W. Game

FIVE BANK ROBBERS GET QUICK JUSTICE

Captured and Sentenced to Prison Within 24 Hours of Illinois Holdup.

Ottawa, Ill., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Justice moved quickly today and five men were sentenced to prison for the robbery yesterday of the First National Bank of Ransom.

The five, William Jacobs, 23, Frank Valone, 38, and Josph Jesse, 23, all of Cicero, Ill., Charles Smith, of Chicago, and Alex Sorrento, of Chicago Heights, pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Edgar Eldridge shortly after they were indicted by the grand jury and each was sentenced to serve from one year to life.

Three other alleged members of the gang, Frank Rino and Mr. and Mrs. Mike De Martino, were indicted as accessories, but were not arraigned.

Sentences were imposed less than 30 hours after seven men raided the Ransom bank, scooped up $2,000, and sped out of town in an automobile, holding Leo H. Gondolf, the bank president, and Miss Elma Thompson, a bookkeeper, as hostages. The bank employes were released a short time later.

As the robbers sped away, they fired a shot which grazed the neck of Ervin Kakara, a volunteer bank guard.

A posse led by Sheriff E. J. Welter, two hours after the robbery, discovered the bandits' automobile at the De Martino home here, surrounded the house and forced its occupants to surrender without a shot being fired.

Committee Formed For Press Building

Board to Protect Mortgage Holders Following Rental Deficit.

Word was received here yesterday that a committee has been formed to protect holders of first closed mortgage sinking fund gold bonds, issuesd by the National Press Building Corporation, which are due April 15, 1950.

It was announced that holders of bonds have been requested to deposit them with the Manufacturers Trust Co., 149 Broadway, New York, where they will be held under a deposit agreement now being prepared. Outstanding bonds of the issue are said to amount to $6,500,000.

Lawrence B. Campbell, manager of the building at Fourteenth and F streets, was named receiver for the corporation in District Supreme Court last week. The withdrawal of Government tenancy from six floors and inability to rent the space was given as the cause of the receivership action.

Hills Hold Fauna Secrets

Scientists Turn to Great Smoky Mountains of Tennessee in Tracing History of Mammal Migration and Evolution Before Rockies Were Created.

Gatlinburg, Tenn., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Scientists expect to find probably 75 species of mammals in the venerable Great Smoky Mountains, which they say were lofty peaks many years before nature had a spasm and produced the gaunt Rockies.

E. V. Komerek, mammalogist for the Chicago Academy of Sciences, is making a survey of the mountains, which despite their age are not so well known as some of their younger brethren. Already he has sent back to Chicago 700 specimens of mammals, or a total of 1,200, including reptiles and amphibians.

Among amphibians he found are salamanders.

Komerek said he had found forms common to Canada on peaks of the Smokies. He said these mountains might be the "American Noah's Ark"—the birthplace of many American mammals.

He found a rock mouse above 3,000 feet in the Smokies and said the little animal next is found in northern New York and not again until Labrador.

The northern animals, he said, are found only above 3,000 feet and explained there are three faunal zones in the mountains—the northern, above 3,000 feet; the eastern, between 2,000 and 3,000, and the southern, below 2,000.

He said the Eastern black bear is in the mountains. Other animals common to the hills include the red fox, gray fox, wildcat, raccoon, 'possum, mink and muskrat. Fowl include ruffed grouse, turkey and others.

INFERENTIAL FORCING BIDS.

ALTHOUGH the Approach-Forcing System has only five absolutely Forcing situations wherein it is taboo for partner to pass, there are many other situations which one runs across in bidding Contract hands, which, although they are not technically Forcing, should be taken as such. Although these bids, which I will point out, do not come under the heading of any of the Forcing situations, such as the Jump Takeout or the Opening two-bid, they are bids which, by their very nature, give partner the inference that another bid is wanted from him in response—even without extra values.

Let us take the following bid:

Partner	You
1 diamond	1 notrump
2 hearts

What does your partner tell you? In effect he is saying:

"I have five diamonds and four hearts: I don't want to play the hand in hearts if you have only three; my hand is strong enough either to stand or support a further denial by you—that is, a bid of two notrump."

Or—"My hand can stand to support a preference bid of diamonds, even at three; and, partner, if you have four hearts and your first notrump bid was honest, I imagine revaluing your hand should surely enable you to raise your hearts at least once."

In other words, although your partner in the above situation has not made a Jump Takeout bid and you technically can pass, you are being pretty closely urged not to do so. There are few holdings that could be named on which you would first respond with one notrump and then would pass to two hearts.

Then there is this bidding:

Partner	You
1 diamond	1 notrump
3 diamonds

What message is being conveyed to you now? Your partner's three-diamond bid is probably telling you that he has the values to bid three notrump, but his distribution is unbalanced and he is not sure where he wants to play the hand, and wants you to make the decision, depending upon your distribution. Your partner's hand probably has the values to bid four diamonds and almost five, and he probably does not want to shut out three notrump if you have a weak hand. Although the three-diamond bid is not a Jump in another suit, it certainly should be treated as being 98 per cent Forcing.

Then there is the Jump notrump response. You bid one heart and your partner bids two notrump. This bid, of course, is not absolutely Forcing, but with a good partner an effort should be made to find a further bid.

Then there is bidding of the following type:

You	Partner
1 heart	3 clubs
3 hearts	4 notrump

On the above hand the bidding has passed the game level. Theoretically, you can not be forced to bid any more, but what does partner's four notrump bid say? Probably that there is a Slam in the hand if you have anything more than an absolute bare minimum to justify your bids. He has something in the heart suit, and he wants you either to bid your hearts a third time, support notrump if your hand is fairly balanced, or show a weak four-card suit now if you have one. He probably has the honor strength to carry the hand into the Slam zone, but is asking for more information so he can determine the best bid.

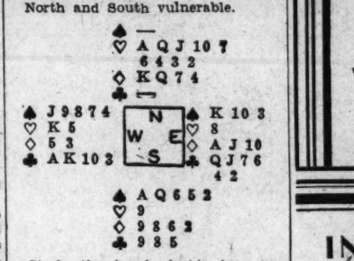
There is one more type of bid, which, although it does not go in the absolutely Forcing class, should not be allowed to drop under game. You open the bidding with one diamond; your partner bids three spades. It is true that he is denying the honor strength necessary to make a Forcing bid. However, he is affirming the possession of sufficient playing strength to make a game in spades if your Opening bid is more than a minimum. This bid is in the nature of a semi-shut-out, but is not meant to shut you out. You should, at least, bid three notrump, and your partner will probably bid four spades.

Be liberal. Give your partner chances if he seems to be asking for them. Remember that any time he seems to be begging for a bid from you in spite of your obvious weakness, his hand is probably strong enough to stand it or he would not create this situation. He is merely asking you for assistance in finding the right game contract, and he will not take your responses to his inferential Forcing bids as denoting great strength.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TANNING AND PIMPLES.

AS THE summer vanishes into the past and the winter looms on the horizon the tendency that many persons have to pimples will become worse. Pimples are infected grease glands. The skin is commonly charged with an ample supply of staphylococci, the microbes that infect the grease glands and cause pimples. So long as liquid grease is flowing out of the sebaceous glands and sweat is coming from these glands, the bacteria are washing away from the emptying ducts.

A pimple in a water gland is very rare, probably because of the freeer flow from these structures. However, sometimes there will be an infection of a normally functioning gland of either kind. When the fats collect in the tubes of the grease glands the stage is set for infection. That foreign matter easily enters the mouths of these tubes is proved by the color of the outer end of the blackhead. Bacteria can penetrate farther than dirt can. Every sebaceous gland that is plugged by a blackhead is a potential pimple.

With which, we are ready to talk about the effects of hot and cold weather on pimples.

When a person covers his eyes and lies in the broiling sun with his face and shoulders exposed, the temperature of his skin is raised, the fat in the sebaceous glands is made more liquid, many blackheads are dissolved, and the ducts of many glands are cleared out. This is one of the few good effects which come to persons over 16 years through tanning by exposure during midsummer. The tanning of the skin to a deep shade, so popular in some circles, coarsens the skin. A skin so exposed for a single season loses whatever chance it ever had to win a prize for peachblow complexion in a beauty contest. But, as something of an offset, it will be freer from blackheads and pimples, at least so long as the tan lasts.

There are beach fans, just as baseball and football have their sideline followers. These onlookers get to be very able fireside experts. Friends among the beach fans tell me that they rarely see pimples on the mahogany boys and girls, and these players for the spectators are of just the pimple age, and the entire setting makes these blemishes easy to see.

This observation offers one suggestion for winter use. Those who have pimples should get some benefit if, during the winter, they will expose the skin of the face daily to radiant heat. If they have no open fires or infra red lamps as sources of heat they can use an ordinary electric lamp with some advantage, and exposure to steam is of service.

In contrast with summer the cold solidifies the fat in the mouths of the glands and tends to increase the dirt on the skin and both processes make for pimples.

TOO MUCH EPSOM SALTS.

M. L. C. writes: Is it dangerous for one 50 years old to take a teaspoon of Epsom salts three times a day? A friend of mine is taking that amount and I fear it will harm her in time. I would be thankful to know what the danger is and in what way it is harmful to her. So that I may warn her about taking that amount.

REPLY.

It will harm her. In fact it probably has done so. Taking saline purges regularly causes constipation. It may cause spastic colon.

SENILE PRURITUS.

Miss F. M. H. writes:

1. What is the treatment for senile pruritus?
2. Is there itching with senile gangrene?
3. What is the difference between the two?

REPLY.

1. Grease the skin often. Stay in moist air as much as possible. Laundries, kitchens and greenhouses have moist air. Avoid too frequent bathing. The skin can be cleaned with creams.
2. No.
3. In gangrene the parts die and slough off; in pruritis there may be nothing more than itching.

KEEP MOUTH CLEAN.

T. Y. writes: About four years ago I scraped my tongue with my teeth, leaving a small place near the center. It is tender and sore at times. Now there is a small, sunken place where it was scraped. Is it liable to get worse and will the use of snuff keep it rare, or make it worse?

REPLY.

I can not guess what your trouble is, but the general advice to those with chronic sore areas in the mouth is to quit tobacco and keep the mouth very clean.

IT'S NOT THE ICE CREAM.

D. R. writes:

1. Has ice cream any bad effects on a person?
2. Why is it that every time I eat ice cream I get a terrible burning feeling in my stomach and I feel kind of sick for half an hour?

REPLY.

1. It should not have.
2. Probably the trouble is with you rather than with the cream. Why not change your diet? If the symptom persists it proves that the fault is with you. If so, have a physician see what it is.

IT IS MIGRAINE.

H. H. writes:

1. Please explain what is meant by the liver not functioning?
2. Would that explain vomiting of bile with no food particles?
3. I am subject to headaches which sometimes amount to almost stupor accompanied by this vomiting of bile. There is no pain except the headache.

REPLY.

1. The term is commonly used as a synonym for constipation.
2. No. That is reverse peristalsis.
3. You have migraine. Vomiting is a frequent symptom of that disorder. In migraine, if the nausea continues after the stomach has been emptied reverse peristalsis brings up bile.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

A SIMPLE LUNCH.

(Department of Agriculture.)

Here's an economical menu you could use on any of these cool fall days for a midday lunch for grown-ups or children: Cream of vegetable soup, with crisp rolls or some other crunchy, crusty bread; melted cheese on toast, seasoned with a dash of tabasco and served the moment it's soft; a bit of pickle to go with it; applesauce and gingerbread. You can make the cream of vegetable soup in less than half an hour, and it's almost a meal in itself. The secret of its flavor is revealed by the United States Department of Agriculture. "Cook the finely chopped vegetables in the fat for 10 minutes." That's a good rule to follow, too, when using such vegetables as onion, green peppers, parsley and so on for any soups or stews, for goulash and other mixtures where you wish to develop all the flavor possible.

Cream of Vegetable Soup.

2 tablespoons chopped rutabaga turnip.
2 tablespoons chopped carrots.
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
2 tablespoons chopped celery.
2 tablespoons melted butter or other fat.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 quart of milk.
1½ teaspoons salt.

Cook the finely chopped vegetables in the fat for 10 minutes, add the flour, and stir until all are well blended. In the meantime heat the milk in a double boiler, add a little of it to the vegetable mixture, stir well, combine with the rest of the milk, add the salt, and cook for 10 minutes. The flavor is improved if the soup is allowed to stand for a short time to blend before serving. Reheat and serve.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

CLEVER FINGERS! I have been struck again with the joy it is to live in this day and age—for all its drawbacks. You see, I don't often get to an art store myself, with La Chic Secretaire to shop for me, but this time I did because someone with a lot of taste offered me a birthday present of whatever I wanted in an art store. That wasn't such a break for him, but it was for me—and there I saw so-o-o-o many things that reminded me forcibly of what fun it was to be living today.

Especially interesting, I think, are the books you can find in an art store. These tell you 'most everything to do with your own clever fingers. Whole life's studies in how to make batik, for instance, are yours for a couple of dollars. Or the art and origin of masks, and how to make them. There is scarcely an art that you can not read all about making yourself, in the books that good art stores carry. And remember, that making things such as masks and batiks require no especial training or talent—just clever fingers and a little brain work.

Quite as interesting were the sets of this and that which the clever woman can use for herself—sets of paints and especial fluids for painting on fabrics, or whole books of stencil designs, with a box of the stenciling fluids if you wanted them. Better take an hour or so to browse through an art shop before Christmas.

Have you a little turtle in your home? Or, if not, why not? The kids would simply love him, and the grown-ups would get a big laugh out of him, too. For your own home then, or for a gift or several gifts, why not make a Mister Turtle the Dah-ray way? All you have to do is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which is ready this week, telling you all about how to make him. He's made of oilcloth, and costs about 10 cents or so to make. Christmas will be here soon, don't forget!

The Beauty Sorceress.

"Do I have to use a base before applying cosmetics?"—GRANDMOTHER.

"Always, my dear. There are literally hundreds of them on the market, a kind for every single type of skin. You can try until you find the right one, and use this as long as your skin does not tire of it—which skins do, mind you."

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

"DAME Nature has pretty good sound sense after all." Take that from a man who knows women, styles, beauty and art. He mentioned, for instance, that many women who dye their hair a different shade from the one nature gave them, forget to bleach their skins or use a far different make-up. And no matter what they did, he contends, it would be a mighty hard task to regain that "color harmony" that nature usually blends around skin, hair, eyes.

And, talking about eyes, he has no objection to women wearing the long artificial lashes. Occasionally they do fall into one's soup, he says. But on the whole they are not objectionable if (and his if is important) the individual is an unusual type; the type that one sees on stage, screen or fashion show platform. Certain it is that the individual should be otherwise beautiful, else the long lashes only serve to emphasize her lack of loveliness.

A touch of mascara—fine! A little oil on lid, brow or lash to lend luster—by all means! But a skinned brow—mon Dieu! And temperamental artist that the subject of our story is, he pulls his hair and fairly shouts:

"Why will women pluck their brows to a pencil line? Yes, they are still doing it, many of them, even though the vogue passed out with the flat, ugly, boyish form." They look "animalish"—remind this man of cows. Pardon, but that's his own expression.

And we are inclined to agree with him.

Not, mind you, that we do not favor plucking. The wild hairs out of march have no place on a cared-for face. They don't belong. And they detract from an otherwise beautifully groomed picture. Pluck the wild hairs, by all means. But, unless the brow is very heavy, pluck no more.

Don't Change Brows' Shape.

There are exactly ten different styles of eyebrows. Occasionally a woman may add more interest to her face by arching her brows just a wee bit more than nature does, plucking out a few hairs underneath. Sometimes, when the brows are very short, it adds beauty to the eyes to elongate them with an eyebrow pencil. Here again—just a suggestion. But it is a mistake to radically change the shape of the brow. For instance, this artist tells us that one of the models at a Paris opening had her own brow completely skinned and a pair painted on to look "worse than the devil." And they did.

"Oui," he says, "she attracted attention; but it was of the not-nice kind. You know what I mean?"

Of course we do; don't we?

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF October 27 is the date of your birth, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger hours are from 10:30 a. m. to 11:15 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Cares and responsibilities will seem to weigh heavily this October 27 on most people. The day will for the most part not be a particularly cheerful one. There will be a good deal of chafing at the bit with the closely related desire for greater freedom. Greater happiness and good cheer will be apparent toward nightfall.

The child born on this October 27 will early show a keen business sense. In his play and games he will probably display tendencies that will point to a successful commercial career. Look for him to make trades of his toys and other possessions, and furthermore to come out well in the bargaining. At school he will do well, and should have favorable reports particularly in his arithmetic.

If October 27 is your birthday, you are essentially a business man. You probably live, breathe and talk nothing but your work. You are a good conversationalist when discussing your own field of endeavor but unfortunately you are limited to that, for your interests are few. You are a voluble talker, and enjoy athletics and games that do not require a great deal of concentration. You are thus able to mingle with others and talk more business.

You have great physical and moral courage and are a hard worker. Down deep, you are very sympathetic, but you do not permit sympathy to stand in your way when it comes to the point of squeezing a few extra dollars out of some business man's pockets and into your own. You are shrewd but honest, and probably your greatest joy comes from successfully driving a hard bargain.

If you are a woman, you will probably succeed in business, but you would do equally well as a teacher or social worker. In the home you would be an extremely skillful wife and mother. Both men and women born on October 27 should prove to be very kind and likeable. They are fine parents and enjoy having children about. You are extremely orderly and methodical; you have a place for everything and you see to it that everything is always in its place. You are most intolerant of slovenliness and carelessness in others.

Successful people born on October 27:

Whitelaw Reid, journalist and diplomat.

John D. Long, governor of Massachusetts.

Eugene A. Smith, geologist.

Kenyon Cox, artist.

Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States.

Edward M. Grout, lawyer.

WHY NOT JAZZ UP THE CAMPAIGN?

THE presidential campaign is boring people. It lacks hot-cha. The candidates don't seem to realize that America has outlived the old mediums of spotlight grabbing. They have overlooked the fact that campaign speeches, an occasional ride in the locomotive cab and some intermittent baby kissing are old stuff in a world ruled by new standards of sensationalism.

* * * *

Huey Long, of Louisiana, and Dr. "Goat Glands" Brinkley, of Missouri, are the only two politicians in America who are outstanding campaign successes, and they both put on a combination medicine show, radio program and musical revue replete with low comedy and plenty of what Jimmy Durante calls "thisa and thata."

* * * *

The Republican campaign managers don't know the first thing about mass appeal. They should have had President Hoover catch a ball thrown from the top of the Washington Monument, fly across the country on an attempt for a new coast-to-coast record, take a trip in Prof. Beebe's bathysphere and go trout fishing with Marlene Dietrich and Clara Bow. That would have stirred America.

* * * *

And where have the Democratic managers been? Asleep at the switch. How much more of a figure Franklin D. Roosevelt would be at this minute if between speeches he had made a dirigible flight over Broadway by night with an unknown opera singer, picked the Yanks to win in four straight games, ridden with Gar Wood in a record-breaking motorboat epic and acted as master of ceremonies with a jazz orchestra during some cigarette hour?

* * * *

The campaign has had no pace, no pep, no pazzazza.

* * * *

HERE'S a program for a presidential candidate:

Monday.

10 a. m.—Round of golf with Babe Ruth.

1 p. m.—Lunch with Mae West.

3 p. m.—Parachute drop from a speeding airplane with six Rasch dancers.

Tuesday.

9 a. m.—Attempt rocket trip into stratosphere.

3 p. m.—Deny engagement to Texas Guinan.

Wednesday.

Disappear for 48 hours.

Thursday.

Friday.

Show up and indorse a tooth paste.

Saturday.

Be named in suit as a Love Pirate.

Sunday.

Announce plans to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel with Peggy Joyce and Queen Marie of Roumania.

* * * *

SPEECHES my eye! If a candidate wants to attract attention these days he must know what to do.

NEW LOW FOR THE MOVEMENT.

You may have seen the eagle fall,
The race horse lose its stride—
You may have seen the sweeping waves
Drop with the ebbing tide;
You may have seen a giant crash,
But here's one simple truth—
You ain't seen nuthin' 'till you've seen
That Yale team without Booth!

The trouble with the Yale football team is that the ten other boys regard the runners as the Forgotten Man.

USELESS.

The Steel Corporation has reduced the price of steel for railroad tracks, but with business in its present condition what do railroads want with tracks?

REVIVAL OF SCOUTING IS URGED BY JUDGE

Child Problem Agencies Are Praised at Meeting in Kensington.

Stressing the importance of encouraging agencies which tend to prevent the problem child, Judge R. Granville Curry, of the Mortgomery County Juvenile Court, last night urged that the Boy Scout movement in the county be enlivened. He spoke before the joint meeting of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce and the Parent-Teacher Association of the Kensington School in the schoolhouse.

Judge Curry explained the working of the county juvenile court as a social agency with certain fundamental legal safeguards. He stressed the importance of such organizations as the school, the Social Service League, which acts as probation officer for problem children, and especially the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, in maintaining the child in the proper channels of development. He said the Boy Scout movement in the county has suffered a setback through indifference, and urged that new life be given to the movement.

Prior to the joint meeting, each of the organizations held a short business meeting. The chamber voted to accept a gift of 100 pink weeping Japanese cherry trees from Dr. E. A. Merritt, of North Chevy Chase, and referred selection of a location for the trees to the roads, streets and bridges committee. J. W. Green and Joseph Brown were admitted to membership. W. I. Cleveland, president, presided.

Plans for the Halloween costume party to be held at 7:30 o'clock Monday night were discussed at the Parent-Teacher meeting.

The chamber of commerce joined in a reception to the faculty members of the school. A musical program was presented by Martha Davenport, violinist, and Hannah Booth, accompanist, both of the Inistute of Musical Art.

Ports of Virginia Third in Traffic

New York Is First and Philadelphia Second, Figures Show.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hampton Roads, Va., Oct. 26.—The ports on Hampton Roads in Virginia came within 350,000 tons of becoming the second largest in total volume of water-borne commerce during 1931, according to the annual report of the Hampton Roads Maritime Exchange, released here today by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, with which the maritime organization is affiliated.

The 1931 figures as compiled especially by the United States Shipping Board show the total volume of water-borne commerce from the Virginia ports to have been 19,315,644, as compared with 19,366,480 by Philadelphia and 51,722,330 tons by New York.

Boston was fourth in rank with approximately 14,372,346, and Baltimore, with 7,629,639, was fifth. In 1930 the Virginia ports fell more than 600,000 tons behind Philadelphia.

Youth Confesses Gang Activities

Says Cousin Is Head of "Black Shirts," but Story Is Scouted.

The alleged confession yesterday of a prisoner in the Elkton, Md., jail, implicating himself and a cousin in the recent series of robberies credited to the "black shirt" gang of southern Maryland, is being investigated by Maryland State police.

Little hope is held that the man's "confession" will help to shed light on activities of the dreaded gang. The prisoner, Blane Swan, colored, 20 years old, said that his cousin, Preston Swan, was leader of the band. In each holdup case the bandits have been described as white men.

Meanwhile Gov. Ritchie of Maryland refused to order Sheriff Richard T. Hammett, of Leonardtown, Md., to deputize State policemen as peace officers. He said that if necessary he would call out the National Guard to preserve order.

Maryland State Senator Charged With Being Drunk

Charges of being drunk and disorderly were placed against Thurman C. Atkinson, Maryland State senator from Baltimore after he and four companions went to the Landover, Md., home of Police Court Judge J. Chew Sheriff early yesterday to discuss a pending case.

Judge Sheriff refused to admit the men and called Prince Georges County Policeman Ralph Brown, who swore out drunk and disorderly warrants against four of the men. The fifth was arrested after one of five pints of liquor seized in the car had disappeared while warrants for the men were being written.

Those arrested were Atkinson, Thomas McNulty, of Hyattsville, and Raymond W. Ayers and Joseph Kunkel, of Baltimore, held on the drunk-and-disorderly charge, while possession warrants were sworn out for Kunkel and Walter Kay, of Linthicum Heights.

Atkinson was freed when he posted collateral of $4.50, and his associates were also freed on bond. Their case has been set for trial in Hyattsville Police Court on November 2. Judge Sheriff said Atkinson phoned him early in the evening and made an appointment to discuss a case pending against a man named Myers. The legislator did not come until very late, he said, and then did not mention the Myers case. Atkinson, in Baltimore, yesterday said that he was not drunk, and that Judge Sheriff became "excited" and called police.

ATTENTION! "FORWARD MARCH!"

A few impressions of those principally concerned gathered by the cartoonist as he watched a performance of the new Brown and Henderson revue, rapidly taking final shape on the stage of the National Theater.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is, perhaps, a little late to mention it, but "Madison Square Garden," probably the best feature picture based on a sports subject to be released in years, coming to the end of its engagement at the Earle Theater tonight, offers a spectacle of fallen greatness which to many old-timers of the ringside seats is infinitely pathetic.

By this very token it affords one of the most eloquent object lessons of the futility of it all that could possibly be held out to the horde of young men in and around the District of Columbia who are burning with the ambition to become great leather-pushers and so arouse the roar of the crowds.

It is, of course, to the ring champions of a past generation who are pressed into service in this film that I refer—Tom Sharkey, Billy Papke, Tommy Ryan and Jack Johnson. Here are a group of oldsters who were in the first flight in their prime, either champions or contenders and the best the ring had to offer in fighting ability and earning power. Today they are on the toboggan, if not actually penniless, glad to pick up the few—or the many—dollars thrown their way by the Paramount people in making a picture that is right up their alley.

Tom Sharkey, to be sure, was never successful in his fight to gain the heavyweight championship, but he was one of the toughest nuts the champions of his day had to crack. After passing his heyday in the roped arena he conducted a gaudy spot on Fourteenth street, in New York, almost directly across the street from the old Tammany Hall and Tony Pastor's original vaudeville theater. The last time I talked with him he was operating a similar establishment out on Kearney street, in San Francisco. We had both been to the boxing matches out at Jim Coffroth's Pavilion in the Exposition Grounds, and gibble-gabbled for an hour or so about the bouts and the old days in the East.

Papke and Ryan I never knew, but Jack Johnson, the last time I had conversed with him, was barnstorming in a New York avenue cabaret in Atlantic City and no man even then could lay a glove on him, wine-logged and flabby fat as he was.

And there they are—along with Mike Donlin, Tod Sloan, Stanislaus Zbyszko and the rest of the boys—night watchmen, janitors and part-time laborers, glad to pick up a penny or two as extras in a film play that must bring back the days of their prosperity and public adulation with a pang heavily charged with the sharp ache of dreams gone glimmering.

To bring these observations down to something a little more acute in public interest, it might be meet—as well as meat—to remark upon the many merits of "The Big Broadcast," the widely acclaimed stealing of radio thunder for the aggrandizement of the cinema, coming to the Palace tomorrow.

A Tuesday midnight preview of this expansive subject makes it possible to report that it fulfills most of what has been said about it in the palpitant panegyrics that have preceded it from the Paramount publicity department.

Insofar as its broadcasting aspects and concerned—and happily they constitute the major sequences of the picture—it is a splendid achievement, running over with brilliant talents and engaging personalities, and striking a note of high originality in its complete divorcement from the humdrum formulae of conventional "movies."

In the matter of its romantic story, however, I regret to say that the makers of the picture have seen fit to involve Bing Crosby, Stuart Erwin, Leila Hyams and Sharon Lynne in as inconsequential and far-fetched a piece of celluloid claptrap as has come along in a month of blue moons.

In answer to which, naturally, you will ask, "Well, with Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, Cab Calloway and His Orchestra, Arthur Tracy, the street singer; Vincent Lopez and His Orchestra, the Mills Brothers, Burns and Allen, Donald Novis and Announcers Don Ball, Jimmy Wallington, Norman Brokenshire and William Brenton looking after the broadcasting features of the entertainment, what possible difference could that make?"

The answer, needless to say, is "none whatever—or at least not much."

But I leave it to you if it isn't just a little daffy to make a young man from Texas with $900,000 in the bank and the most popular artist of the air lie down in front of a gas stove in a swanky duplex apartment to get away from it all because they think their gals have done them wrong?

And when that black cat is made to dive under a closed door like the mouse in the cartoon comedy, that is laying it on just a bit thick for a picture designed to be taken just a bit more seriously than a "Silly Symphony."

If that is what Paramount was shooting at, that cartoon comedy school of drama, they should have put the Four Marx Brothers in it and clowned it 100 per cent and properly!

By which I do not at all mean to imply that I think "The Big Broadcast" is a flop. It probably will turn out to be a whale at the box-office. With all those names how can it miss?

Brown and Henderson seem to be reaping quite a harvest of recent Washington stage attractions to bolster their first joint production, "Forward March," current at the National. Having already recruited Gracie Barrie, who recently shattered all precedent by playing three consecutive weeks at the Earle, they now signed Ruth Harrison and Alex Fischer, who, as the team of Harrison and Fischer, dancers, have scored one of the resounding hits of the stage bill closing tonight at Loew's Fox.

With tomorrow for rehearsal, Miss Harrson an Mr. Fischer go into "Forward March" Saturday and will be seen in both the matinee and night performances at the National.

The Brown and Henderson potential hit will vacate the National, by the way, just in time to make way Sunday night for Max Gordon's "The Cat and the Fiddle," the Jerome Kern-Otto Barbach collaboration that has been rated one of the most substantial successes of recent years. Bettina Hall and Michael Bartlett, surrounded by the original New York cast that played 53 weeks on Broadway, will be seen on E street all next week.

Down at the Gayety, since you seem still to be listening, Ann Corio returns Sunday afternoon for her second week of the season as guest star with the burlesque entertainment cooked up by Jimmy Lake, connoisseur of contours.

The enticements dangled before the public's eyes by the temples of the talkative tintypes during the ensuing week will be approximately as follows: Earle, Ruth Chatterton and George Brent in "The Crash" and seven-act anniversary vaudeville bill, headed by Daphne Pollard; Palace, "The Big Broadcast;" RKO-Keith's, Irene Dunne, Ricardo Cortez and Myrna Loy in "13 Women;" Loew's Fox, Tallulah Bankhead and Robert Montgomery in "Faithless," and May Joyce featured on the vaudeville bill; Rialto, Boris Karloff and Gloria Stuart in "The Old Dark House;" Metropolitan, Edward G. Robinson and Zita Johann in "Tiger Shark;" Columbia, "The Virgins of Bali."

"Virgins of Bali," incidentally, is not a travel picture like its predecessor, "Isle of Paradise," but relates a legendary story of a young girl who wanted to be a temple dancer.

A bally Bali ballet dancer, as you might say.

COUNTY WARRANTS ISSUANCE LIMITED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Issuance of warrants by the clerk of the court of Arlington County or his deputies, a practice that has been in effect in the county since the institution of the county court on last January 1, yesterday was held by Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the Circuit Court to be unconstitutional.

This decision, according to Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas, has a far-reaching effect.

Under the act authorizing a county court for the county, the issuance of warrants was placed in the hands of either the judge or the clerk of the court, and because of the convenience practically all of the warrants have been issued in the clerk's office.

As all proceedings in the county court must be by warrants, the decision will greatly increase the duties of Judge B. M. Hedrick, at the same time lessening the responsibility in the clerk's office, it was pointed out.

The question was raised by Attorney Emory N. Hosmer, who moved to quash a driving while drunk warrant against C. B. Robinson. Judge McCarthy granted the motion and then issued another warrant, upon which Robinson was tried and acquitted.

Because the ballot is 3 feet in length and contains 85 names of candidates and voters of Arlington County may experience some difficulty in casting the vote on election day, County Chairman L. G. MacPherson announced yesterday a voters school will be conducted at Republican headquarters in Clarendon daily until November 8.

Leo A. Rover, district attorney for the District of Columbia, and Mrs. Virginia White Speel, national committeewoman from the District of Columbia, are announced as the principal speakers at the Republican mass meeting to be held tomorrow night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon.

Speaking at the luncheon of the Arlington County Women's Democratic Club at Clarendon yesterday, Mrs. Ellis Meredith, of Washington, assailed the Republican administration for its lack of support in welfare legislation. Mrs. Lyman Haines, of Washington, also spoke.

The Clarendon Council, Daughters of America, will present an American flag to the Matthew Fontaine Maury School, at Clarendon, tonight at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. A program will be presented by pupils of the school following the flag presentation.

Takoma Park Body Approves of Brown

Chamber Asks Permission to Erect Marker at Town Limits.

A resolution approving the appointment of Ernest W. Brown, as major and superintendent of Metropolitan Police was adopted yesterday by the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber also adopted a resolution asking the District Commissioners for permission to erect a granite marker with a bronze plaque in Piney Branch road at Georgia avenue to indicate entrance to Takoma Park.

Lower gas rates for Maryland residents, better transportation facilities for Takoma Park, electrification of all steam railroads in the District and suburban Maryland, and main highway improvements were included in the program outlined for sponsorship by the chamber during the year.

3 Liquor Cargoes Seized On Highway; 4 Are Held

Three liquor cargoes were seized and four men were arrested in quick succession by Prince Georges County Policeman R. Arnold Naylor, patrolling the southern Maryland pike between T. B. and the District line early yesterday. In one case, a lengthy chase, two tires were shot off the liquor car, necessary before the driver capitulated, police said.

Those arrested were Calvin Walkling, of Hughesville, Md.; Russell Thomas, of Forestville, and Samuel Evans and Joshua Nelson, of Washington. The first three were charged with transportation and possession, while Nelson was accused of speeding and reckless driving.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

GOLF'S fair name will be defiled again on Monday at the War College links, where the tenth Cleland Cup tournament, the annual travesty on golf, will be permitted by the city's sports writers.

Among other things, the sports scriveners have proved in past tournaments that the arm is mightier than the niblick—especially out of traps—and that the pencil can offset the cleverest par or birdie, but what the tournament lacks in golfing finesse it provides in social success in a grand manner.

The commandant and officers of the War College are the annual hosts to the Cleland Cup tournament, and luncheon at the officers' mess between rounds, where the alibis are as free as the sunlight, and where they tell of missing more putts than an outboard motor with water in the gasoline.

Handicapping Task For Experts.

An incomparable feature of the Cleland Cup tournament is the handicapping committee and its methods, which have come to be fool proof, sound proof, ninety proof, and otherwise designed to guarantee that the best golfer shall not win.

The handicapping committee, both of them, went into session last night and emerged from the struggle in the wee small hours with the precious figures that have decided already the fate of all but a half dozen dark horses. Disheveled and looking as if they had been dragged through the Dark Ages on a fast strip, the committeemen announced the result of their labors.

How they arrived at their conclusions is still a mystery to the handicapped gentry, but the ratings testify that the deductions were formed something like this: Divide the age of the entrant by the birth rate in Siam; subtract from that figure the post position of the winner of the Laurel feature; subtract from the remainder the entrant's height in his stocking feet; then, if it appears that he has a chance to win, cut the figure in half.

Whiff to Be Counted This Year.

The committee has introduced one new rule for this year's tournament to the effect that every stroke must be counted, whiffs included. The habit of omitting these strikeouts from the scorecard in the past has prevented many contestants from setting a new high record for the course which stands at 156 for 18 holes, the handiwork of Heinie Miller in the 1925 tournament. Besides, discouraging these whiffs will lessen the annual gale on the Potomac.

With the announcement that the tournament was duly scheduled for Monday, what appeared to be a strange natural phenomenon occurred yesterday at the War College links, which were found to be flooded under several feet of water. Officials of the Weather Bureau, who reported no rainfall yesterday, investigated the matter and came to the conclusion that the unprecedented moisture represented only the copious tears that were shed by the fairways at the thought of what Monday will bring. The handicaps follow:

Whelan Seen West Point Prospect

C. U. Back Field Star Sounded on Future by Army Men.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TOMMY WHELAN has been approached unofficially by representatives of the United States Military Academy, with a view to having him matriculate at West Point after he finishes his meteoric football career at Catholic University this season. Whelan, one of the country's leading scorers for the last two years, and outstanding among District college back-field men for three years, is extremely anxious to secure an appointment. He told The Post yesterday that it had long been his ambition to follow a military career.

To hundreds of local followers of this dynamic back-field ace, his admission to West Point gives him a one-way ticket to the brand of competition and the type of cooperation that will sweep him into the forefront as a real figure in the football world, and perhaps an all-American berth.

Whelan is an honor student at Catholic University. His appointment would have to come from the Washington Heights district of New York City.

Whelan Eligible For Army.

West Point rules permit college graduates to play three years after entering the Academy. The Catholic University satellite is now 20 years old, well within the age restriction limit of 21. There is nothing to stand in his way, physically, for he is molded well-nigh perfectly for football or any other sport. He is an adept basket ball player.

Some of West Point's most immortal football figures played at colleges before entering the military institution. Elmer Oliphant, rated one of the greatest full backs of all time, played at Bucknell before West Point. Harry Wilson, an all-American half back at Penn State, duplicated that feat at West Point. Howard Sprague captain of Army a few years ago, played at Texas, and the immortal Reds Cagle took his first varsity football steps at Louisiana.

C. U. Star Is Army "Type."

Whelan is the Army "type," from the top of his light curly hair, down past his square-cut shoulder, to his thin waist and on to his mercury-winged ankles. His playing at C. U. has meant the difference between a mediocre team and a truly successful one. He has not failed to score since the fourth game of the 1930 season. His runs for touchdowns have been generally spectacular, ranging from 96 yards down. In his only appearance here this year he ran through tackle on the first play to score on an 87-yard gallop in the Chattanooga game.

COLLEGIANS TO BATTLE MARINES

Davis-Elkins Here Saturday; Blues Play Tomorrow.

WHAT promises to be one of the season's football treats will be presented Saturday afternoon at Griffith Stadium, when the Quantico Marines, ever an attraction, play hosts to Davis and Elkins, Little Davids, from the hills of West Virginia, in the only appearance here this year of both teams.

The Marines, who have never been beaten badly in their grid career—even when the Marine teams of 1922-24 played Michigan and other headliners—are counting on general ruggedness to triumph over the shifty play of the West Virginians.

Public officials have been invited to attend the game.

Gallaudet College's hard-working young football team meets its most serious foe of the season tomorrow afternoon when Baltimore University is encountered at Kendall Green. Not much hope is held out for the ambitious Silents, in view of Baltimore's victory over Canisius last week.

American University yesterday shifted its Shepherd (W. Va.) College game from Shepherdstown to American University Field, Saturday.

Povich to Interview Grid Coaches on Air

Shirley L. Povich, sports editor of The Washington Post, will interview both Coach Jim Pixlee, of George Washington, and Ossie Solem, of the University of Iowa, tonight over Station WOL. Just what each coach thinks of his team's chances of winning tomorrow night's game at Griffith Stadium will be brought out by the persons who know the most about these things.

The George Washington University band, and a detachment of cheering undergraduates, will aid the broadcast.

Capital Senators Play Strong Elevens Here

Having scheduled Frankford's American Legionnaires for Griffith Stadium next Wednesday night, Washington's Senators are rapidly rounding out a big league football schedule that is to include games with some of the country's best known professional elevens.

The schedule to date:

October 29 (night), Frankford American Legion, away; 30, Passaic-Wessingtons, away.

November 2 (night), Frankford American Legion, Griffith Stadium; 6, Atlantic City Professionals, away (pending); 9 or 16, Brooklyn Dodgers, Ebbets Field; 13, Western Maryland All-Stars, Baltimore; 18, Providence Steam Rollers, away; 25, Mohawks, Griffith Stadium.

December 5, Memphis Tigers, Memphis.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The bright light of confidence shone on one college campus today as the rumblings that annually accompany unexpected defeat rolled like thunder about the heads of other Eastern football coaches, particularly at Fordham and Yale.

Simultaneous with the start of a special committee investigation into professionalism charges, Columbia authorities signed Lou Little, head football coach, to a new three-year contract, although official confirmation will be withheld until the end of the season.

This "vote of confidence" gesture toward the big leader who has revivified Columbia football leaked out as the committee, appointed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, belatedly sought to run down charges published in the college paper last year and revived this fall that football men were favored in the allocation of jobs and alumni scholarships as well as by the faculty in classrooms.

"There will be no announcement regarding Coach Little until after the close of the 1932 season," the athletic office announced. Little explained that he "couldn't talk about it until the season is over."

Little May Have Taken "Cut."

Little is understood to have accepted a reduction of $3,500 yearly under his new contract calling for $15,000 annually, instead of the $18,500 agreement he received upon coming here from Georgetown three years ago. The Lions rolled over all but Cornell last fall and are a powerful, undefeated unit so far this season.

The rumblings at Yale over the worst start in the history of any Eli eleven do not affect Mal Stevens, young head coach. Anxious to devote all his time to his medical career, Stevens agreed reluctantly to remain this year at Yale. He had announced previously that he can not return next fall.

Rather, the Yale situation involves the usual alumni arguments over a deemphasis program that has failed to bring victory. In four games Yale has been tied by Bates and Chicago, beaten by Brown, crushed by Army. Through the remainder of the year there seems certain to be much conjecture as to the next Yale leader, the system of play and the general attitude toward football.

Booth Backed for Coaching Job.

Two of the men most prominently mentioned as possible head coaches in 1933 represent the two extremes of the Eli alumni ranks—Amos Alonzo Stagg, recently dethroned after 40 years at Chicago, and Albie Booth, ball-toting hero as recently as last fall.

Rumors persist that Frank Cavanaugh, "iron major" of the World War, suffering more and more each year from wounds received in that conflict, will not return as Fordham's head coach next fall. Despite denials, the rumors flared again when the Ram bumped into an unexpectedly decisive defeat at the hands of Michigan State last Saturday.

Pitt Envisions Victory Over Notre Dame

Sees Best Chance in 23 Meetings to Cop on Saturday.

Panthers' Record Almost as Good as That of Irish.

By P. R. LINDGREN.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The Panthers of Pitt, on edge for their traditional gridiron classic with Notre Dame in the stadium Saturday, are telling themselves they have a better chance than ever before to do something they have never done—beat the Irish.

But they admit it's a tough assignment and they anticipate a busy Saturday afternoon.

It was 23 years ago that the football stalwarts of Pitt and Notre Dame first met on the gridiron. The best the Panthers ever have been able to do was hold the Ramblers to a scoreless tie in 1911.

In 1909—the first year the teams met—Notre Dame won, 6 to 0, through superb line plunging by Vaughn and Dimmick. Then came the deadlock of 1911. The next year, in a terrific struggle between two evenly matched elevens, the Irish won, 3 to 0, with a field goal from the agile toe of Gus Dorais.

Teams Did Not Meet Between 1912-1930.

Football relations were broken off then until 1930, when the Irish again rambled into Pittsburgh and went home with a 35-to-19 victory.

Notre Dame comes to Pittsburgh this year master of all it has met. The Ramblers have smashed their way to victory over Haskell, Drake and Carngele Tech.

Pitt's record is almost as good. The Panthers have vanquished Ohio Northern, West Virginia, Duquesne and Army. The only blemish on their slate is last Saturday's scoreless tie with Ohio State.

Notre Dame will not have its famed "four horsemen" of the past. It will not have such great footballers as Nordi Hoffman, Marchy Schwartz and Tommy Yarr, but several members of Irish reserve elevens will come up to fill the gaps.

De Capua and Britt In Bout at Gayety

Four Matches on Benefit Card Following Show at Theater Tonight.

Several boxing matches are scheduled tonight at the Gayety Theater for the benefit of the Police and Firemen's Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The program will begin shortly after the last regular performance.

Jimmy De Capua and Sammy Britt will clash in the main go. Joe Doty will face Sammy Romano, Jack Quigley takes on George Perez and Roy Manley trades punches with Johnny Mays.

Reserve seats and general admission tickets may be procured at the Traffic Bureau, Gayety, or Joe Turner's, it was announced.

Eastern High Defeats Emerson Eleven, 19-0

G. U. and G. W. Meet On Gridiron—Socially

Georgetown met George Washington last night at Griffith Stadium—but there was no kick-off. The meeting was purely social.

Each team was scheduled to hold practice at the stadium unknown to the other. Coach Tommy Mills' Hilltop squad was already on the scene when Coach Jim Pixlee arrived with his Colonials. The last half hour of Georgetown's practice saw them sharing the field with George Washington.

The tranquillity of local rivalry was preserved with Coaches Mills and Pixlee bidding each other luck in their respective games.

MD. U. COACH REINSTATES POPPELMAN

Byrd Lifts Star's Ban After Apology and Team's Petition.

AS was intimated exclusively in The Washington Post yesterday morning, Ray Poppelman, deposed Maryland back field star, was restored to the Old Line squad yesterday, at the request of the entire Maryland grid squad, and will be in the game Saturday when Maryland attempts to win its first Southern Conference game of the season against V. M. I. in Richmond.

Poppelman was asked to turn in his uniform a week ago today, when Coach Curley Byrd charged that he had struck a freshman lineman, Magruder Huff, with a clenched fist in practice. Poppelman accepted the discharge, protesting his innocence, and issued a combination statement and apology in The Diamondback, Maryland's newspaper, Monday afternoon, reiterating his contention that he had struck Huff with the conventional stiff arm and with no intention other than legitimate defense.

Return of Poppelman Aids Team.

Poppelman's return to the squad places Maryland in a promising position for Saturday's game, for it now possesses real brawn in its back field where it has had only speed and deception since Poppelman was deposed.

The return of the brawny former Marine, who is an honor student scholastically, definitely spikes reports that he will turn professional with a local team.

Maryland continued her workouts yesterday afternoon and is beginning to grow pretty confident about Saturday's outcome. V. M. I. beat Virginia, which in turn beat Maryland, but Maryland will go into Saturday's game a considerably improved team. Poppelman's return may have a distinct psychological effect on Maryland. The squad is in good physical shape, but had gone about their duties methodically since the big back, who carried Maryland to fame and fortune last year, had been relegated to the sidelines.

Pullover, 100-to-1 Shot, Wins Cambridgeshire

Newmarket, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. C. B. Robinson's Pullover, ridden by Richardson, and at odds of 100 to 1, today won the Cambridgeshire stakes, one of the big handicap fixtures of the autumn on the English turf. The stakes are run at one mile and an eighth.

City's Fair Fans Seek to Win Grid Seats

DON'T be surprised if a fair follower of football wins the second week's Washington Post Football Contest. Among the hundreds of letters which poured in to the Contest Editor's desk yesterday were a batch from women football fans. Miss Kaye Huguley, Navy Department stenographer, took third place last week.

Tickets to the big Maryland-Vanderbilt game of November 5 are at stake this week—worth-while prizes indeed. Four box seats go to the winner of first place, two to second place, and one to third.

Incidentally, Maryland's game this Saturday against V. M. I. in Richmond is causing the fans no end of trouble trying to make up their minds which team will win and what the score will be. Opinion is about divided thus far, giving a hurried glance over nearly 1,000 clippings. The return of Ray Poppelman to the Maryland squad, effected yesterday, may change many fans' opinions.

The rules of this contest are simple and definite. Underneath are twelve games, to be played Saturday. Jot down the scores you believe your favorite club will win by and mail the clipping to the Contest Editor of The Post. Hurry up. Contest closes tomorrow at midnight.

CARDS, G. U. TEAMS OFF TODAY

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY risks an eleven-game winning streak and Georgetown seeks its first victory in three starts over the adjacent weekend, on foreign fields. The Cardinals, unbeaten and untied since the second game of the 1931 season, face the sternest test of two years against Holy Cross Saturday at Worcester, and Georgetown, eager to shake off its doldrums, clashes with the University of Detroit, tomorrow night under the soft glow of lamplight.

Both teams have chances to win. C. U. goes into the Holy Cross game an unknown quantity to the big Purples—and probably lightly regarded. Georgetown has a tremendously tough assignment against Detroit, whose only loss this year has been a 7-to-0 decision at the hands of the team C. U. plays.

With police guarding the only gate to the Brookland Stadium, and assistant managers chasing kibitzers for miles around, Catholic University's first team put the last touches on its offense yesterday against the big freshman squad.

STEELE AND DAVISCOURT TO CLASH

Meet in Feature at Auditorium Tonight; Dusek on Card.

ONE of Dr. Joseph Turner's most impressive wrestling shows will be committed tonight at the Washington Auditorium. The feature bout brings together a world-known figure, Ray Steele, against a thick-set gentlemanly bruiser who has incurred the ire of the local populace, Dick Daviscourt.

Steele loses to only one man in wrestling, Jim Londos, and thousands believe that he is better than the champion. Certainly he is bigger and stronger, and seems to know about as much about the game. Steele won the first fall from Londos the last time they met, Londos the second one, and the third resulted in a draw. It was the only time since gaining the title in 1930 that Londos' shoulders have touched the mat.

Daviscourt Former Teacher.

Daviscourt used to teach school, but a huge frame, a mien like that of the late Lou Wolheim, a natural bent for wrestling and shortage of teaching jobs sent him into the grappling game. He has fared very well, winning many matches with unorthodox holds, at kicks in the jaw and expert eye-gouging.

The preliminaries are generally important. Gino Garibaldi, who used to be a headliner here, meets George Vassell, another former show-topper, in a 30-minute bout. Rude Rudy Dusek, generally credited with putting wrestling onto the big money here, meets up with Pat McKay, who has been winning here lately. Milo Steinborn meets Lou Plummer, former Notre Dame gridman, and Alex "Billiard Ball" Aberg has to put up with the antics of Tigah Nelson.

Takoma-S. S. Booters Rout Damascus, 18-0

Takoma-Silver Spring made its debut in the Montgomery County High School championship soccer race yesterday with an 18-to-0 victory over Damascus. Mygatt, Cole and Schnable, with two goals each, led the scorers.

Friday, at Silver Spring, the Takoma-Silver Spring booters will take on the Bethesda team.

Friday Night Game Seen Toss-Up

Minnesota's Famous Shift Employed by Hawkeye Eleven.

All-Texas Back Field May Start Battle for Colonials.

THE old Minnesota shift, plotted back in the days when full backs were rated by the density of their mustachios, will waddle into Griffith Stadium tomorrow night when Iowa University plays George Washington in a tussle that marks the first time a Big Ten team has ever played in Washington and the first time a Big Ten team has ever played at night.

Iowa, known in the dictionary of nicknames as the Hawkeyes, uses this old Minnesota shift. Yesterday the Colonial Freshmen borrowed it, and actually advanced with embarrassing strides against the regulars, who were on the defense. Mechanically it looked very cumbersome. The center gets over the ball 3 feet up in front of his pals. The two tackles and two guards are behind him, on a straight line, and the two ends are a foot or so behind them. The quarter stands in the middle of a sandwich made by the two halfs and the full back is 10 feet behind him. From above it probably looks like a diamond.

Iowa's Shift Problem For Officials.

Officials will have their eyes peeled to see if Iowa makes use of momentum when the players, after a jig this way and that, finally come up on the line and take off. A full stop must be effected by a line, but the way the freshmen were showing off with hardly a stop yesterday means—if that is a true replica of Iowa's manner—that the zealous guardians of the football rules will be given fits trying to decide whether the Iowans have momentum stored up in them when the ball is finally snapped or not.

Reports emanating from Iowa yesterday, when the midlanders entrained for Washington, lessened confidence here that G. W. should win by a touchdown or two. Several of the husky Iowans who helped to beat George Washington last year have been supplanted by bruising sophomores, and shunted back to reserve positions. The fine showing of the team against the crack Indiana eleven this year has caused many locals to shift their bets to Iowa.

The game looks pretty much like a toss-up. George Washington's two triple-threat men—Johnny Fenlon and Lee Carlin—are far from being in their best condition. Both went through more limbering up exercises yesterday, favoring their right shoulders. It looks as though Nig McCarver will do the majority of the passing.

JACK HIGH IS WINNER IN FEATURE RACE AT LAUREL PARK

1931 Preakness Winner Surprises With Fast Finish.

Hanford Rides Three Winners; Peturnal Drops Dead.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

JACK HIGH, fresh from his track record effort at a mile, scored a handy victory in the Tilghman Handicap, which drew a field of seven candidates for Saturday's $15,000 Capital Handicap to the post. Although Jack High's victory was by three-quarter length margin, the real thrill of the race was the showing of Mate, winner of last year's Preakness. Mate, the property of A. C. Bostwick, had shown little or nothing in the way of speed this year until yesterday.

Entering the stretch behind Rehoboth and Jack High, Mate surprised with a closing dash that may or may not have won for him in a few more strides. Opinion was divided as to whether or not Jack High was ridden out.

Rehoboth Early Leader.

Rehoboth, which led the field for most of the distance, slid back to third during the last eighth of the stretch run. Jack High had been laying behind the pacemaker for the journey.

Laurel drew a crowd in the neighborhood of 8,000, and both the long-shot and favorite players had their innings.

Buddy Hanford, leading Maryland rider, came through with three victories. He had the mounts on Clarify, Try It and Totem.

Grace R. made every post a winning one to send the long-shot players off smiling as the program opened. Star Fairy, of the favored Somerville-Foxcatcher entry, was second, ahead of Lady Legend. Tex Callahan had the mount on the winner and hustled her every step of the way. Grace R. rewarded at a $33.60 mutuel.

Irish Bullet Is Disqualified.

The race was marked by the disqualification of Irish Bullet, which had set the pace for most of the distance. Irish Bullet, which finished second, interfered with Flavius between the last two jumps. The ruling gave the place to Flavius and the show to Outlaw. No mishaps marked the contest. McGinnis, on Irish Bullet, was exonerated of any blame in the foul.

Contribute walked the chalk line for the favorite players to take the third race. Renaissance took the second money from Sea Fox. The first and second horses hooked up in a brilliant stretch duel after Princess Camella, the pace-setter, had passed up the issue. Todd was on the winner, with Morris on Renaissance.

Buddy Hanford came through with a smashing ride to bring Clarify, the property of M. L. Schwartz, home the winner in the fourth race for juveniles. Fingal was second ahead of Keggy, a field horse. Peturnal set the pace to the eighth pole and then gave up in the rush for the wire. Clarify was another outsider, paying $35.70 in the mutuels.

Peturnal dropped dead as Jockey A. Snider attempted to pull him up after the race.

Try It Wins With Hanford.

Hanford rode his second winner of the day on Try It in the sixth race. Boscobel was second and Night Patrol was third. Try It was last at the clubhouse turn, but Hanford brought him up on the outside and circled the field to win going away. Hanford came from behind on Totem in the final for his third win of the day.

GRACE R. hurried into the lead, withstood early contention from LIGHT RIPPLE and LADY LEGEND, was shaken up when straightened into the home stretch and came away smartly. STAR FAIRY, restrained early, was put to a drive in the last half mile, but faltered after a stout effort at the final furlong pole. LADY LEGEND, prominent throughout, held on well in the final drive. FINE FIBRE was forced wide from the start. LIGHT RIPPLE weakened badly after three furlongs. PERNICKETY saved ground, but was not good enough.

SECOND RACE—About 2 miles. Purse, $1,500; the Governor Ogle Steeplechase Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:16½. Winner, T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CREEK, $13.70, $6.70, $5.30; FLAVIUS, $10.60, $7.90; OUTLAW, $12.30.

CREEK, badly outrun for the first mile, responded stoutly in the final half mile, saved a great deal of ground when IRISH BULLET carried FLAVIUS very wide into the home stretch, and finishing in determined fashion, caught the leaders at the final fence and drew out gradually. IRISH BULLET raced WHAT HAVE YOU into quick submission, fenced boldly, but began tiring and carried FLAVIUS out badly all during the stretch run. He was disqualified for interfering with FLAVIUS. Latter, crowded at the seventh fence, came to the pacemaker determinedly at the twelfth fence, but was carried out by IRISH BULLET, only for which he may have been winner. OUTLAW was unable to menace the leaders, but raced well. DAVID showed a good effort. HUFFY was taken up at the first fence when W. Collins lost his stirrup irons and fell far out of contention. WHAT HAVE YOU stopped badly.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:51. Off at 2:53. Winner, C. N. Amory's ch. h. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CONTRIBUTE, $5.70, $3.20, $2.70; RENAISSANCE, $5.60, $4.60; SEA FOX, $6.70.

CONTRIBUTE, kept close to the early pace, and racing close to the leaders, closed gamely when straightened into the home stretch and outfinished RENAISSANCE. Latter raced PRINCESS CAMELIA and JUDGE PRIMROSE to nails command at the final furlong pole, but could not stall off the winner. SEA FOX, a strong factor the entire trip, held on with good courage. PRINCESS CAMELIA had speed for five furlongs, but tired as if short. IMA QUEEN finished with a rush. STAND BY was outrun. JUDGE PRIMROSE was used up early.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:23½. Winner, M. L. Schwartz' b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CLARIFY, $35.70, $14.50, $9.70; FINGAL, $6.50, $4.60; KEGGY, field wins.

CLARIFY, following close up, saved ground entering the home stretch, and moving clear when taking command had enough left to stall off FINGAL. Latter, stoutly ridden the entire trip, came wide into the home stretch and finished courageously. KEGGY, never better than fair, finished gamely when put to a drive. PETURNAL, steered wide and weakly handled, finished stoutly on her own courage. SNAPLOCK lost ground all the way. ONCE closed fast on the inside from a slow beginning. CATCALL. CUTIE FACE and CORDOBA were rushed off their feet making the pace. LIQUEUR had too much taken out of him to reach contention and he stopped. As did CATTAIL. PETURNAL dropped dead after the finish.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; the Tilghman Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:56. Off at 3:57. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JACK HIGH, $4.60, $3.60, $3.10; MATE, $9.70, $5.80; REHOBOTH, $6.40.

JACK HIGH, reserved while rated close to REHOBOTH, took command when ready and was well in hand when approaching the finish. MATE, ridden hard from the start, finished gamely when placed to punishment. REHOBOTH had good speed while setting a stiff pace, and continued gamely when displaced. ST. BRIDEAUX finished with good speed. PARI MUTUEL showed a good test. VALENCIENNES made up a lot of ground. BLENHEIM weakened steadily.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:25. Off at 4:31. Winner, T. T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRY IT, $11.00, $5.10, $3.20; BOSCOBEL, $5.40, $3.50; NIGHT PATROL, $2.50.

TRY IT, handled in improved fashion over his previous race, was kept closer up in the early stages, reached his field rapidly and closing resolutely was up in the final jump. BOSCOBEL, a stout factor, held on well. NIGHT PATROL, a contender after racing NIGHT PATROL and MOVE FASTER into defeat. NIGHT PATROL, favored by improved handling, was rated in front and held on well to outstay MOVE FASTER. Latter, in the thick of contention, finished gamely. BROWN PET was taken wide for the entire trip. QUARTER DECK went evenly and should improve. AVALON had no excuses.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:00. Off at 5:06½. Winner, D. A. TOTEM, steadied close to the leaders and forced to race on the outside, moved up to gain command when straightened into the home stretch and under strong handling outstayed BRANDON ROSE. Latter assumed a brief lead after the start, withstood strong contention from BROWN PET early and came again during the closing furlong. BATTERING RAM secured racing room on the inside when rested, and finished fast when taken wide for the final drive. WILLIAM T. kept well placed, finished fast at the end. BROWN PET hung in the closing quarter mile. MING SUN showed a good test. LITTLE STOKES came resolutely at the finish.

DAVIS, LEWIS IN PORTNER FEATURE

Capital Star Seeking to Avenge Loss to Baltimorean.

RODDY DAVIS, fast-stepping Washington lightweight, will realize one of his ambitions Monday night at Portner's Arena in Alexandria. Yesterday he was informed by Matchmaker Frankie Mann that he would fight in the feature match of a 32-round program, with Patsy Lewis, of Baltimore, as his opponent.

Davis has made such meteoric strides in the ring that Portner officials concluded he was good timber for main scraps. Davis and Lewis will battle eight rounds—the Eastern High boy's first main go and the first time he has boxed over six rounds.

Lewis fought Davis back in January at Portner's, shellacking the local fighter to such an extent that the match was halted in the third round. Since then Davis has learned how to ward off body punches, cover up under fire and return blow for blow. The only other man to hold a decision over Davis is K. O. Burns, who won in a four-rounder last year. After the defeat at the hands of Lewis, Davis settled down in earnest. He has captured fifteen fights. Two weeks ago, at Portner's, Lewis won every heat of a six-rounder from Tony Ross, of Baltimore, a slugger, if ever there was one. Davis beat Billy Essinger in a six-rounder at Twin City and has whipped Soldier Clark, Jack Britten, Leroy Zinkham, George Earick, Chuck Henderson and Donald First.

Lewis defeated Sammy Hogan, of Baltimore, in a four-rounder the same night Davis beat Ross.

Promoter Mann is arranging two sixes, another eight and two rounders for Monday's card.

GODFREY VS. POREDA.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—George Godfrey, 260-pound Philadelphia Negro, was signed today to meet Stanley Poreda, Jersey City heavyweight, in a ten-round bout here November 10.

Godfrey's two-year suspension growing out of his unsatisfactory bout with Primo Carnera was lifted recently and on Monday night last he won by technical knockout over Al Fay, of Charleroi, Pa.

Hitting the Headpin

ROLLING her first full set of the season, Margaret Miltner, outstanding tournament bowler, clicked off a dandy 119 high game and a set of 323 to collobborate with Sarah Updike, who scored a 329 high set, in leading the Bills Woods team to a three-game victory over Convention Hall last night in the Ladies' District League at the Lucky Strike Alleys.

With Polly Shugrue toppling the pins for 125 high game and 350 high set, Lucky Strike walloped the champion Rendezvous team in two games.

Arcadia took two from Recreation, Esther Burton and Helen Kohler starring for the victors with a 321 set and 130 high game. It remained for Pauline Bradburn, of the losers, to carry off individual honors with her 134 and 355.

King Pin made a clean sweep of the games with Petworth at the latter's alleys.

The leading Occidental Restaurant team fell before Rendezvous in two of three last night, winning the first game by a wide margin, but slumping to drop the last two. Magnus Wood's 353 was high for Rendezvous. Maxie Rosenburg, nationally known bowler from Occidental, reeled off a smashing 149 high game, while his teammate, Astor Clarke, crashed through with a 367 high set.

Hyattsville beat Convention Hall, rallying to win the last two and wind up with a 1,826 total. Eagle-eyed Tony Santini, tied with Paulie Harrison at 376 for high set, proved his worth by shooting a 142 for high individual game honors.

Bob McPherson and the Washington Loan & Trust Co. last night accounted for high honors in the Bankers League on the Arcadia drives. McPherson had high individual game of 142 and set of 365, while his team was high with respective figures of 558 and 1,619.

Tilley and the Kiwanis team, of which he is a member, showed the way in the Civic Club League last night at Arcadia. The high individual scores were a 151 game and a 364 set, while the respective team figures read 629 and 1,653, respectively.

The Wrecking Crew and Safe Blowers did the dynamiting last night in the Dynamite League, blasting a 1,530 set and a 545 game, respectively. Byer, of the Labkatz, stole individual honors, though, knocking down 137 pins for high game and having a set-total of 363.

Histon carried off individual honors in the Bureau of Standards League at the Columbia alleys, shooting a high set of 354 and game of 140. Engineers, with 1,520, had high team set, while Levulats, with 546, registered the best team game.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: LAUREL RACE TRACK.

I beg to apologize, friend, for putting you on a stiff yesterday. I mean Peturnal. It's mighty true that this one dropped dead after the finish of his race yesterday and it's just possible that he was running his heart out for us. Led the field from the start to the quarter pole, where his legs seemed to brace under him. The fine riding of Danny Meade, the longshot boy, has not been in vain. It looks like a contract with the Bradley interests for him. Laurel officials are watching that clubhouse turn closely these days for foul riding. It was at this point that Coucci was detected. Yesterday Eddie Smith, Capital boy, was given the meeting for cutting across his field. Martin is on the ground for the same reason. BILL.

FIRST RACE—DID SHE has been keeping too high-class company of late, but today she's dropped down where she will have a chance to show her stuff to advantage. Gets a good post. SCOTCH NELL and LOWER TEN for the rest.

SECOND RACE—GRAND ACRE appears in top form and I'd rather put him where he belongs than take a shot at the good things that may wake up here. LILLYBET has been threatening to take a purse. FAIR BILL may have needed that last.

THIRD RACE—NEGOPOLI seems destined to take his first purse here. This fellow is plenty honest and is always there or thereabouts. MONOCLE has been closing fast. LUCKY CARTER for the show.

FOURTH RACE—MR. KHAYYAM defeated a star field the last time out and seems to hold the edge here. ROYAL BLUNDER has had bad racing luck of late and is the one to fear. SUN CAPTOR is speedy and may chase the other two home.

FIFTH RACE—Pardon me if I stick to MICROPHONE in

Stocks Renew Advances On Crest of Buying Wave

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The winds of speculation continued to blow alternately hot and cold on the stock market today, with prices closing 1 to 2 points higher on the crest of a buying wave which developed in the final half hour of trading.

Overnight news that directors of the United States Steel Corporation had found their way clear to declare the regular $1.75 quarterly dividend on the preferred shares whipped up some buying enthusiasm at the opening of the market. This enthusiasm failed to endure, however, and around midday, earlier gains of 1 to 3 points had been converted into losses of about like amount. In the late trading, however, prices were lifted to around their best levels of the day, as shorts covered. Total transfers were 869,260 shares.

U. S. Steel preferred closed at 76⅛, a gain of 4⅛ points. The common stock gained fractionaly. Advances of 1 to 2 points were recorded by American Can, American Telephone, Case, Consolidated Gas, Drug, Eastman, General Motors, Lehigh Valley, Public Service of New Jersey and American Can. Lackawanna and International Business Machine gained around 3, while Homestake Mining registered a gain of more than 5 points.

Additional earning reports from the railroads continued to make a favorable September showing as compared with August. The first 34 roads to issue reports showed combined net operating income had approximately doubled—$22,340,000 in September against $12,129,000 in August—although gross revenues had increased only 21 per cent in the same period. Reports on freight movement for the week ended October 22 indicated that the year's high water mark reached in the week ended October 15 was being well maintained, Pennsylvania and New York Central registering nominal gains over the previous period. Returns published to date indicated, however, that the final figures for the entire country might fall a little under the total for the October 15 week, although the margin appeared so close that an accurate estimate was difficult.

Corporate earning reports for the third quarter continued to call attention to the extremely low ebb of business in the period just passed. Except for a few companies, such as some of those engaging in food products, third quarter earnings were considerably below the second quarter totals.

What the Stock Market Did

	Wed.	Tues.
Advances	207	104
Declines	185	249
Unchanged	114	120
Total issues traded	506	473

Stocks.

Speculation played the market up and down, but the final result was an average gain of 1 point, attained on a buying wave. There were several gains of 1 to 3 points. United States Steel's regular dividend aided the tone of trading. Steel preferred gained 4⅛ points. The day's turnover climbed to 869,260 shares.

Bonds.

The decline in prices continued in a dreary market. Average losses mounted to three-tenths of a point. Rallies in foreign bonds provided the only buoyancy of the session. Some railroad liens recovered mildly; others lost up to 2 points. Utilities were mixed. Sales totaled $7,245,000.

Curb.

Trading still drifted, with price changes in a narrow range. The list stiffened a trifle in the last hour on buying of utilities. Oils fluctuated narrowly. Industrials were dull and mixed. The turnover remained at 120,000 shares for the third consecutive day.

Wheat.

Prices in Chicago and Winnipeg sank to the lowest level in 70 years. Canada left grains unsupported and values drifted. Corn and oats sagged to low ground. Heavy selling was blamed. December wheat sold at 44¾ to 44⅞ cents.

Cotton.

Renewed firmness enabled cotton to gain 13 to 16 points after early reactions. The advance was made on trade's buying. All active months were benefited by the rise. Southern selling continued moderate. December closed at 6.31. Liverpool reported trade selling and Bombay bought.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Quotations on the stock exchange continued yesterday's improvement. Gilteedged securities and industrials benefited on renewed buying and the recovery in sterling exchange. Speculative and other issues eased in the afternoon and the close was irregular.

Paris—Profit taking at the opening on the bourse absorbed most of yesterday's gains. Trading was restricted and rentes and international issues declined with the exception of central mining shares. The market closed heavy.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse generally was more friendly. The closing was inactive but sustained.

CURB PRICES DRIFT IN NARROW RANGES

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The Curb Market still drifted in a narrow trading range today.

The list had a somewhat heavy undertone for a time, but stiffened a little in the last hour, as some buying came into the utilities. In the main, however, price changes were inconsequential. The turnover held in the neighborhood of 120,000 shares for the third successive day.

Electric Bond & Share, down a point at one time, came up to close at 24, a net gain of a point. American Gas & Electric was also off almost a point for a time, but recovered to close virtually unchanged. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore lost 2.

The oils held to a narrow range. Standard of Indiana and Gulf were all but unchanged at the close. Newmont Mining gained a fraction, although the copper metal market still displayed a somewhat heavy undertone.

Industrials were dull and mixed. Sherwin Williams reported earnings for the year ended August 31 of only $702,786, against $3,222,733 in the previous fiscal year, but the stock held about steady. Aluminum Co. sagged a point, then recovered. The new Fisk Rubber preferred gained a couple of points.

Electric Power Production Is Greatest Since March

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Production of electric power in the United States last week reached the highest level since the middle of March, the weekly tabulation issued today by the National Electric Light Association showed.

Total production for the week ended October 22 was 1,528,145,000 kilowatt hours, as increased from 1,507,503,000 in the previous week. Compared to the similar week of a year ago, the total showed a recession of only 7.2 per cent, the narrowest divergence from 1931 shown in any week of this year since the week ended February 13. The week ended October 15 had shown a decline of 9 per cent from 1931.

The substantial increase in the October 22 week was largely a normal seasonal development, but it was lacking a year ago, when production declined moderately. In the corresponding weeks of 1930 and 1929 there were increases similar to that of this year.

The New England territory made the most favorable showing, actually reporting a small increase over the like period of last year, amounting to 0.6 of 1 per cent. A week previously it had been only 0.2 of 1 per cent under 1931. The Atlantic Seaboard as a whole, including New England, was only 1.2 per cent under last year, as against 4.7 per cent in the previous week.

The central industrial region was 9.3 per cent under last year, an improvement over the previous week, when the divergence was 11.3 per cent. But the Pacific Coast failed to improve, in comparison with last year. It showed a decline of 9.8 per cent, against 9.4 per cent in the week ended October 15.

New York Central Loadings Increase

Pennsylvania Lines Also Gain in Freight for Last Week.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The New York Central today issued its report of freight car loadings for the week ended October 22, showing a modest gain over the preceding week. Total car loadings for the system were 96,876 against 96,865 the week before. The October 22 week's loadings compared with 113,830 in the corresponding 1931 week, a decline of 15 per cent, while the previous week's total compared with a 1931 figure of 111,198 cars, a decline of 13 per cent.

Cars loaded on its own lines totaled 41,371 against 42,865 the previous week, but the road received from connecting routes 55,505 cars against 54,200 the week before, enough to register a small increase in total loadings for the week.

The freight movement report of the Pennsylvania System also recorded a moderate increase for the week ended October 22 compared with the preceding week. Total loadings were 93,927 against 93,627 the week before. Compared with a year ago, the latest weekly report showed a decline of 22.2 per cent while in the week before the decline was 19.4 per cent. Of Pennsylvania's total loadings, 55,959 consisted of cars loaded on the company's own lines and 37,968 received from interconnections.

New River Power Plant Work Voted

Appalachian Company Gets Order to Resume Construction.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The Appalachian Electric Power Co. was authorized today to proceed with the construction of a $12,000,000 hydroelectric power plant on New River in Pulaski, on which $1,500,000 already has been expended.

In granting permission to construct and operate the plant, the State corporation commission ruled that work must begin in one year and the project must be completed within a period of three years.

Among the restrictions laid down by the commission was the provision that the construction and operation of the dam should not interfere with the stream flow, and that not less than 50,000,000 gallons of water must be discharged daily. The commission further ordered that the power company must make an annual report of cost and expenditures.

M.-K.-T. Head Reports Upturn in Southwest

Kansas City, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Michael H. Cahill, president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, said today an upward trend in business in the Southwest is unmistakable.

"For the second consecutive week," the rail official said, "our carloadings have shown an increase over the corresponding week last year." The Katy loadings last week were 312 ahead of the week before.

BONDS CONTINUE SAG IN DREARY MARKET

Rallies in Foreigns Provided Only Buoyancy in Sale of $7,245,000.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The bond market was unable to see any bright and shining light on the investment horizon today and prices again retreated slightly.

Rallies in the foreign department provided the principal signs of life in another extremely listless session. Sales totaled only $7,245,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans dropped three-tenths of a point.

Rather heavy buying of Australian Commonwealth issues pushed these maturities up 3 to 4 points. The Argentines recovered 2 or more points, and Finland Republic 6½s and 7s advanced 6¾ and 2¾ points, respectively. Gains of 1 to around 2 points were also shown by loans of Germany, Japan and New South Wales. The Canadians eased in sympathy with the Dominion dollar.

Domestic obligations showed little inclination to move very far.

Some railroad liens recovered mildly, but most of them held to a fractional range with losses predominating. Nickel Plate 6s got back 3¼ points of their previous decline, and Norfolk & Western consolidated 4s lost 2½ points. Union Pacific 4s were up 1½.

The utilities and industrials were decidedly mixed. National Dairy 5½s were weak, while bonds of Fisk Rubber, Western Union, United Drug and Lehigh Valley Coal developed quiet strength.

Most of the United States Government division advanced moderately.

Closed Bank Pays Profit After Lapse of 17 Years

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Here's a bank failure with a happy ending.

Stockholders of the First National Bank of Uniontown, which closed in 1915, today received $110,000 in dividend checks—the second and probably the last dividend.

Today's dividend boosts payments to $460 for every $100 share of stock. Depositors long ago were paid $1.16 on the dollar.

The bank, headed by Josiah V. Thompson, former multimillionaire coal operator, closed seventeen years ago when the value of coal lands slumped. Then values skyrocketed with the World War and liquidation was a happy affair.

Chinaware Trade Asks Japan Curb

U. S. Customs Urged to Protect Home Plants Against Imports.

(Associated Press.)

Asserting that manufacturers of china and earthenware were operating at less than 25 per cent of capacity, Charles L. Sebring, president of the Sebring (Ohio) Pottery Co., yesterday urged the Customs Bureau to act to stop the inflow from Japan.

Representing the United States Pottery Association, he told F. X. A. Eble, commissioner of customs, that 100,000 persons were engaged in the industry. He said families of hundreds of workers were being cared for by charities.

Depreciated foreign currencies were named by him as one of the causes of menace to the pottery industry.

Three Railways Voted $7,500,000 in Loans

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday authorized three railroads to borrow a total of approximately $7,500,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway Co., which already has received five loans totaling $5,658,500 was authorized to borrow an additional $338,000 for payment of interest and relaying rails; the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co. was authorized to borrow $1,000,000 to reimburse its treasury for cash expenditures to be made for the purchase and treatment of ties, and the Erie Railroad Co. was authorized to borrow $6,170,-000 for the payment of taxes and interest.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON TRADE'S BUYING

December Closes at 6.31 in 13 to 16 Points Advance; Bombay Orders.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Reactions from an opening advance were followed by renewed firmness in cotton today on continued trade buying and covering promoted by reports of comparatively small offerings from the South and the better tone of the late stock market.

December contracts, after selling off from 6.26 to 6.17, advanced to 6.33 in the late trading, and closed at 6.31, with the general market closing very steady at net gains of 13 to 16 points.

The opening was 7 to 9 points higher in response to the continued steadiness of Liverpool and reports of heavy rains in the central belt. The market eased off at midday in sympathy with the grain and stock markets.

All active months reached the best prices of the day in the late trading when covering was stimulated by rallies in the stock market. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best for the day.

Liverpool Orders Suspected.

Part of the early buying was believed to have come from Liverpool, the continent and through brokers with Far Eastern connections.

Southern selling was not heavy and there were reports that offerings from the interior were lighter with a continued firm basis. The weekly report of the Weather Bureau indicated that picking and ginning had made good progress and were now largely completed except in a few northern sections, but the central belt rains and prospects for rains in the East suggested a further possible delay in the movement.

Liverpool cables reported trade calling and Bombay buying in that market and increased cloth sales by Manchester to India, China and the continents. Exports today, 14,142, making 1,852,064 so far this season. Port receipts, 59,579. United States port stocks, 4,184,211.

Customs Plans to Issue Dumping Order on Acid

(Associated Press.)

A suspicion of dumping order against importation of stearic acid from the Netherlands will be issued by customs appraisers within a day or so.

Commissioner of Customs F. X. A. Eble made this announcement yesterday at conclusion of a hearing in which domestic manufacturers alleged the acid was being dumped into this country from the Netherlands and Rusaia.

WHEAT VALUES SINK LOWEST IN 70 YEARS

Stop-Loss Selling Hopes of Rise Blasted; Winnipeg Prices Drift.

Chicago, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Wheat prices both in Chicago and Winnipeg plunged today to below any bottom heretofore reached since future delivery trading here began 70 years ago.

Big stop-loss selling of wheat by traders who, brokerage gossip said, had bought on expectation that grain values would rise before the presidential election, went hand in hand with a general smash in prices that swept corn, oats and rye as well as wheat to new low records. The chief immediate unsettling factor was official announcement that a government bonus to wheat growers in Canada had been dropped.

Helped by indications of a better export demand for Canadian wheat and United States corn, rallies developed in the late dealings. Wheat closed nervous, ½ to ¾ under yesterday's finish; corn at ⅛ to ½ advance; oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents off.

Canada's Wheat Drifts.

Not only was the bonus policy of the Canadian government as to wheat discontinued, but government-sponsored buying support for the Winnipeg market was also apparently withdrawn, and Canadian prices left to shift for themselves. Inasmuch as for a number of weeks past Canadian wheat prices have been artificially sustained by so-called "pegging" operations, the Canadian government's seeming relinquishment of the task of upholding the Winnipeg market had a decidedly bearish effect here. At first the Chicago response was a break of the present season's low-price record, and then quickly an overturning of the all-time minimum.

Selling of wheat in Chicago appeared to come chiefly from houses with connections East. One house alone executed selling orders for approximately 2,500,000 bushels that was generally believed to show a loss of 10 cents a bushel. Nevertheless, the establishment of a new world record was unattended by any extra tumult in the trading pits, the overnight fall in values amounting to but 1⅜ cents for wheat and less for other grain. Subsequent rallies in prices were promoted by the fact that premiums for United States wheat available for export at the Gulf of Mexico were the highest on the present crop, and that a cargo of hard winter wheat was said to have been purchased there for overseas.

Intimations of good-sized export business in corn put new backbone into corn and oats values as the day neared an end. Provisions averaged lower as a result of sympathy with grains.

Four Hurt Fighting Powder Plant Fire

Ammonia Nitrate House Is Wrecked by Mighty Explosion.

Gibbstown, N. J., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Four workmen, fighting a fire in the ammonia nitrate house at the plant of the E. I. duPont de Nemours Powder Co., were injured today in an explosion which wrecked the building. Three of the injured are Kenneth Wigglesworth, John Johnson, and Joseph Burnell. They were taken to a hospital.

Witnesses said the workmen were standing on top of a 10-foot embankment which surrounds the nitrate house at the eastern end of the plant along the Delaware River, and were battling the flames when the blast occurred.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. Officials of the company said they believed the explosion occurred when the flames ignited the nitrate fumes in the house, which is used to crystallize ammonia.

Promotion Places Own Appeals Before Judge

Promotion of Judge Charles W. Woodward from the police court to the circuit court bench of Montgomery County, Md., has resulted in an interesting situation. Nearly 100 appeals from his police court decisions are on the docket of the circuit court, which begins its term next month. The judge is barred by law from considering appeals from his own decisions.

The cases probably will be tried by Judge D. Willard, of Frederick County, which also is a part of the sixth judicial circuit. Selection of veniremen, from whom grand jury and jury members at the court term will be chosen, will be held today by Judge Woodward, in accordance with the ancient custom of the county.

Episcopal Convocation To Open in Marlboro

Representatives of Episcopal churches in southern Maryland will meet in Trinity Church, Marlboro, today for the annual Southern Convocation of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Washington.

Clerical and lay delegates from Trinity Church and the parishes of Queen Anne, St. Paul, St. Thomas, Epiphany, King George and St. John in Prince Georges County will be present, as well as others from churches in St. Marys and Charles counties. Missionary work in the territory will be among subjects discussed.

$30,000 Suit Is Withdrawn.

The suit of Mrs. Lucille Groves, of Cottage City, against the Washington Suburban Gas Co. was withdrawn yesterday as the case neared the end of its trial in Prince Georges County Circuit Court. Attorneys for the woman reserved the right to bring it to trial again, however. Mrs. Groves is asking $30,000 for injuries she suffered when she fell into an excavation near her home.

Two Marylanders Held on Rum Count.

Painters Set Limit On 8-Hour Jobs

Agree to Work Until Nov. 11; Shorter-Day Demand Is Rejected.

Painting work on three Government projects which was threatened with a "walkout" of union painters when their demand for a 6-hour day was refused by employers, will continue for two weeks. Members of local 368 of the painter's union last night voted to work on the 8-hour day until November 11.

However, during the period of respite, their representatives will attempt to have employers meet their 6-hour day demand. George Finger has been appointed chairman of a committee to confer with the employers.

The union is asking the shorter day as a means to provide employment for more of its members. Contractors have objected to the plan because it meant a change in work schedules. Buildings affected by the dispute are the new Business High School, the House Office Building and the addition to Freedmen's Hospital.

Darby Under Bond On Bank Charges

Is Held for Baltimore Trial After Entering Plea of Not Guilty.

John C. Darby, former assistant cashier of the Montgomery County National Bank, yesterday was held for removal to Baltimore under a $3,000 bond when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage on an indictment returned against him in Baltimore.

The indictment, in sixteen counts, charges Darby with making false entries in the bank while he was an officer. He entered a plea of not guilty.

Commissioner Turnage directed Darby to post a $3,000 bond to guarantee his presence in Baltimore on November 28 for trial. The bond was posted. The indictment was returned last week and was served on Darby Saturday. He makes his home at 3510 Macomb street northwest.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

SIMON BOLIVAR, whose leadership in revolt among South American nations against Spain won for him the official title of liberator in six of those nations, is recognized as the greatest leader in the movement for freedom of South America. A comparison is often drawn between him and George Washington which shows, although at variance in parts, the striking similarity between the careers of the two men.

The liberator Bolivar, however, once condemned to execution 886 Spaniards who were prisoners at La Guaira—an act which was, if it can be defended at all, one of reprisal against the horrors said to have been committed by the enemy in defenseless villages.

* * * *

Although they faced teams picked from student bodies of four to five thousands, the Carlisle Indians, an all-Indian eleven picked from 250 boys of football age, took on one after another of the big teams in football for 15 years—and scored notable victories over almost all of them.

The Indians' record of victories against the best teams in the country is amazing. In 1907 they downed Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Harvard and Chicago by impressive scores, losing only to the unbeaten Pittsburgh team. In 1912 they beat Pittsburgh, Toronto U., Lehigh, West Point by big scores, and lost only to Pennsylvania.

THOUSANDS TO PAY TRIBUTE TO NAVY IN CELEBRATION TODAY

Displays Set at D. C. Yard, in Anacostia and at Alexandria.

The dogs of war will be on exhibition today in honor of the traditions of the American Navy.

Navy Day will be celebrated at every navy yard and station throughout the Nation.

The myriad activities of the first line of defense will be open to the public's inspection.

In Washington the focal point will be at the navy yard, but there will be special attractions at other points—the Anacostia Naval Air Station and the Naval Observatory. At Alexandria's naval torpedo station exhibitions will be provided.

A program featuring the frigate Constitution, an aerial show, deep sea diving, band concerts and numerous demonstrations in the naval gun factory will be in progress at the navy yard from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m.

Aerial Parade.

A aerial parade of all standard types of Navy combat planes will feature the cleebration at the naval air station. Combat planes will be launched from catapults at the navy yard.

Visitors will be guided through the yard by Bluejackets, Marines and Boy Scouts. Parking facilities have been provided for 2,600 automobiles.

Many schools have made requests for reservations to visit the yard in groups, according to Capt. Frank B. Berrien, in charge of the day's festivities. Navy officials anticipate a breaking of last year's record attendance of 137,040 persons.

Ceremony at Statue.

Solemn observance of the occasion will take place at the statue of John Paul Jones, "Father of the American Navy," at Seventeenth street and the Tidal Basin.

There Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries will deliver an address on "Adequate Naval Defense" before an allied group of veteran and patriotic societies.

The exercises will be under the joint auspices of the Military Order of the World War, the National Sojourners, the District Sons of the American Revolution and other groups. They will begin at 12:30 p. m. with a concert by the Marine Band. Wreaths will be placed at the foot of the statue.

Alexandria Program.

The celebration in Alexandria will present several novel features, including the bombing of King street by a bombing plane, the "bombs" being rubber balls and miniature parachutes; an exhibition of deep-sea diving from the U. S. S. Cormorant, a mine sweeper; the firing of a modern torpedo from the Naval Torpedo Station dock, and the firing of a naval gun from the same place.

The huge torpedo station building will be open to the public from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. The minesweeper Cormorant will be at the dock and open for inspection from 9 to 11:45 a. m., and from 1 to 4 p. m. The exhibition of deep-sea diving will be given at 11 a. m., 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 p. m., and the firing of the torpedo and naval gun will be at 10:30 and 11:30 a. m., 1, 2, 3, and 3:45 p. m. The bombing of King street will take place at 12:30 p. m.

It is intended for the rubber bals and parachutes used in the bombing to be retrieved by children, and those presenting them at the torpedo station will be given souvenir torpedoes. Gun souvenirs will be presented to children accompanied by parents.

Several high ranking naval officers will attend the Alexandria celebration and, after viewing the bombing of King street, will be guests of the Kiwanis Club at luncheon in the George Mason Hotel. Among them are Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, former chief of operations; Rear Admiral James B. Glennon, retired; Commander Thomas Harrison, U. S. Naval Reserves; Lieut. John N. Opie, officer in charge of the naval torpedo station; and Lieut. R. B. Tomkins, commanding the U. S. S. Cormorant. Purvis Taylor is program chairman for the luncheon.

Auto-Theft Suspect Is Returned Here

Alleged Member of Gang Is Charged With Using Notes to Get Cars.

John Beck, 36, of Jersey City, N. J., an alleged member of a Nation-wide gang of auto thieves, who are said to have stolen and sold more than $1,000,000 worth of automobiles, was brought back from Philadelphia yesterday by Detective Sergt. Henry M. Jett to face several charges of auto theft in Washington.

A charge of grand larceny was placed against Beck, and a further investigation into the activities of the auto ring in this city was started by the Detective Bureau. A second alleged member of the ring, who gave his name as Holland Edward Peterson, 28, of 1733 Twentieth street northwest, is being held in Philadelphia with several charges against him.

According to police, Beck was said to have scanned local newspapers and approached persons who advertised their cars for sale. Representing himself as a resident of the city and an employe of a new and large company, he was said to have persuaded the owner of the car to sign over the title to him on his promissory note to pay the agreed price.

Washington Doctor is Honored.

Appointment of Dr. Luther Dicus, Washington optometrist, of 1319 E street northwest, as a member of the National Advisory Commission on vision for motor drivers, has been announced by the American Optometric Association, Inc., of which the former group is an auxiliary.

La Fontaine Liberated In Shooting of Woman

A charge of assault with a dangerous weapon against Millard E. La Fontaine was dismissed in Police Court yesterday when Judge John P. McMahon held that the failure of two persons to identify him as the man who shot Edna Harris, colored, October 8, was sufficient to clear him of the shooting.

The Harris woman was shot as she sat in front of her home on Virginia avenue southwest. An automobile that drove by at the time contained a man, she said, who had done the shooting, but no one saw the gunman.

PROGRESS ON CURES OF DREAD DISEASES TOLD BY DR. M'COY

Health Association Chooses Indianapolis as Next Meeting Place.

Progress in finding cures for cancer, tuberculosis and other diseases was described to the American Public Health Association yesterday by Dr. George W. McCoy, director of the National Institute of Health, of this city.

Dr. McCoy, in reporting for the laboratory section of the association, observed that cancer, pneumonia, tuberculosis, nephritis and heart disease continue to take their toll in spite of the best efforts to learn how to prevent or cure them.

"We are looking to the general biologist, the physicist, and the chemist in increasing measure to help in the study of our problems," Dr. McCoy told the association. He expressed the hope that "the new orientation now going on in the field of biologic research may lead us to a better understanding of these and many other diseases."

Claims for Injury.

Results of a survey showing the effects of the depression on industrial hygiene were presented to the association by Dr. Alice Hamilton, assistant professor of industrial medicine at the Harvard School of Public Health.

The wide spread of unemployment, Dr. Hamilton warned, "will result in a much larger number of unwarranted and exaggerated claims for alleged injury. She declared that this should be vigorously apposed or the working class will suffer from "discrediting laws."

Inclusion of nursing care in communicable disease was recommended by Miss Helen LaMalle, superintending of the nursing service of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. She urged cooperation between health officers and private organization nursing services in this direction.

School Nursing Services.

A special committee appointed to investigate the report of the White House conference on child health and protection, sponsored by President Hoover, found fault with the emphasis placed on education department direction for all medical and nursing services in the school.

Belief was expressed in the report that well organized health department services cooperating with educational personnel in all educational activities is often more beneficial than education department control.

Indianapolis was chosen as the next meeting place by the executive council meeting late yesterday afternoon. The following officers were elected: Dr. John A. Ferrell, of the Rockefeller Foundation, New York, president; Dr. Haven Emerson, of Columbia University, president-elect; Dr. Arthur McCormick, health commissioner, of Kentucky, first vice president; Dr. John Sundwall, of the University of Michigan, second vice president; Dr. W. P. Shepard, of San Francisco, third vice president, and Dr. Thomas Parran, jr., health commissioner of the State of New York, treasurer.

Conservation Contest.

Awards in a health conservation contest conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Public Health Association, were announced last night at a banquet of the Western branch of the association. The awards are given to cities divided into groups according to population for the best standing in relation to certain health standards.

The awards were: Group 1, Milwaukee; group 2, Rochester; group 3, New Haven; group 4, Evanston, Ill.; group 5, Brookline, Mass., and group 6, La Salle, Ill.

Five hundred delegates from the association cheered President Hoover when they were protographed with the Chief Executive on the White House lawn yesterday. President Hoover was also photographed with a delegation of railroad surgeons. He addressed the Public Health Association Monday night. The meeting of the association will end today. Sessions are being held at the Willard, the convention headquarters.

Court Approves Dance Of All States Society

The Halloween dance at the Willard Hotel, planned by the All States Society, of which Elmer E. Field is president, will be staged under that name, Justice Oscar R. Luhring decided yesterday in District Supreme Court. However, after that dance the society will be precluded from the use of that name until a final hearing on the petition of another society of the same name to obtain an injunction.

The other organization, headed by W. E. Hoffheins, went to court to prohibit its rival from using the All States name. By consent of counsel, the more recently organized group may not use the name pending a final hearing November 10 on the petition by the original All States to obtain the injunction.

Alvin Holcombe, 27, allegedly caught by police in the act of looting a cash register of the Home Plate Filling Station at 2045 Georgia avenue, Monday night, was held for grand jury action yesterday in Police Court. His bond was fixed at $1,000.

Henry J. Horner, owner of the station, said he had left $1.26 in pennies in the register, and police said the same number were in the man's pocket when arrested. Holcombe told the court that he had entered the station to call the owner and that he had seen a colored man running from the place.

Armed Assailant Enters Home, Begging Meal; Knocks Down, Binds and Gags Housewife and Escapes With Contents of Purse.

A young, neatly dressed robber entered the home of Mrs. Lottie Gold, 40, of 1448 Park road northwest, yesterday on the pretext of begging money for a meal, and drawing a gun, assaulted and robbed her of $300.

Mrs. Gold told police that she was preparing to leave home and deposit the money in a bank, when the bandit knocked on the door. He told her that he wanted money, and she offered him 15 cents.

The young man struck without warning, throwing Mrs. Gold to the ground and threatening her with a revolver, forced her into the bathroom, where he bound her hands and used a handkerchief to gag her. According to police, he struck the defenseless woman several times.

Ransacking the apartment the bandit took the money from Mrs. Gold's purse and ran from the house. Mrs. Gold managed to free herself from her bonds and summoned aid.

Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Hear Five-and-Ten Idea Outlined.

Richmond Keech, Peoples Counsel for the District of Columbia, was chief speaker at a meeting of the Rhode Island Citizens Association last night, held at Twenty-second street and Rhode Island avenue northeast.

Advocating the zoning of the street car companies, Mr. Keech spoke on the possibilities of a central and outer zone, with five and ten-cent fares, respectively. The central zone would include a mile radius from the hub of business activities, and the outer zone would include all other territory to the District line.

Other guests present at the meeting were W. H. Luefs, president of the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association; Marvin McClean, of the Brookland Association; John Stockard, of the Burroughs Association; David Bapb, secretary of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and William R. Thirty-five new members were admitted to the association. President E. G. Sievers presided. Following the business session refreshments were served by the ladies.

F. R. GORDON LOSES $10,000 JUDGMENT

Real Estate Operator Must Pay Claim to Lawyer, Court Rules.

A jury in the court of Justice Jesse C. Adkins, of the District Supreme Court, yesterday awarded Oscar O. Thomas, a lawyer, of Takoma Park, Md., $10,000 damages from Fulton R. Gordon, prominent real estate operator, for malicious abuse of legal process.

The verdict was made up of $9,900 for punitive damages and $100 compensatory damages. Thomas originally filed suit against Gordon, who resides at 3220 Patterson street northwest, for $250,000.

Through Attorney H. Mason Welch, of Welch, Daily & Welch, Thomas showed the jury that he had been arrested on a warrant obtained by Gordon and Garrett L. Brown, on a charge of larceny after trust of $100. This charge, it was shown, was dismissed in Police Court the next day.

It was on this arrest that Thomas brought suit, claiming that there had been an abuse of legal process. The arrest was on April 8, 1929. The controversy, it was charged, over which the warrant was issued had been adjudicated in favor of Thomas in the Municipal Court some time before the warrant was procured.

Attorneys Vernon Lowry and Frank J Kelly, who appeared for Mr. Gordon, said they planned to file a motion for a new trial. The case required about a week to try and the jury was forced to deliberate eight hours before arriving at a verdict.

Decision was made by the audience to place permanent memorials to Mr. Foster in the National Baptist Church here, which he founded, and in the Christian Endeavor headquarters in Boston. These memorials will probably be in the form of bronze plaques.
